Born To Be Wild

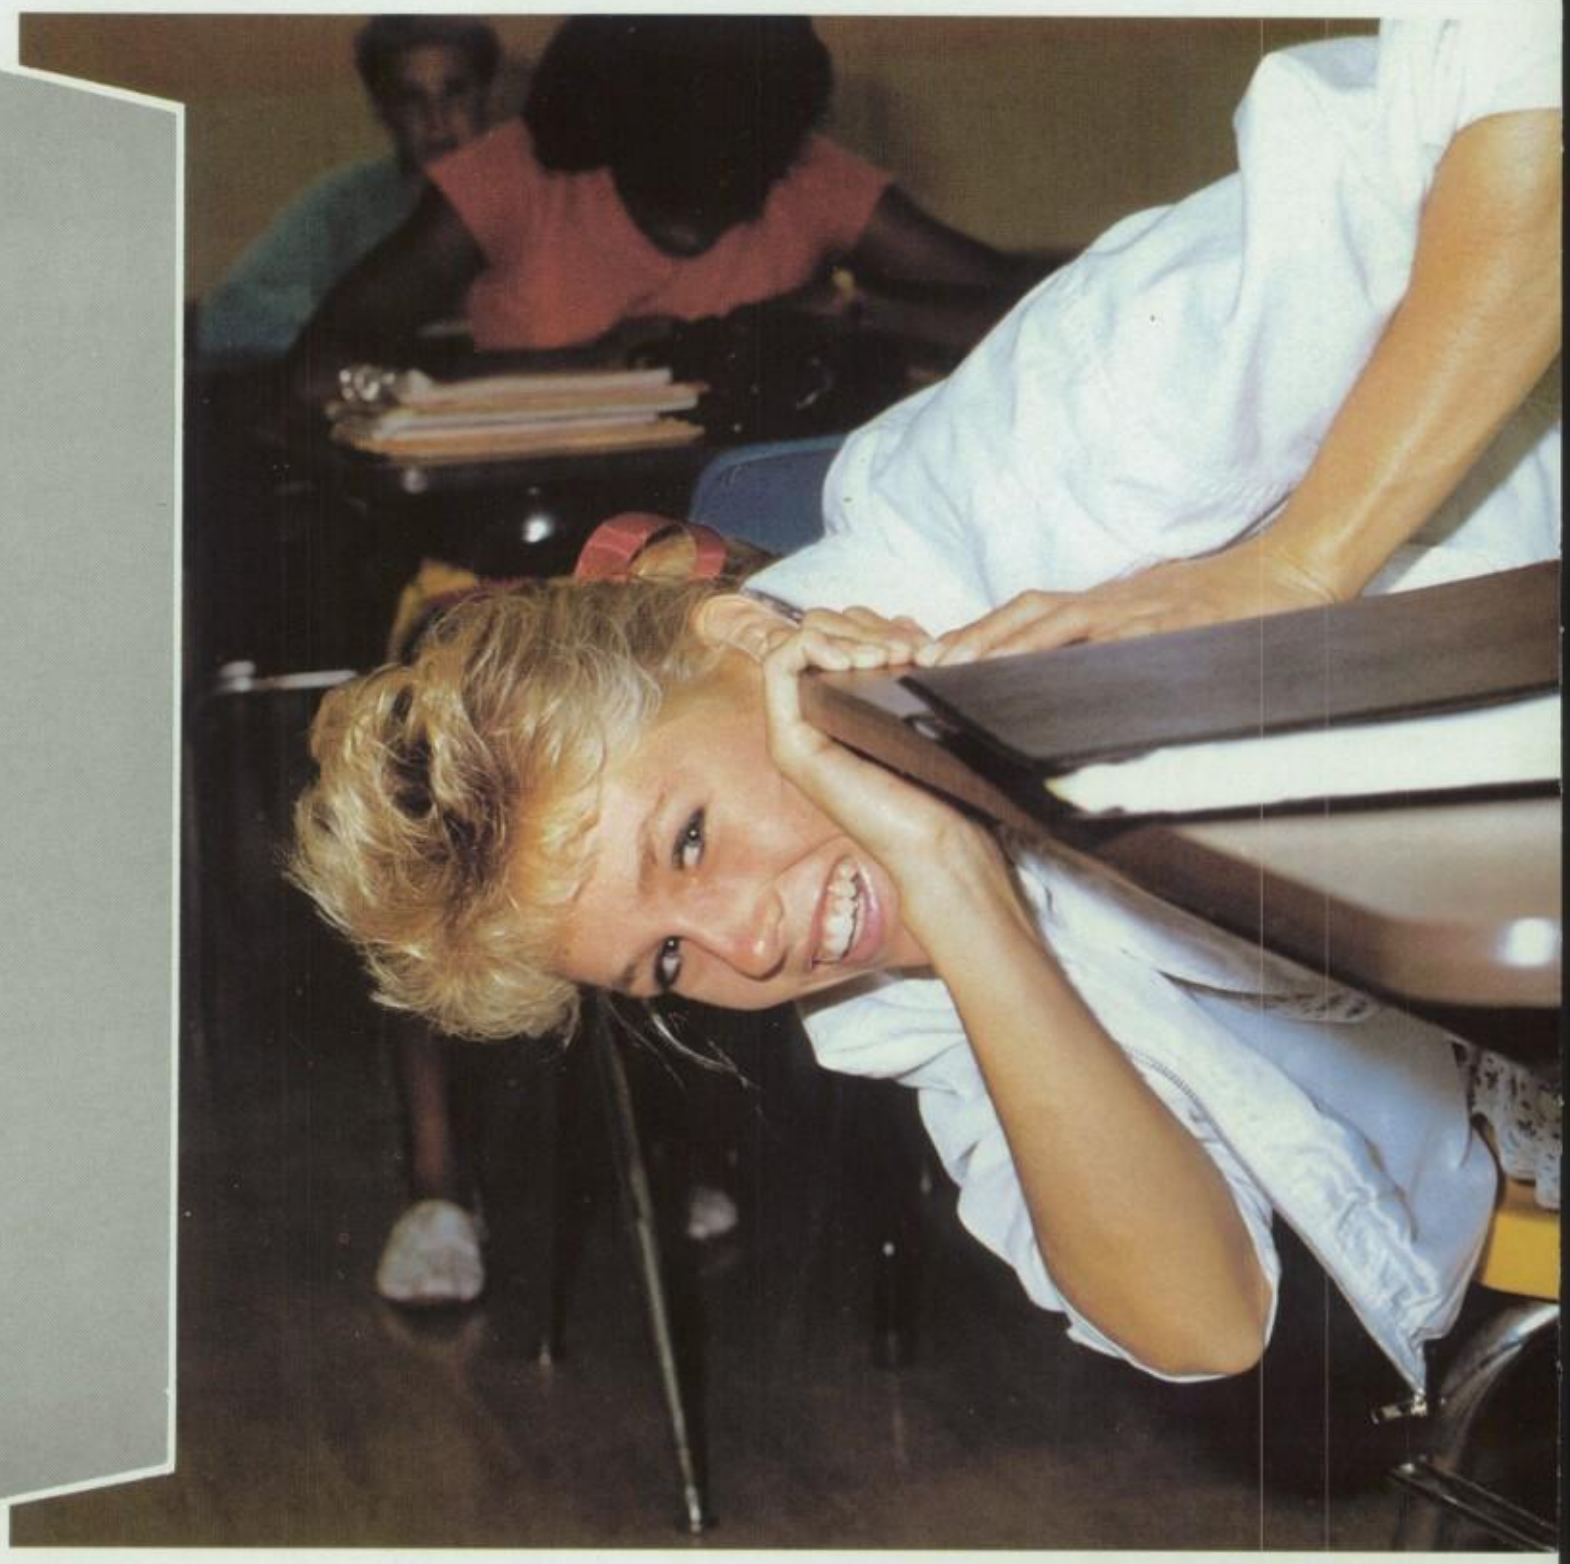
This yearbook — full of WILD activities, untamed pride, crazy impulses — is all for you. Pictures and stories describe it all. A little bit of each of you fills these pages to make the WILDEST yearbook we've ever made!

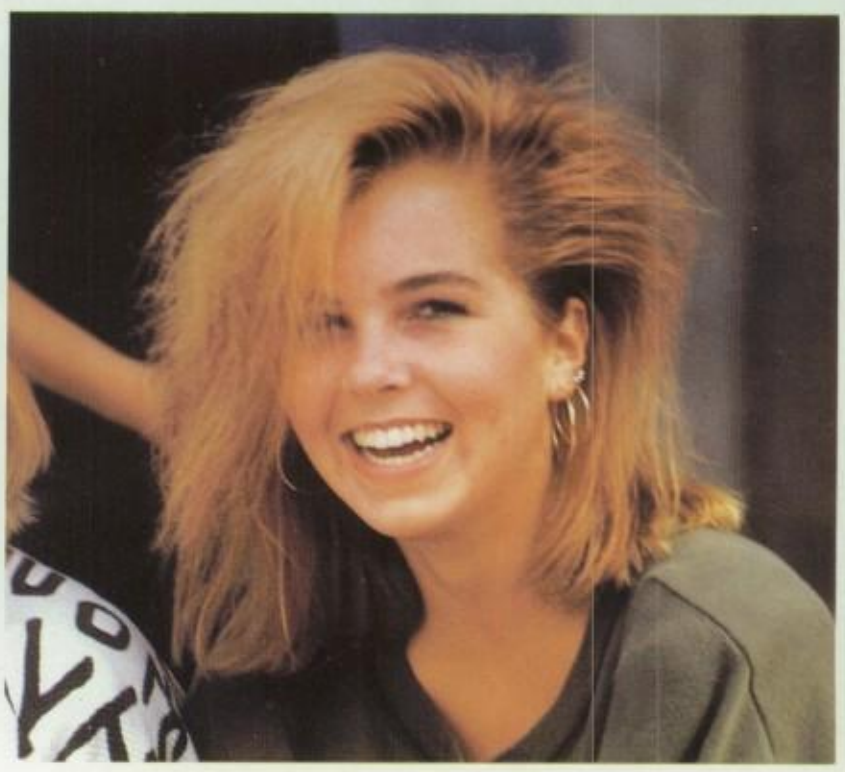
Enjoy the pictures and the stories! Laugh, smile, remember. Seniors, juniors, sophomores, and freshmen — the 1986-1987 school year is over. Seniors, it was the only senior year that you'll ever have. Underclass, you're moving up to that all-important senior status. It was a year worth remembering. And so this is the year in review — well, the year with a few twists . . . a few surprises!

Just enjoy and relax! The year is over! It's time to celebrate!

And, knowing how we all are, it's time to party! We just can't be stopped! We were BORN TO BE WILD!

BORN TO BE





WILD!

Have you ever had the urge to run through the Math Hall screaming, "The sky is falling! The sky is falling!"

Well, how about this one then — have you ever found yourself to be completely and uncontrollably crazy? Are you the type who, when given the essay assignment "Explain, with examples, how an authoritarian government restricts human rights to keep control over its citizens," wrote about how your parents grounded you for missing curfew? Are you the type who lives for the weekends? Do you ever find your cure for boredom to be a little bit . . . unusual?

If you answered yes to any of these questions, YOU are a WILD individual! You're a member of the Doughnut Generation (making periodic runs during 2nd period)! You probably have no idea what lunches are like at school, preferring charbroiled to cremated. Pep ralleys are a chance for you to scream and to prove that you are the loudest and the proudest!

And of course, when it comes to the weekends, you are the craziest person around! Dancing away the night at Old World, spending an evening out on the town with a friend, or enjoying the company of the most beautiful, most kind, most warm date you've ever met, you find a way to make the weekend something to remember!

For some, none of the questions applied to you. Maybe you listen to WILD music, wear clothes that make you stand out in a crowd, or just have a unique idea of what life should be like! But everyone has a wild side!

And everyone's wild is okay because everyone is wild in their own way! Let's face it — our generation and our school were BORN TO BE WILD!!!

LISTEN ! I HEAR SOME

Music — it was made for us! When driving to school, doing our homework, or dancing the weekend away, we fill our ears and our minds with the latest in sounds. Whether it's the rocking sound of Dokken and Kiss, the rapping beat of Run DMC, the synthesized sound of Depeche Mode and Japan, or the classical sounds of Wagner, music is perfect for any occasion!

Music reflects in everything we do. It can cause people to come together or to stay apart. For some people it can be just something in the background, while for others it can affect their whole life and even their mode of dress. And of course there is always going to be an 'our song,' a song that means a great deal to us and brings back some special memories. Think about it, in 20 years what will be our 'good old songs' be? Will we be listening to Run DMC or the Sex Pistols on KBIG? And what will our kids be listening to?!?

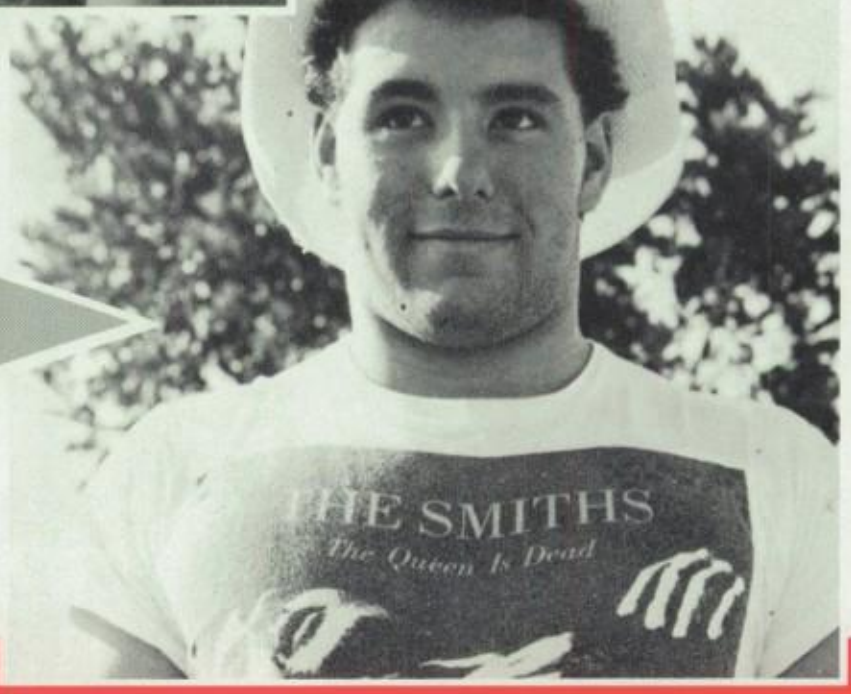
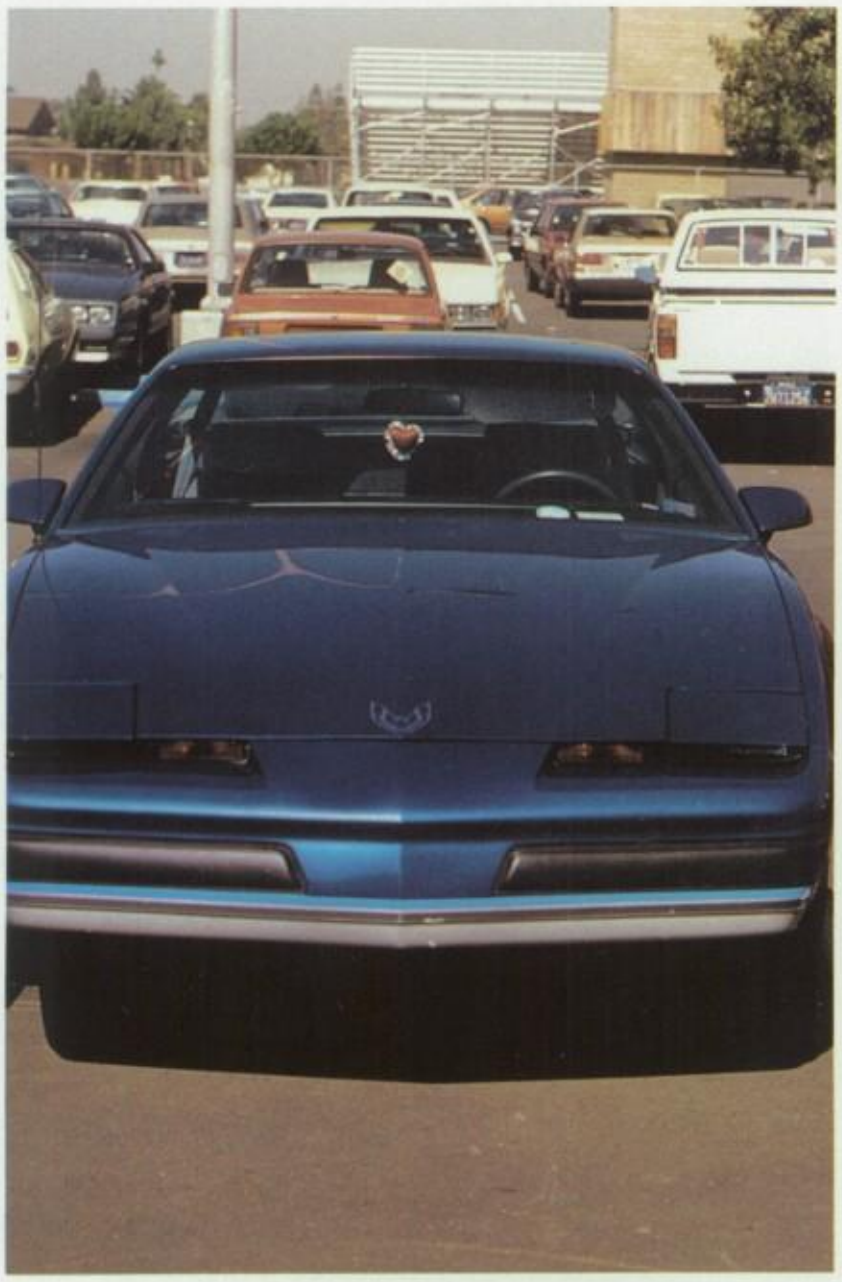
Music will always change, but no matter what form it takes it will still be there and still be a part of our lifestyle, no matter how wild it gets.



THING WILD!



BORN TO

VROOOM! The engine jumps to life with untamed energy . . . Our cars, our toys, our babies — as essential to us as the air we breathe — are an absolute necessity. They get us where we want to go — and FAST!

Mom said to be home at 12:00 — it's 11:58. Pedal meets metal as we speed home and arrive at precisely 11:59 and thirty seconds. The loyal automobile has come through again.

Whether it's racing home, just racing, or weekend cruising with the gang, our cars can be our best friends. Vehicles demonstrate our personalities with flair and flamboyance or with elegance and subtlety. A rowdy red Camaro parked next to a sleek, smooth Audi reminds us of the diversity at Fountain Valley. Everybody has the same need — mobility — but we all say it with our own unique style. No matter how differently we express it, we were all BORN TO BE WILD!

RUN!

Anxiety fills the air as the clock ticks away the seconds. Soon, the first period bell will ring. The engine revs as your foot becomes heavy on the accelerator. You've been tardy to first period nine times; on the tenth tardy, you'll be dropped from the class, your parents will kill you, and you'll be generally miserable.

Sitting in your prized car (which you have just waxed) you contemplate this. You could just give up and go to the beach.

No, you've got to make it. You shift into fourth as you turn into the parking lot. At forty miles an hour the speed bumps become speed mountains, throwing your car ten feet into the air. Finally, you reach your parking space and slam your foot on the brake.

You discover that at forty miles an hour, slamming your foot on the brake is not a brilliant idea. After pulling your face from the steering wheel in which it is now embedded, you step out of your car, slamming the door behind you.

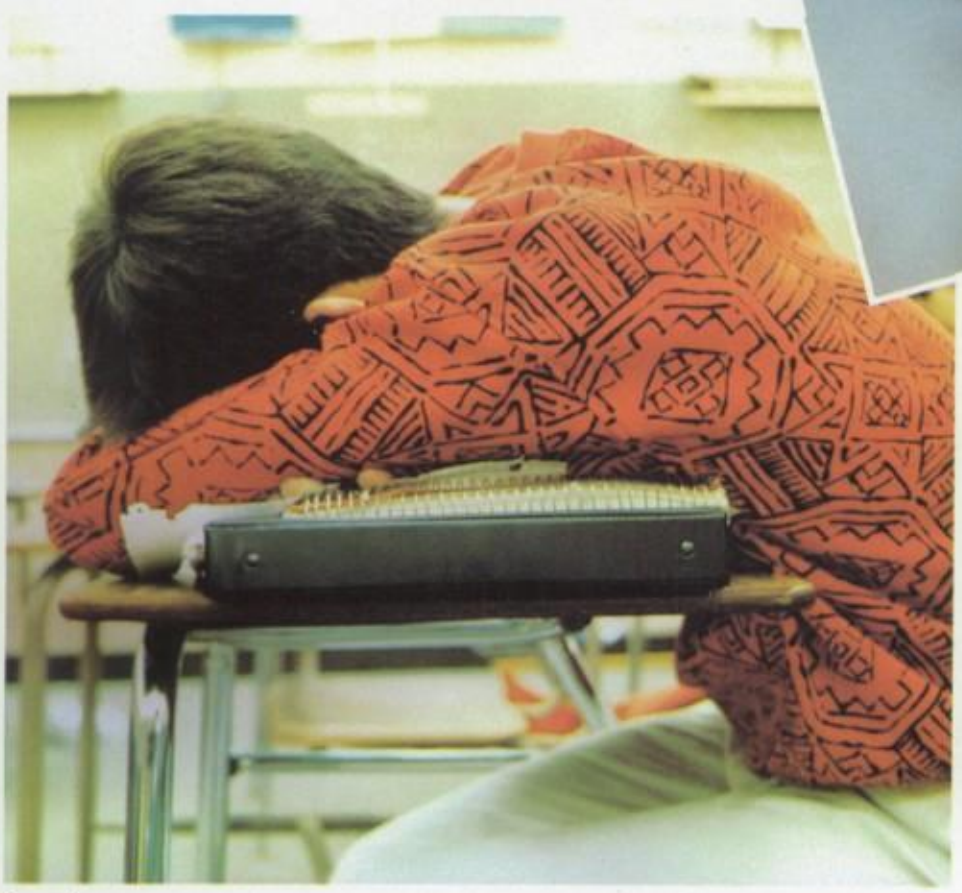
In the distance, you hear the bell ring. Horrible, tragic thoughts enter your mind — you're tardy again. You push the thoughts back into the dark corner that they crawled from with a smile. You shrug. How can you help it? You were born to run!

TRUE LOVE

What is "True Love?"
A Concept.
An Idea.
A cold night with a warm person.
Honesty.
Committment.
Trust.
A best friend.
A dream.
A reality.

What is "True
Love"?
Everything.

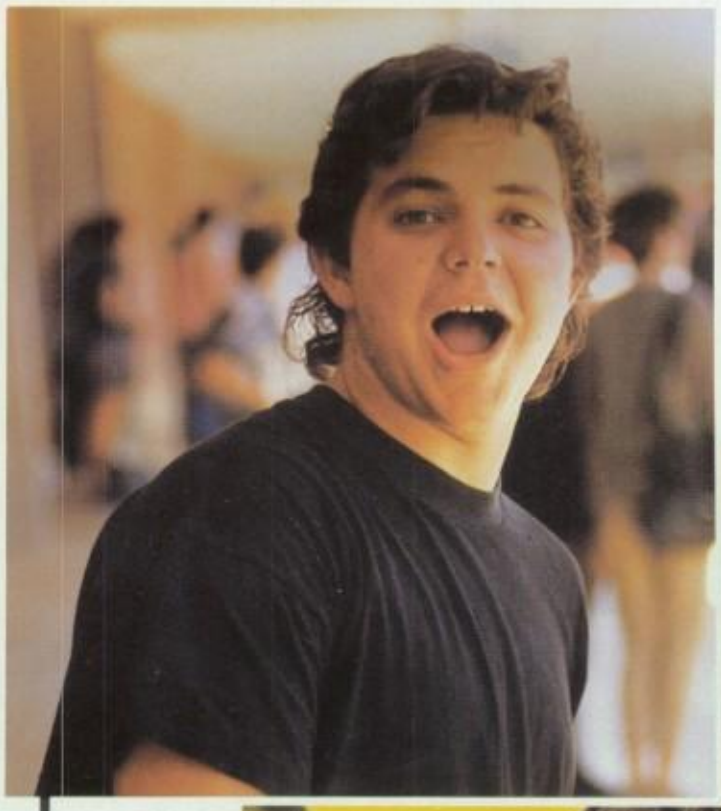
I Don't Like Mondays

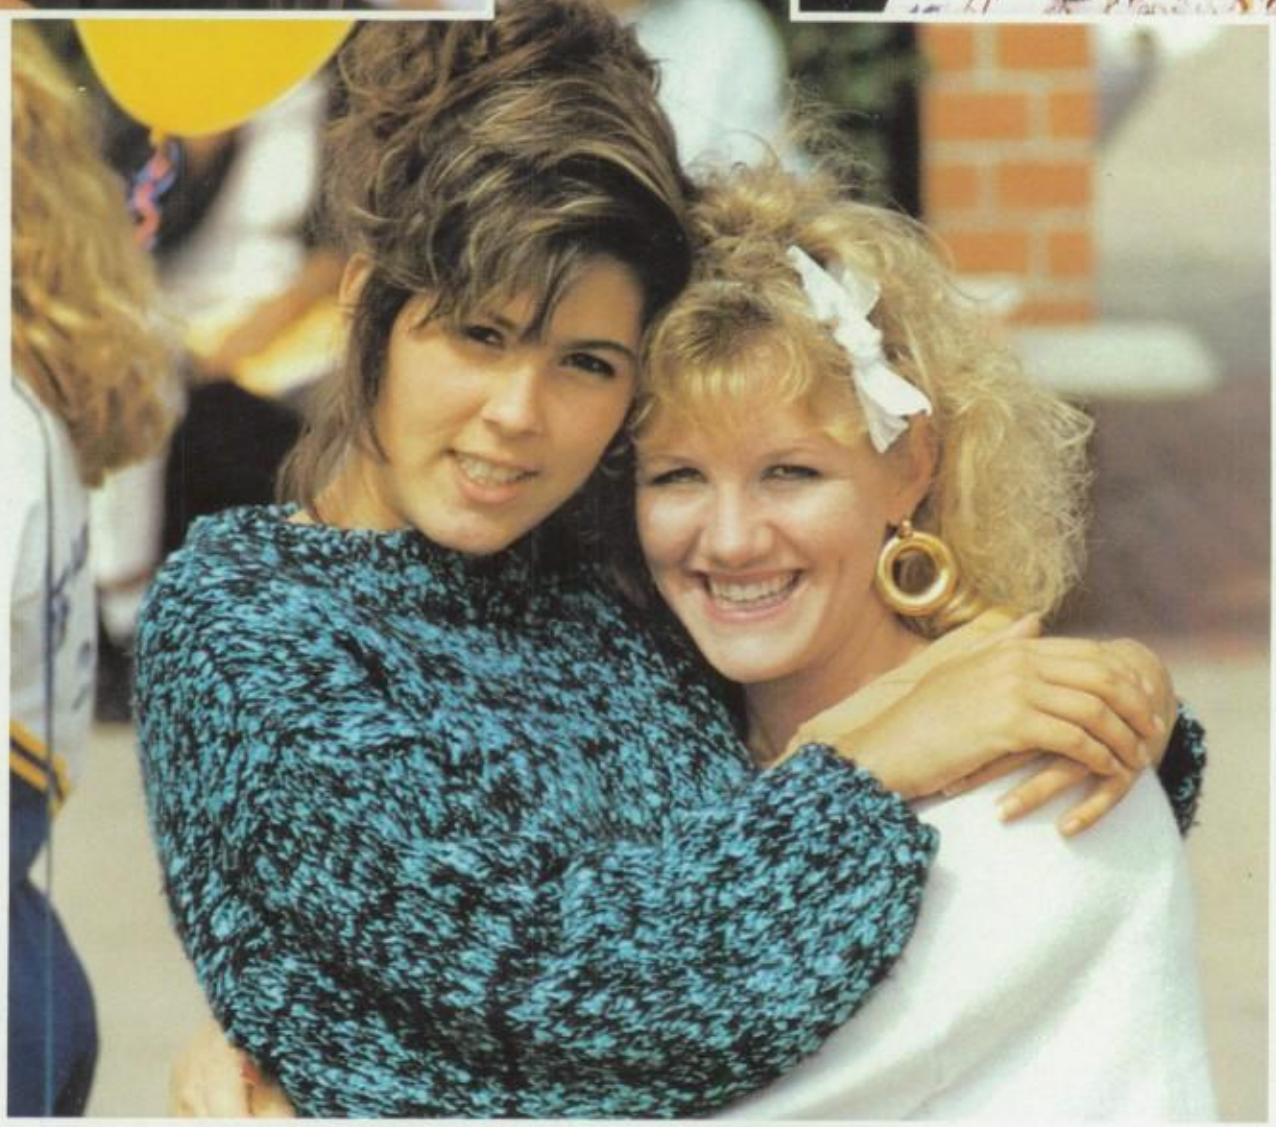


Oh sure, the day started out normally. You awoke to the buzzing of your dog and the bark of your alarm. Angerly hitting the snooze button on your dog, you dragged yourself to the shower. You decided that you'd take an extra long shower even though your mother had warned you that you were using too much hot water. Unfortunately, she predicted this; halfway through your shower, as shampoo slid down your face and into your eyes, the water was shut off.

With your soapy head in your hands, you looked into the future — a major test in every class, three essays, a major history project, and a cafeteria burrito. Quietly, dejectedly, you hissed, "I don't like Mondays!"

But Here Comes Friday





But then there have been those magical days — those days when you shut the water off on your mother — FRIDAYS! Those days felt especially good. On Fridays, you braved the boring lectures, knowing that soon school would be out.

When the bell rung, you drove home. Your stereo blaring, the wind rushing through your hair, you took a sharp turn on to your block. Over the music and the screeching of your tires, your neighbors heard your distinct scream of victory.

"I LOVE WEEKENDS!!!"

The Party Rages!

It's taken you three long years to get where you are today. You've worked slow and hard to earn this title. At the start, you were a freshman with no clue as to how high school life should be lived. The social scene was a mystery. Gradually, bits of the puzzle fell together. You were supposed to go to pizza after the football games and not to have mom come pick you up. In your sophomore year, a test and a piece of rectangular paper (with a horrible picture of you on it) gave you mobility. A car — a life. Now you were totally hip. As a junior, an official upperclassman, you were in control. Your car was hot, and your attitude was cool because you were on your way to the top.

Senior. Finally. Your sentence is ended; your time served. Time to kickback and relax. Now comes your time — a time for good friends and loud crazy laughter. Get out and get wild! Unwind and let loose! You deserve it. If you've got the time, we've got the action! Class of '87.

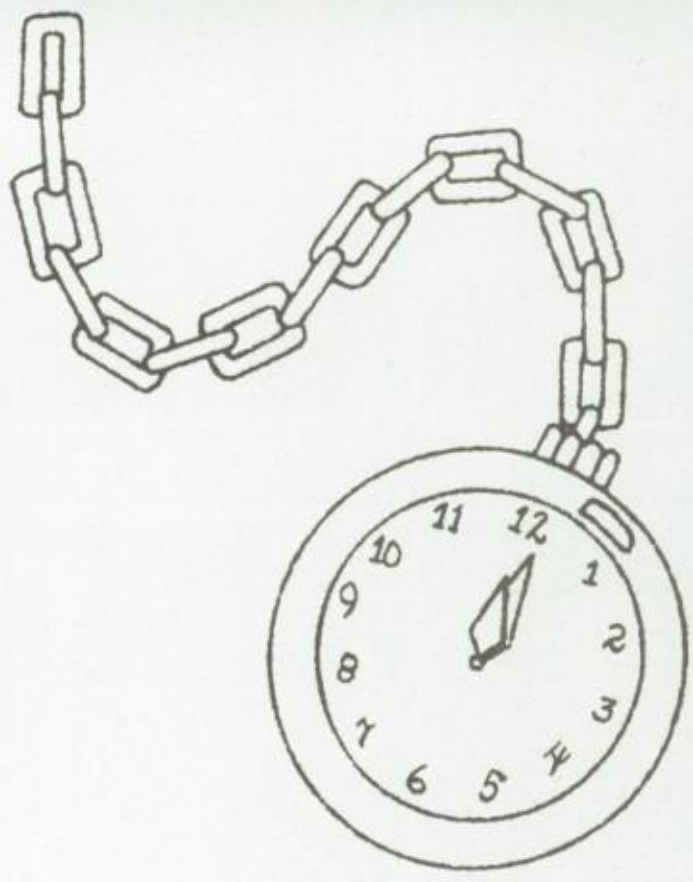
A SLAVE



"Be home by midnight," mom calls sounding like the fairy god mother from the Cinderella Fairy tale.

"But Mom!"

"No buts!"

"But . . . (sigh) okay mom," you surrender, shrugging dejectedly as you leave. Why 12:00? You ask yourself. Jenny doesn't have to be in until 1:00, Jim's got until 2:00, and Bob doesn't even have a curfew! Midnight! — Who does my mom think she is?

But mom's got a few good reasons. 12:00 A.M. the time of the living dead, of blood sucking bats, vampires, witches, and other forms of malignancy and evil! The midnight hour is no time to be out running around! Mom is saving you! Jim, Jenny, and Bob are on their own to battle the elements. Mom will make sure you survive! You are going home — a slave to the clock.

What's the coolest fad around these days? That's right — frozen yogurt! This delicious new dessert is popping up everywhere! It's in the malls, the plazas, and snack bars. Frozen yogurt places are taking over the city! The popularity of yogurt has seized ice cream lovers and turned them into frozen fanatics. Baskin-Robbins stores are becoming unheard of. "Bas-what? Let's hurry and go to Penguins before it gets too crowded!"

Frozen yogurt is the dessert. It's smooth and delicious and low in calories; "pigging out" won't burst the seams of your tighter than tight blue jeans.

Sometimes "pigging out" is unavoidable because there are so many luscious flavors of frozen yogurt and such a great variety of yummy toppings. Sweet strawberry ice decorated with ripe red fruit is calling you. Rich crumbs of delectable chocolate brownies scream to you from atop a mountain of vanilla. Heed the call. Be cool and dig in!

HEARD IT

Johnnie woke up at six o'clock this morning to the sound of his clock radio playing one of his favorite groups: Bon Jovi. He then put in his Van Halen tape as he jumped into the shower. On the way to school he listened to his Cure tape and then switched it to Depeche Mode. Between classes he listened to U2 and the Smiths on his walkman and then went home and did his homework to the latest Vandals tape.

Johnnie, of course, isn't a real person. He is just a character, but his tastes do reflect the tastes of the Senior class according to our poll. Everybody has different tastes in music, whether they like synthesizer bands such as Depeche Mode or rock bands such as Bon Jovi, and all these tastes usually don't come together in the same person. Along the same lines, everybody has their own favorite concert. Some of the Senior Class favorite concerts this year were Dokken, Depeche Mode, Iron Maiden, The Smiths, and the Monkees. Seniors may have different tastes, but one thing is for sure — they love their music!

"Are you in the right locker?" a timid freshman asks shyly.

"Are you in your right mind? Of course this is my locker!"

"But," the freshman continues, "it's number 2832, and that's supposed to be mine."

The senior, Greg, asks innocently, "We have assigned lockers?"

The freshman nods.

Greg reflects on all of the things he did yesterday — all of them against school rules. After fourth period, he bopped off campus to the beat of his favorite tune, playing on his "illegal" walkman. The tardy bell rang at 12:45, but that didn't bother Greg as he casually strolled into class at 1:04, still finishing his Coke and Cinnamon Crispas from Del Taco.

No big deal, he had thought then. In reflecting on yesterday, he still agrees. No big deal. To seniors, rules are obsolete.

YUMMMM!

Pizza — Hot and dripping with mozzarella, smothered with thick, rich, red sauce and garnished with spicy pepperoni — is a teenagers' sole sustenance. Coca-Cola, bubbly and refreshing, makes teens thrive. However, these two life givers have certain conditions under which they are best enjoyed.

1. A combination of the two main ingredients is essential after winning the homecoming game.

2. You've gotta have a coke after eating a candy bar from Mrs. Barkawi's class.

3. All the studs feel the need to cool down with a coke after they've accidentally bumped into the "babe" next to their locker.

4. After passing one of the Algebra 2/Trig tests, cheesey pizza and smooth coke are the only way to celebrate.

5. Eating hot pizza while drinking a cup of cool coke is an absolute must when celebrating the weekend!

SENIOR SLANG

Favorites

"chill out" — v. relax, maintain. Generally used in extremely stressful situations. You just totalled your brand new sport car, and now you have to face your parents. Your best friend comforts you with these tender words, "Chill out, man. It's cas?"

"it's too early in the morning" phrase — seniors think school should start at 11:00. Brains can't possibly be expected to function until then.

"you know what's good for that" statement — When something's going wrong, you know what to do about it. Get out there and DO IT!!!

"it's almost Friday" phrase — it's been a difficult week and everyone is looking forward to a wild weekend of outa control fun.

"kiss me" request — Seniors are people too. They need love and affection.

Worst

dude n. — any guy with long blond hair and a surfboard

"How cuuuuuute!" phrase — used to describe unidentifiable cafeteria foods.

"You'll get over it" phrase — used in times of great emotional distress. You haven't earned enough credits to graduate. Oh well, you'll get over it.

"That's the ticket" phrase — Means, "Yes, exactly." There are too many Saturday Night Live wanna be's on campus!

"Just kidding" phrase — Used as a weak cover-up for the stupid remarks you make.

"Where's the party?" phrase — A question used by bored people with absolutely nowhere to go.

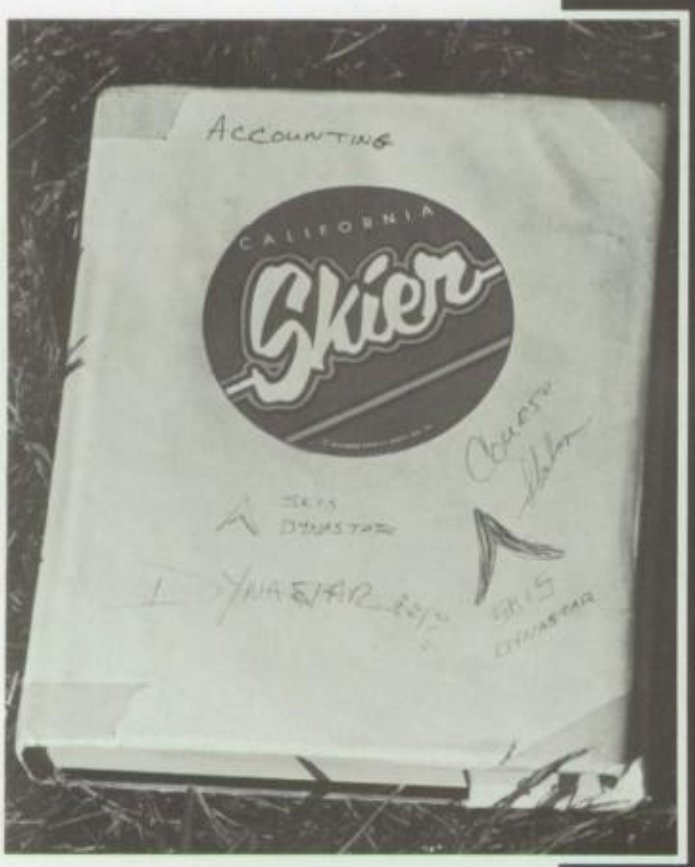
The Good Life

What is the good life? It may be parties or friends or dances or licking an ice cream cone on a hot summer day and shutting your eyes to the rest of the world. To Hale Burckin, it's "driving sixty miles per hour on an empty freeway at two o'clock in the morning with the windows rolled down and a great song playing so loud it hurts." Genelle Buchert sums it up as "the prospect of a successful future." To Kyle Mickaelian, it's "sleep." Greg Tan believes the good life is "music, fast music."

Kevin Sweeney offers his own philosophy. "I look at the world as a non-serious place. In the short time we have, you'e got to joke around a little and have fun." In other words, relax, loosen up, find out what makes you laugh and do what makes you smile! Getting a taste of the good life is simply a matter of enjoying what gets you going!

Bill Park and Stacey Cote demonstrate some wild hugging at the Homecoming dance at the Queen Mary.



Some prefer to catch a wild wind, a broken leg, or a warm fire on the slopes.

The Wild Life

Wild (wild) adj. 1. Living in a state of nature as animals that have not been tamed or domesticated. 2. Uncivilized or barbarous, as in tribes or savages. 3. Violently excited.

Excited? Exciting? Does that describe you? Are you a certified member of the wild club? "I go river rafting, and people die river rafting, but I haven't, obviously," said Steve Tunstall. What else excites the people at Fountain Valley? What makes them a little bit out of the ordinary? Only they can answer that one . . .

— Tony Starr makes me crazy. I have to read books to keep up with him — Blake McBride

— Avocado breath — Tony Starr

— It's those cheerleaders! — Fred Jung

— Rice — Eugene Kwon

— Guys' chests — Ann Chavez

— I like ears. Character prevails in the ears. It's an impression — Deanna Chute

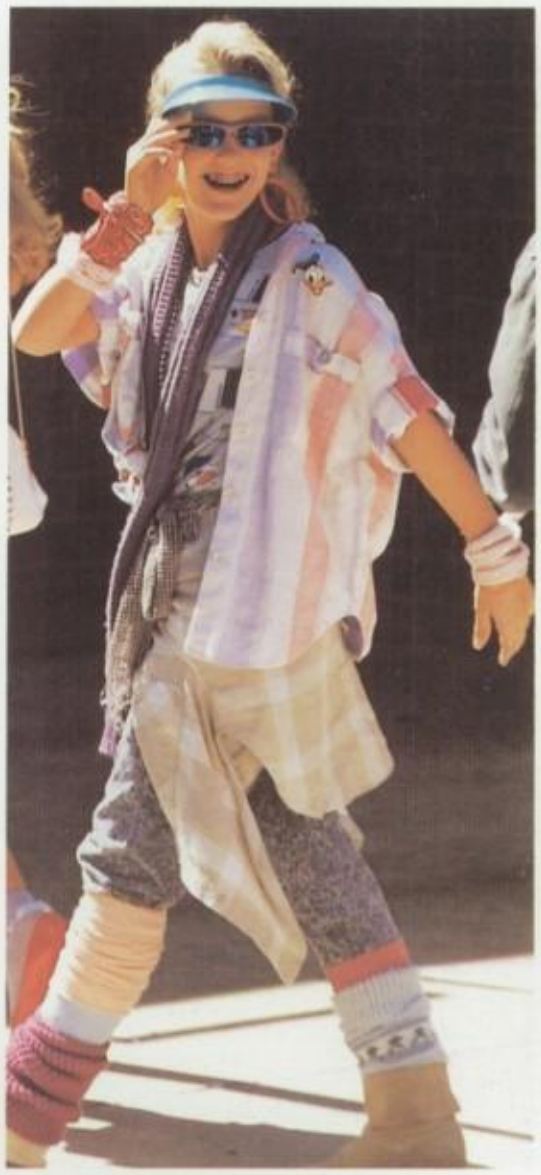
— Vacations. 'Cause I don't have to come to school — Michele Angulo

— Knowing that the weekends are coming — Jesse Fong

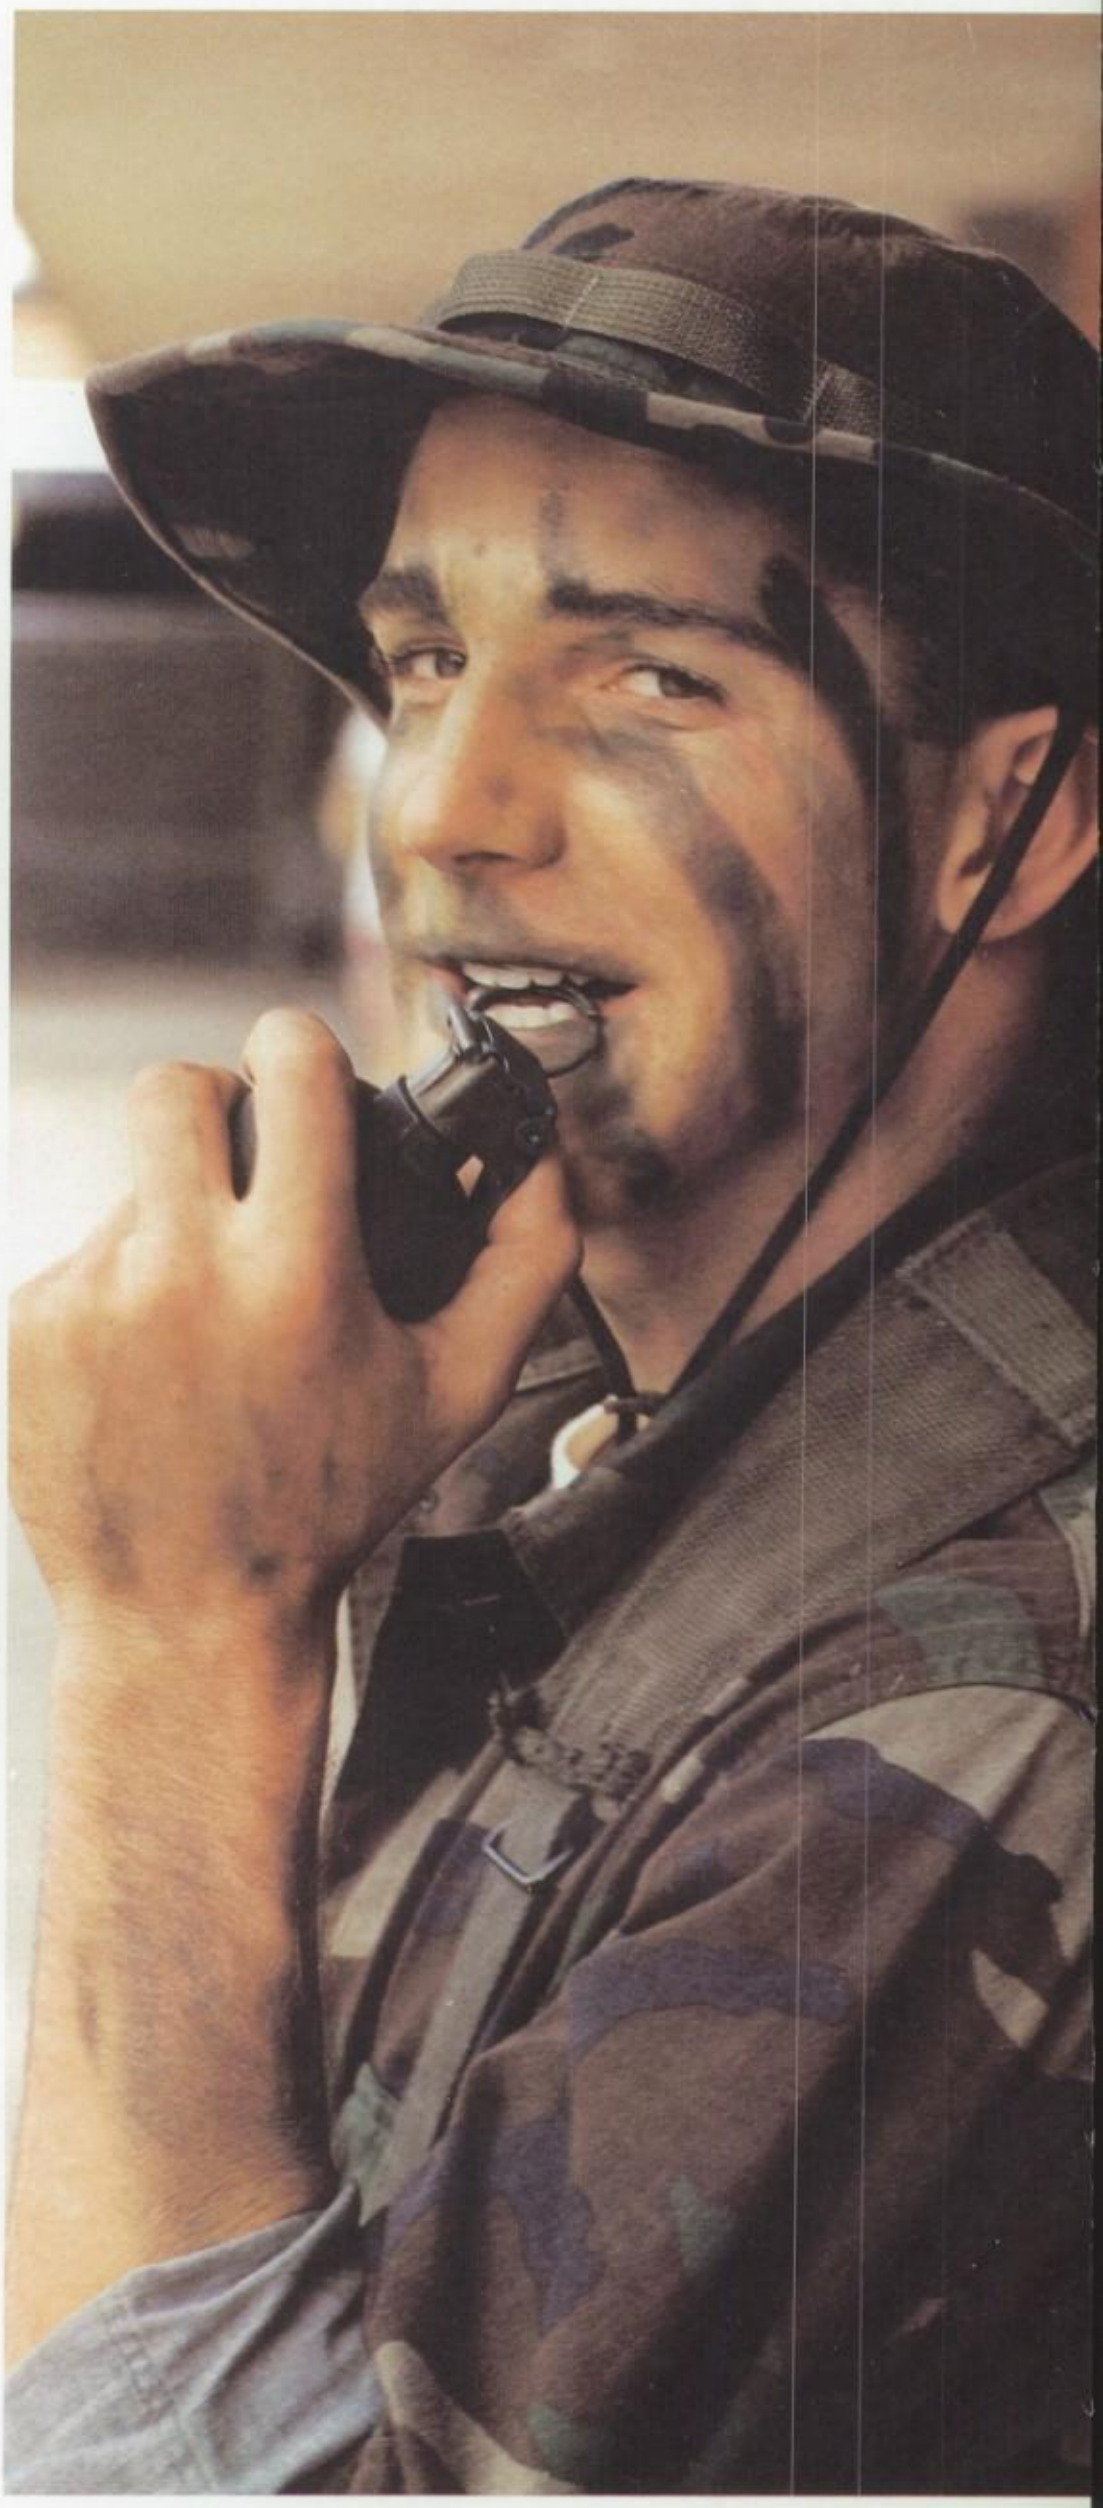
— Following people in a car — just to bug them. It's gotta be in the nighttime, for sure, trying to ditch them in a residential area or keep up with them. You have to flash your high beams sometimes — Avi Dorin

— Wild music. Wild parties. Makes me want to get up and dance. If there are lots of guys there, too, it makes me weird — Tammy Eggers

Mike Parks, Mike Saavedra, and Dave Durrell — laughing to the beat of a different drummer.



Eying the crowd with infrablue vision, Stacy Leader is a sure-shot to beat out Madonna as a candidate for Mr. Blackwell's Top Ten Worst Dressed List.



To Dress or Not to Dress? It's a Matter of

Tradition

Miniature Rambos stalk the Hill with plastic submachine guns from Toy City. Look-alike Fonzies and Richies hang out at the fountain snappin' gum and pickin' up chicks. A time warp? World War III? No, just a tradition at its best in the form of Spirit Week.

As the usual fanfare before the Homecoming game, the week featured cowboys, clashing colors, blue-collar workers, greasers 'n gals, and red, blue, and gold spirit fanatics. We do it every year, yet only the wildest dare to dress up. Tami Hiroyasu said, "It's a good way to show school spirit, although it's a little bit too wild for the more conservative people like me."

But Kimberly Hilston made a different observation. " . . . the only people who dress up are the student government, and everybody gets to laugh at them." And to some it was just another week of the week of the year. "It doesn't bother me. I mean, if they enjoy it, and they don't get in my way . . . why not?" said Debbie Hornung.

Dressing up definitely brought out the wild side of Fountain Valley High and helped to rally some spirit for the dance Saturday night.

Braving the cold arctic winds, Mike Douglas is tied up to the platform again to receive his royal dunking.

Left The few, the proud, the dangerous — Mark Abend threatens to blow up a fellow student if he refuses to enlist.

Below That Noxema look and that wide Dentine smile — Julie Baack and Christy Wayne demonstrate the 50's method of attracting members of the opposite sex.

"And the new 1986 Homecoming King and Queen of Fountain Valley High School are . . ." No, wait! You can't do that! You can't announce the winners before you know what happened! Don't remember? Well, I'll tell ya . . .

Six weeks of planning and hard work went into putting on those colorful 15 minutes of pomp and circumstance during the game known as Homecoming. But we pulled it off!

It all started with some imagination and persistence from Ann Chavez. There she is, right up there, as the emcee of the whole show. The elegant Brittania Salon was reserved for this annual occasion, and the theme was "Journey into the Night."

The Homecoming Commission stressed over the halftime festivities. They had good reason. Fireworks would have cost the price of a million dollar insurance policy, and Jabberjaw was unavailable. We did however, get an airplane, the band and their excellent musical abilities and best of all, we were entertained by Kristin, Elisa, Cindy, and Kelly as they played a hungry school of sharks.

"It was hysterical!" cried Elisa Terry afterward. The sharks chased, caught, and swallowed the confused scuba diver, Kim Stahley. It was definitely a sight to see!

The band played its part as well . . . as a boat! They marched on the field blowing steam and playing the Love Boat theme. The boat sunk as Kim was devoured, and the Homecoming halftime show went on. It was a blast!

Isn't she pretty? There's Sharon, just as they announced her election as the 1986 Homecoming queen. Boy, was she surprised! And Paul Heidesch was king. To cap off the perfect evening, the football team stormed past Ocean View for a 28-14 Homecoming victory, winning the first game of CIF League football.

And then came the dance itself. Groovin' to "Dancin'on the Ceiling" or strolling on the wooden decks under the clear, starry night, the evening was very special for everyone.

And just about everyone was there. People whose tastes ran from pink lame to black lace and pink hair were all there enjoying the music and the scenery of the Queen Mary, the site of this year's dance.

Let's face it. Homecoming was hot! Maybe it was the music. Maybe it was the location. Maybe it was the mood.

Maybe it was the people that made the night so special.

S tand by Me

You know who they are. You see them together all the time. They talk about being roommates together at Berkeley, laugh about things that make absolutely no sense to anyone else, and shop at the mall every weekend with unwavering dedication. It seems like they can't be separated!

But that's understandable because they have that relationship that many of us are lucky to share. They're best friends.

Of her best friend Corrine Olson, Sheri Kulungian says, "My friend is very understanding. She is a person who can be trusted and is a very loyal friend to me. I can tell her anything and not have the whole school know."

What do best friends talk about? Josh Baron and Matt Campbell discuss "surfing, girls, and life in general." Once in a while these talks about "life in general" lead to arguments. "He said something that got me in trouble with an old girlfriend," Josh confesses.

Arguments don't break up solid friendships. It's the ability to accept each other's faults that keeps people together. "We've never really argued about anything, and we've probably had a few misunderstandings, but they weren't really important because I can't remember them," says Suzette Werby of her best friend Spencer Harward. Friends forgive, and friends forget. They are willing to put mistakes behind them and build trust for the future.

What do best friends do for fun? Most people, like Julie Loomis and Shelly Leonard go to parties, to the beach, or to the movies. But when it comes right down to it, it doesn't really matter where you go or what you do; it's who you're with that counts. "Kristi and I can do anything and make it fun, even the most boring things, we can make exciting and fun," says Teri McLaughlin.

Best friends share everything. It's not that they're perfect for each other or that they never disagree, but they have similar interests and values, and if that causes problems, they are willing to work out their differences and to accept each other. Whether in comfort, sadness, or good, clean fun, friends are there to cry with, laugh with, or talk to at any time. Friends stand by each other in both good times and bad, especially here at Fountain Valley High.

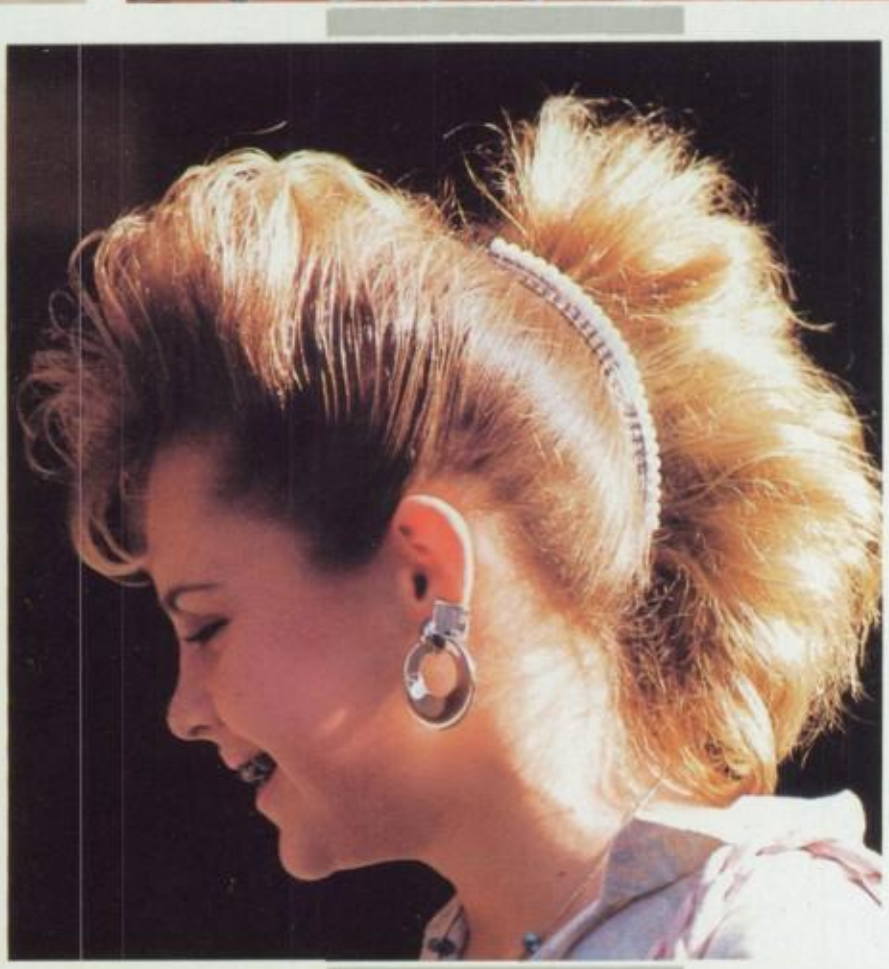
From boots to brights, Guys and Girls search for Style

Black. Solid black. Denim skirts, denim jackets, and Guess jeans. The fashion trends of 1986 and 1987 were reflected in a variety of new and old styles. Teens started shopping for their fall wardrobes in August, and, according to a poll, they spent an average of $150. And who were the beneficiaries of the Saturday afternoon shopping adventures? Clothestime, Contempo, Miller's Outpost, Bill Gambles, Nordstroms, Jay Jacobs, and Ann Taylor.

Clothes bought at these stores set the styles, and these styles catered to a variety of fashion moods. If you wanted that rugged, Western feel, you could opt for denim or chambray, paired with comfortable fringed boots. Black knit leggings teamed up with bold, brightly patterned sweaters for the modern look. For the polished look, suspenders added the right touch to a bright shirt. And to lend pizazz to anything, there was silver — silver handbags, silver belts, silver loafers, silver sandals, silver earrings, and even silver jeweled shirts.

But — maybe there wasn't a plan or a rule to wearing these hot fashion items. To Ann Marie Comalli, The Look is "whoever you are or what you feel comfortable in. No one 'Look' is in. Nobody dresses the same. Everyone should stop worrying about what people think about them and start forming their own style." To Loree Fry, clothes are important because "the way you dress is what shows people what kind of mood you're in before you say anything."

Leather boots, fringed boots, jeweled boots, galoshes, black boots . . . galoshes? When it comes to walkin', flat is better.



From permed hair to pony tails, butterfly clips were a hot item for a polished look.

To Hang Out is to find the perfect combination of

Friends, Food, Fun

Want to look cool? Take it from Steve Stafford. "There's no certain way to hang out because people act differently. But to me, hanging out is being with your friends, doing whatever you want and not caring what other people think of you."

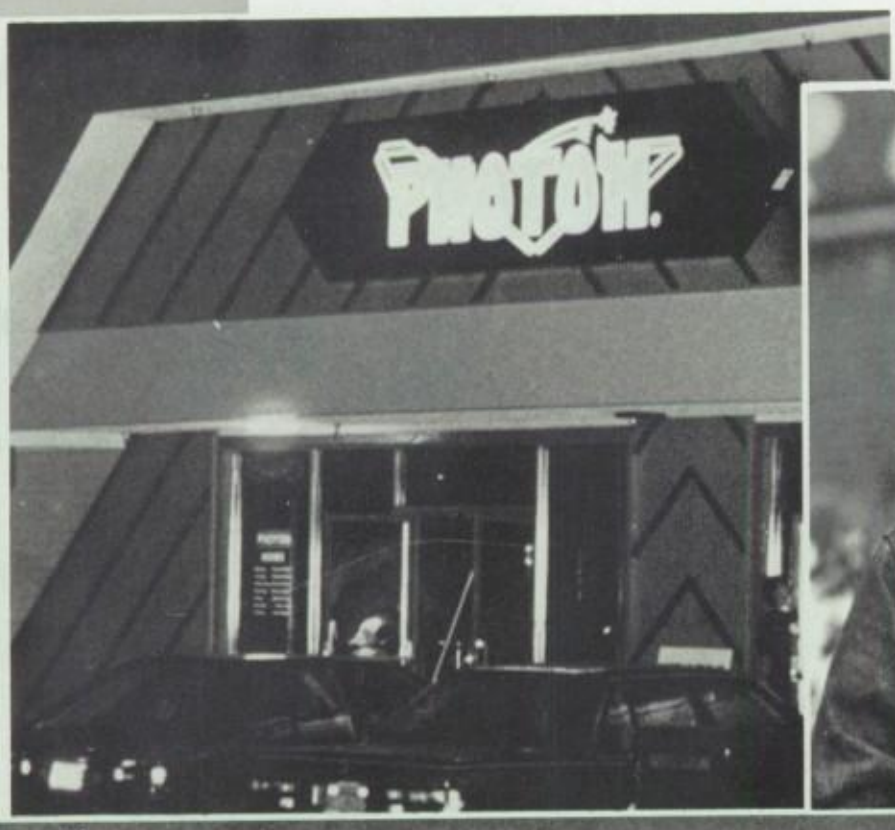
Hangin' out at the pier, talking loud in a crowd, eating Dutch chocolate frozen yogurt with rainbow sprinkles every Friday night — the teenage life was meant to be lived that way, being free to go where you want to go and to be with the people you want to be with.

Most teens hang out at parties. Others like to stuff their faces with Junior Mints and hot buttered popcorn watching a powerful movie with a loud Dolby soundtrack (like "Top Gun"). Some people flock to the local fine dining establishments like Penguins, Tommy's, or Naugles. After the Big Game, Steve Hardgrave likes to hang out at Swensen's.

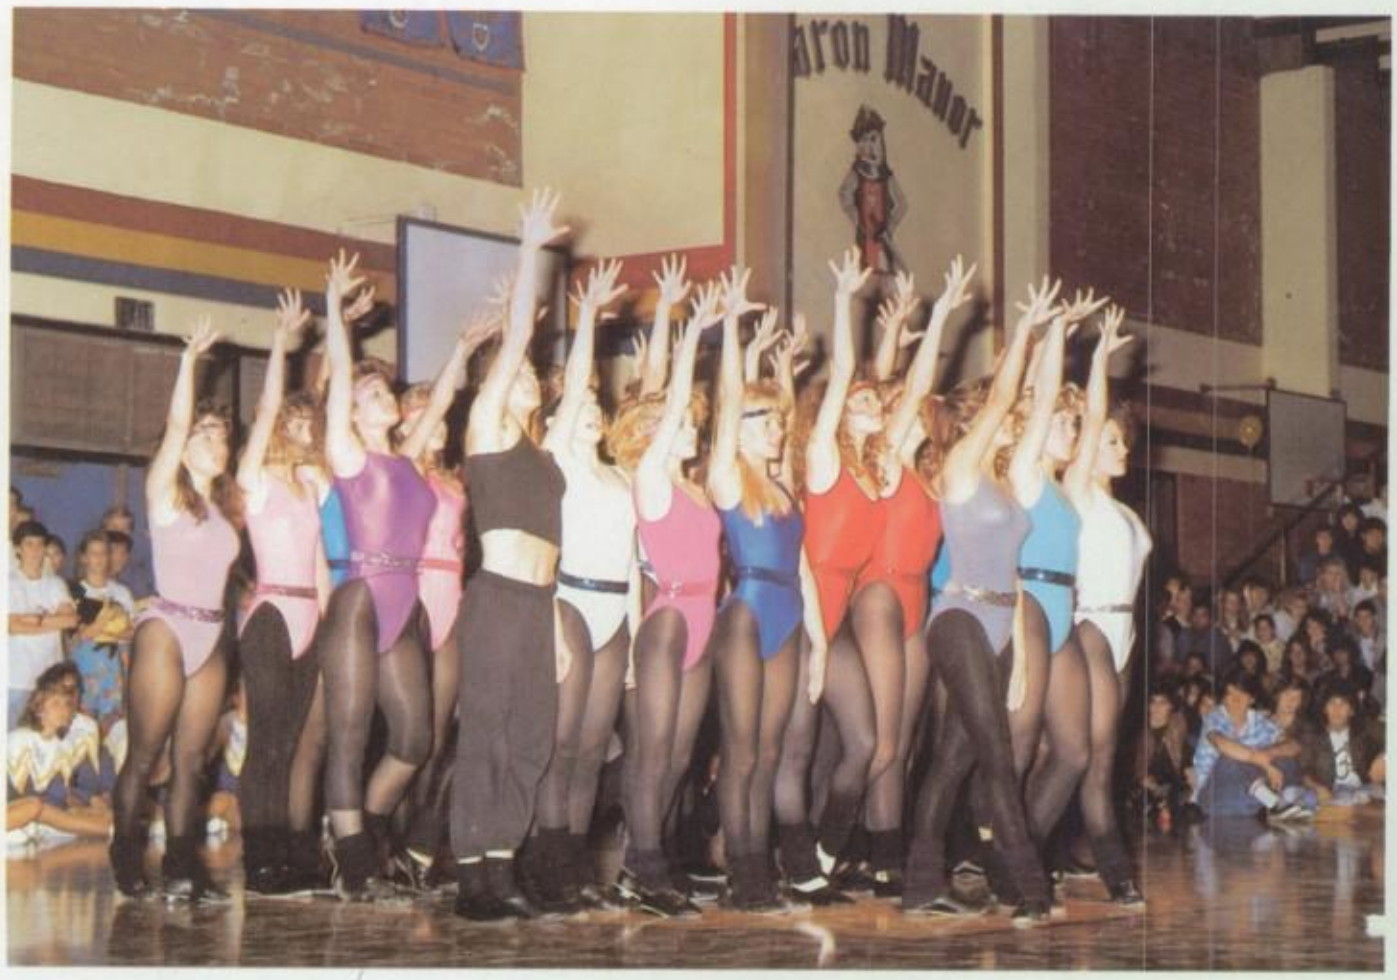
Options to food hangouts include Murray DuBourdieu's choice. He spends his afternoons at La Quinta and Edison because "it's easy to meet girls without meeting their boyfriends." Tom Bruno frequents Sean Finn's house for some serious "pre-partying." Some of the avid video game players and even some of the not-so-avid ones visit Photon on occasion.

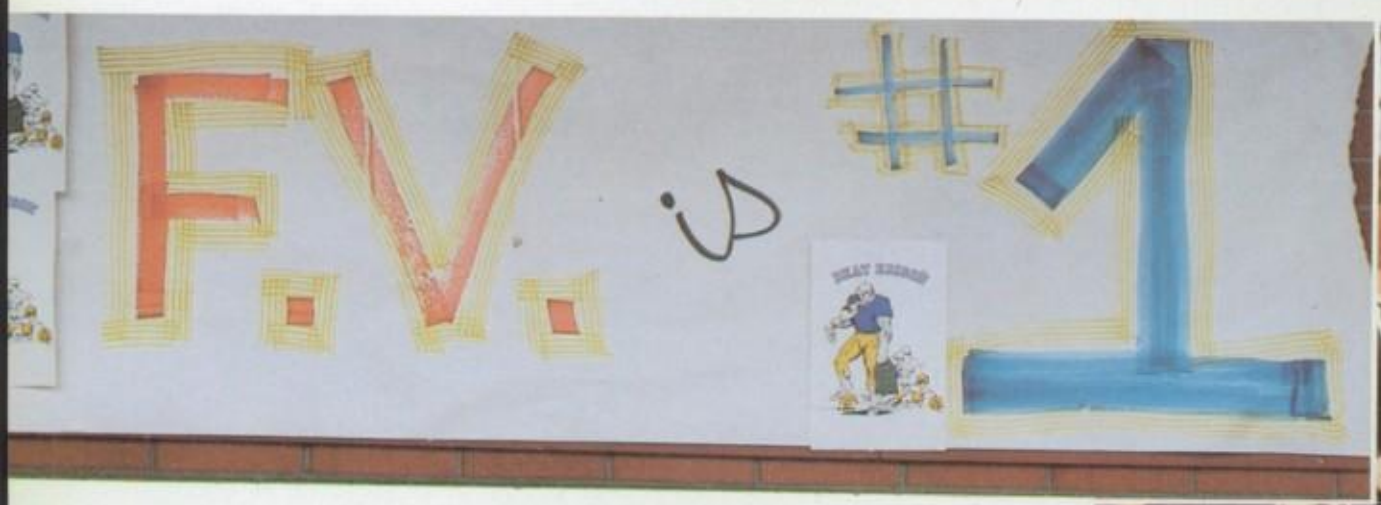
So, with all of these choices, what's the hottest Orange County hang out? According to a poll, it's Lighthouse One. Sakura Cameron said, "It's supposed to be a rad dance place for everyone on Friday nights. They play all kinds of Christian rock."

Whatever your preference, remember the three "F" requirements for having a good time: friends, food, and fun!!!



The dance team holds a final dynamic pose at the finale of their upbeat number "Hit That Perfect Beat."





A solemn Mike Eilbert draws a hush from the Bowl as he prays vehemently for the defeat of the Chargers.

Win or lose, the Edison rivalry is

A Class Act

"Beat E-di-son! Beat E-di-son!" That's the familar chant sung every year. Of course, it doesn't always work. But the Chargers and the Barons share a friendly, not a bitter rivalry. We don't spray paint each other's campuses or burn each other's signs. As Edison coach Dave White put it, "Both schools have a lot of class."

And to show that class, Edison hosted the traditional breakfast at the elegant Seacliff Country Club. Some anonymous student government members did, however, exhibit our rivalry at the breakfast — they stole the green carnations off the tables for use in our Edison funeral, where a somber procession of caskets, mourners, and forlorn trumpets echoed through the hallways in anticipation of a swift green death.

Although we tried to bury the Chargers that Thursday, the ghost of defeat came calling the next night when we lost to Edison 0-3. Seniors, however, could still recall the crushing 33-7 victory of 1983 as well as the heart-stopping 10-11 squeaker the next year.

But going into the game this year, neither team was the CIF football giant of the past. It was a building year for both teams. The lure of Anaheim Stadium was gone.

But the rivalry was still the same, and spirit was boasted in many ways. 3,000 macabre posters with skulls were printed, football players had their houses toilet-papered, a green jersey clad teddy bear was hung by the gallows, cute pups were paraded as Edison drill team members, a plane with a "Beat Edison" banner flew over both campuses at lunch, and skydivers plunged onto the field at the game. Win or lose, we are teams with class. It's a class rivalry. A class act. All the way.

Trash

Don't you Litter, Pick up Yo

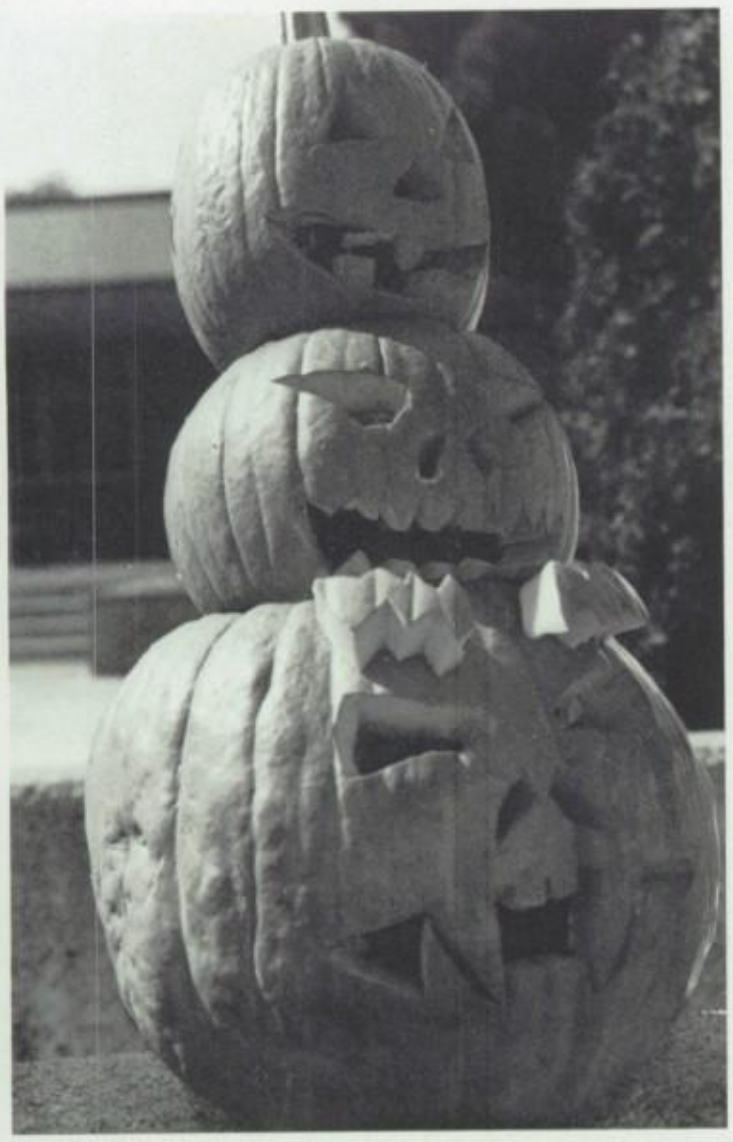
That Ding-Dong sure looks good! Your tummy growls gently in anticipation as you slowly unwrap the white paper covering. Your mouth slides past the smooth dark bumps of this cream-filled fantasy. Suddenly, your mouth takes over and plunges into the rich, spongy chocolate as the paper flutters onto the ground. Onto the ground? But that's trash!

"People are so lazy. Even when there's a trash can two feet away, someone could easily throw their trash away, but nooooooooo, they have to throw it on the ground," said Lina Nguyen on the psychological profile of polluters.

In the past, we've tried many methods to encourage everyone to keep the campus clean. There have been rewards of getting out of school early on Friday, competitions within the district, and even a secret spy that awarded $50 to the student seen picking up the most trash in one week. This year, Mr. Clean and the Hefty wrappers came to town to straighten things out with a little jive talk!

Did Mr. Clean make you think twice before tossing your Twinkie wrapper on the hill? Would you be a good citizen and pick up trash from the ground from now on?

Alan Kinkaid said, "I have my dignity." Well, maybe we can try again next year.



The Thrills and Chills of the Unknown

At the stroke of six, a small boy adorns his superman costume and becomes, for one night, his idol. He picks up his oversized and depressingly empty candy bag and places his small hand on the brass doorknob looming over him. With short, excited breath, he opens the door and views the world before him — a world that is his for the taking. As he steps out of the door, he hears his mother's voice caution him from some unseen place in the kitchen, "Johnny, be careful when you cross the street, and don't eat any candy before you get home."

"Ah, Mom!"

"Oh," she adds, "be careful of those high school kids. I saw them walking to school all dressed up . . . just be careful."

Fear fills Johnny as he walks into the night. What awaits him? A lone hooting owl. Cool shadows from huge, menacing elm trees. Plump Jack-O-Lanterns glowing in the windows, scowling. Scary high school kids. Screams, thrills, chills, and the wonder of Halloween . . .

Upper Left Dressed to haunt, Heather Plooster throws a wicked smile at all the students she hopes to brew for supper.

Flashback Showcases a Variety of Music

Flashback wasn't just "Another Opening of Another Show," as the song goes. It was a time capsule of musical comedy, jazz, gospel, and rock and roll music that showcased the talents of Concert Choir, Troubadours, and Trouveres. As California kids, they danced and sang their way through the Beach Boys Medley. Thanks to Ted Reid, the director, there was clapping and swaying to "Jave Jive" and "Operator," two jazz and gospel numbers.

The bright lights of Broadway then spotlighted the Troubadours as they dreamed of fame. Auditions, rehearsals, the final triumph — all phases were represented in song and dance. Then they were kids again, dreaming of Mighty Mouse and the Pink Panther as they sang "Casper the Friendly Ghost" and the ever-popular "Theme from Super Chicken."

For two shining nights, they were all stars!

The Perfect Dance Only Comes

Once in a Lifetime

Looking in the mirror, her full red lips curl into a smile. With every wave in place, she douses her hair with one last shower of hairspray and adjusts the black silk sash fitting snuggly on her hips. The perfect look. And her date — dreamy, tall handsome, big strong hands, and a smile that would set fire to a glacier in the middle of winter. Eyes that know, feet that dance, and charm that surprises and humors.

A white limousine and an Italian chauffeur with a curly mustache drive them through the winding oceanside to the elegant Ritz Carlton in Laguna. Dinner? Golden slivers of buttered lobster and tender, seasoned filet mignon. Later, The Disneyland Hotel in Anaheim provides a magnificent setting for moonlight and romance. Cascading waterfalls, rich decor, winding staircases, a laserlight water show. The tunes? From good ol' Lionel Richie to the hip beat of Depeche Mode. The reason? Prom. Because the perfect date, the perfect setting, and the perfect dance only come "once in a lifetime."

Let It Snow, Let It Snow, Let It

Bright lights illuminate quiet streets and flashing Christmas trees glow through bay windows. You know it's that time of year again when the lines get longer at South Coast Plaza, rich aromas of honey baked ham fill the house, and your wallet gets thinner and thinner and thinner . . .

But holiday time at Fountain Valley High School was celebrated a little differently. Instead of eggnog and plum pudding, there was Tropical Sno shaved ice and a Santa that passed around goodies at lunch to students dressed in their slippers and pajamas. The troubadours carolled through the halls, where doors were diligently decorated with snow scenes and Christmas trees. But we also showed our sharing side by collecting toys and canned food for the American Red Cross, Toys for Tots, and an orphanage in Mexico. Near the end of the week, Mother Nature grew a little hostile and for the first time ever, students were treated to snow in Fountain Valley. Some brought their cameras, some brought their mittens, and some even brought their skis! Manmade snow? Are the holidays growing too commercial? Well, all this excitement merely brought out the holiday spirit to let the true meaning shine through — giving and sharing with family and friends.

Twas' the night before Christmas, a rosy-cheeked Megan Mahoney dons her warm flannel nightie and a teddy bear to boot.

Santa Tulumello, Andrew Tulumello that is, passes out goodies to students dressed in red and green in the bowl at lunch.

Hot Fun in the Sun

Hey dude! Let's hit the waves dude! Fer sure! Totally awesome!

The warm sun beats down on the white sand and the rows of brown bodies lie across the beach like pieces of meat grilling in the sun. The pounding surf calls you, and you run to the call of the sea. The cool, crisp water envelops your body and the foam leaves a brittle, salty mist on your dry lips. A radio is blaring "Born in the USA" in the distance. Frisbees and footballs are constantly whizzing through the air and the thick smell of coconut sun tan oil lingers heavily in the air.

Later, fiery fingers of golden crimson snatch the rays and bring out the blazing bonfires, the twisted hangers, and the bag of Kraft marshmallows. Black toes, moonlight conversations, warm waves lapping gently at your ankles — at night it's a kind of familiar magic. You look up at the stars, you close your eyes, you dream the California dream . . .

Upper Left "Come join the party," says Sam Helfrich as he serves up a good old-fashioned beach barbeque to over 250 students.

At sunset in Huntington City Beach, the crowds are gone, the frisbees have vanished, but soon bonfires and parties will greet the evening.

For gain or for pleasure, jobs provide real life

Experience

It's 1:39, and the bell rings. You have a book report to write, five math assignments to make up, and a lab write-up about paramecium, and, of course, a phone call to Jenny and Jason. If you're lucky, you might even finish in time to catch the "Cosby Show" on the tube. But nooooo! Wait! You have to work tonight.

Sure, you don't always get your homework done at night and maybe your weekends are a little busy, but you do earn money to spend on clothes, save up for college, pay the insurance on your Bug, and, in some cases, you get much more. Paul Varin gets to spend his summers on a sailboat in Newport Harbor teaching sailing classes. And there are more fringe benefits. Sophomore Andy Lee is the manager of a pizza parlor, where he gets to "yell at dumb employees and feel in charge."

Unfortunately, not all jobs expand your horizons and provide a pleasant environment. Some really get on your nerves. Shawn Steffan once had a paper route with horrible pay and early morning weekend and holiday hours. Although Steve Huff enjoys his job as a busboy at Jeremiah's Steakhouse, work isn't always easy. "I was carrying a huge tray of plates and I slipped and rolled down them with the plates right behind me."

And what job would teenagers choose if they could work absolutely anywhere? The Pacific Amphitheater, the film industry, a ranch in Northern California, and a lifeguard at Huntington City Beach are among the favorites.

And some students who are looking for a really great job and career are enrolled in the Coastline Regional Occupational Program, which has programs and training sites in everything from landscaping to computerized accounting to veterinary medicine.

Whether serving up soup or manning the front desk, teenagers are out in the community learning, working, and keeping an eye on the future.

The fashionable, the extravagant, and the hip — all 600 of them — descended on the Anaheim Sheraton for Fountain Valley High School's biggest Winter Formal yet. From "You Make Me Want to Shout" to Chicago's "Will You Still Love Me?", dance music and love songs were provided by Apropos. Black top hats with silver and red balloons adorned the tables to accentuate the theme "Puttin' on the Ritz." Pictures were even taken on black and white checkered tiles, and Friar Tux Shop provided an extra special treat this year in the form of dinners for two, gondola rides, rock concerts, and lift tickets, all which were raffled off during the evening. And near the end of the night, a very few excited students were honored as Winter Formal princes and princesses. Seniors Jeni Weaver and Rick Brand were crowned as King and Queen of the dance.

Special thanks go to this year's Winter Formal Commission: Ann Chavez, Jennifer Kiker, Andre Garcia, Anna Perleman Konnie Akune, Sara Doty, Dorinda Davie, and Caroline Allam.

The party lasted until twelve, and when the last song faded away, it was time to retire the glossy canes, black silk, and racy red heels. But for a few hours, we were Hollywood!

The Search for Intelligent Life in the U niverse

Tracy comes home from school, kicks off her shoes and watches an episode of Oprah Winfrey on open marriages with a bowl of chocolate mint ice cream in her hand. Josh sleeps through World History and hits the surf first thing after lunch. Does learning, or the desire to learn, stop right after the bell rings? Do students remember what they learn in school anyway, or more importantly, do they care? Here begins the search for intelligent life in the universe.

An extensive poll of 500 students from all classes was conducted to find out how much students knew about the people and the world outside them. A list of famous people was compiled, which included such notables as US Olympic track star Carl Lewis, noted American poet T. S. Eliot, and astronaut Alan Shepard, and the students were asked to identify the person. Carl Lewis was the most recognized name, according to 72% correct responses from all classes. Obviously, sports is always in the news, but what about politics? Only 65% knew that Andrew Jackson was an American president (someone even identified him as a member of the Jackson Five!), and only 62% knew that Mikhail Gorbachev was the Soviet Premier. Many people responded that he was a choreographer/dancer/actor. And don't tell scientist Isaac Newton that he invented gravity, or British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher that she is a detective or that British Prime Minister Winston Churchill founded Winston tires. And did you know that soap opera character Erika Kane of "All My Children" is the president of Zimbawe or that Raiders running back Marcus Allen was a former Philippine president? Poor William Rhenguist! As the current Chief Justice of the US Supreme Court, only 8% could identify him! Someone thought he was convicted for treason!

But there's some promising news. Knowledge does improve with age. Last year, seniors not only brought in $106,000 bonus for superior scores on the California Assessment Program, but also received over $1,300,000 in financial aid and scholarships. This year, 15% of the senior class will graduate with honors. And the best news of all is that Fountain Valley High School has been ranked 94th in the state education department's annual list of the top 100 schools in California.

So maybe some people can't quite place a Shepard or a Ryan, but one thing is certain. Students obviously care about what's important to them. And somewhere out there . . . there is intelligent life in the universe.

Soul Singer Rockwell? Some students associated the song "Somebody's Watching Me" with Norman Rockwell, a famous contemporary American artist.

Kelly says cheers to Burger King. In her world, food, not knowledge, is Power.

Mikhail Gorbachev and Mikail Barishnikov. Contrary to popular belief, Soviet Premier Gorbachev doesn't indulge in ballet. Obviously, having a Russian name does not necessarily mean you're an artist.

Doug Van Lare and Chris Vornholt. For some people, it's the muscle, not the mind, that shapes distinctive personalities.

Schmidt and Henson Clash in

Odd Couple

It starts off with a game of trivial pursuit. And then a phone call from a distraught husband. And soon a meticulous Florence Ungar, played by Lanell Henson, moves in with a not so patient Olive Madison, played by Marci Schmidt. Then the fun really begins, with broken dishes, fiery exchanges, and severed friendships. This was Neil Simon's hilarious female version of the Odd Couple. The "girls," Sylvie, Mickey, Renee, and Vera, were played by June Woodburn, Jennifer Werts, Heather Bartlett, and Kelley Lemon, respectively, while Dustin Cox and Kenny McMurphy tackled Spanish accents to take on the role of the Costazuela brothers. More comic relief was provided by Scott Lobdell and Jeff Nielsen, the clumsy delivery boys.

Although the comedy had only one set, few characters, and only dialogue, it was the excellent performances from the cast that drew sympathy and laughter from the audience and made everyone think twice about their own peculiar personalities.

The Costazuela brothers are obviously afraid to sample Florence's guacamole.

West Side Love

As the lights go down, tension mounts. Taunting, pushing, shoving, fist fighting, and then suddenly, a knife is pulled and blood is drawn. Love at first sight. Death on a hot summer night. All of this and more exploded on stage during "West Side Story," the spring musical.

It was a Romeo and Juliet plot set in the 50's in New York with music by Leonard Bernstein performed by the orchestra. This was "West Side Story," the tale of the young lovers Tony, played by Mark Carter, and Maria, played by Anna McMurphy, and the two gangs that kept them apart — the Jets and the Sharks. Excellent performances were given by Kenny McMurphy and Dan Patterson as the two leaders of the opposing gangs as well as Lanell Henson as Anita, the Shark leader's girlfriend.

Ethnic tension, prejudice, hate, and love — all were dramatic emotions that brought together the finest song and dance talents at Fountain Valley.

The Athlete

There is more to an athlete than just the game; it's the attitude. The athlete is never willing to give up on the chance that he might win in a game or in life. An athlete has an optimistic outlook on everything he does and gives a 110% in all that he or she does. Many people think of athletes as "dumb jocks," but this is far from the truth. Many if not all of the athletes at F.V.H.S. must have at least a "C" average and many are far above and beyond this minimum grade. The people who participate in high school sports gain strong friendships through their activity in sports. Many memories will last forever, such as nicknames for their friends, and all the wild parties they attended together. Some names will be remembered for their great sports feats while others will be remembered for their names such as: Cheeseburger, Oompa, Dirthead, Broggs, and Big Bob. The memories for the athletes will be something that can never be taken away from them.

The athlete is an individual who works well together with others and betters the team. The athlete is what makes sports the essence of life and competition. Everyone is an athlete even if not in sports because the quality that makes up an athlete also makes up anyone trying to make their life better.

Reflecting upon the 1986 Varsity football season, Head Coach Mike Milner and his staff had reason for concern. Their 2-8 record was a setback in the rich tradition of Fountain Valley football, but adhering to the phrase "Blue Pride," they never stopped giving it their best effort.

Senior leadership from the likes of Warren Taylor, Paul Heideich, Chris Neria, Rob Briggs, and Ed Francis inspired this junior-laden team through the challenges of a schedule that saw the Baron play 7 CIF playoff bound teams.

The hard work, dedication and pride that our young team put forth will reap the benefits next season. We look forward to the 1987 season with the hopes that returning players such as Reza Mehdezadeh, Mike Osborne, Brian Lenzkes, Greg Munck, Dave Hennigan, Ray Lucky, Derrick Teuscher, Lance Lunnetta, Sean Dooley, and Josh Young will bring us to a victorious season.

The feeling begins the night before. He can't sleep — too much electricity buzzes through his body. He envisions a perfect pass as he leads the team to a touchdown. The cheering crowd roars as he spikes the ball.

Suddenly, he jumps from bed, throws on his uniform, and races to the field. It's time for the J.V. football game.

There it goes! The ball approaches, gaining speed and momentum — twirling in quick perfect spiral. He runs to position, turns to receive the ball and bring it to his chest, and takes off. The fifty yard line. The forty. Thirty. Twenty! Ten! Touchdown!

Victory is sweet for the dedicated players of the J.V. football team!

Sweat, the main ingredient that these sophomore football players are made of. They may not have captured the Sunset League Title, but they did come close, placing 2nd in league. The team played more of a running offensive game with a total of 22 touchdowns all together.

Some of the players who played a big part of the team were Kedric Powe, Jeff Higbee, Rick Mock, Daryle Marion, Glen Christy, Eli Del Gallo, and Bob Wilcox. The sophomore's defense recorded four shutouts. All of the members put forth great effort, and all of them have great futures ahead of them!

Record 6-2 2nd in League

Once again, the Sunset Freshman Football Team was victorious. For the third consecutive time, they earned the title of League Champions. Out of thirteen championships, this is the eleventh. This achievement was won through the outstanding efforts of the entire team with Jasson Hassay, Tony Meza, and Jim Spearr leading the way. Tony Ptts, Greg Grorelive, Frank Wada, and Paul Reynolds also contributed tremendously to the team effort.

And let's not forget the outstanding coaching of Mr. Fitzpatrick! He helped the team rise to the fantastic level that they achieved this year.

The District Freshman Football Team worked harder than ever before this year to become champions. With the help and guidance of Coach Le and many hours of practice, the team had many great victories, placing second in League. This achievement was made possible by the effort of the team led by Scott Frestik, Nate Koval, Fenod Allen, and Pat Tokeshi. Great job!

The squeaks of rubber soles on the wooden floor came from every direction. The thump of the volleyball bouncing off of a girl's sweaty wrist echoed throughout the gym. Girl's Volleyball — the most intense game around.

It was a building year for our Girl's Varsity Volleyball Team this year, and these girls had enthusiasm and dedication as they rebuilt the Varsity Team. The returning players this year were Kellie Bruce (captain), Becky Bell, and Tricia Avila. Senior setters Julie Mock and Melissa Handley contributed their amazing skill to the team along with sophomore Yvette Ybarra. The rest of the Baron's team were Julie Baach, Paula Estes, Amy Brand, Christy Wayne, Julie Groscup, and Suzanne Kincade.

It was a building year with an excellent team. Next year looks fantastic!

Setter Kristy Risner was the captain of this year's J.V. team. The opposing teams could not stand up to the powerful spikes of Daniel Barno, while Laura Bruce also had some powerful spikes of her own. Sophomore Keiko Matsumoto also was a key factor on the J.V. Volleyball team this year.

It may have been an up and down season, but the spirit of the girls was always sky high!

This year's Frosh/Soph volleyball team had an exceptional season. All their hard work placed them respectfully in league. For such a young team, they did exceptionally well all season long.

Learning the fundamentals of volleyball and playing as much as possible, the girls learned that practice will, in the end, make perfect. And that end, for many of the girls, will be the varsity team. Good luck in the future, girl!

Varsity Water Polo

In September, the time came again for the swimmers to set their alarms for 6:00 a.m. practice. Yes, the water polo season was about to begin.

One definite characteristic of our varsity team was its large size. Mike Eich led this year's young Varsity Team which was dominated by seniors Kevin Pagoda, Robert Jones, and Todd Thompson, juniors Mike Lewis, Mark Nielsen, Matt Nelson, Alex Berzihs, goalie Jason Huffman, and sophomore Bryan Frieden.

Head Coach Ray Bray said, "This year's Varsity Team was relatively young and inexperienced with only one returning Varsity player, Todd Thompson. Next year promises to be a successful season with almost a full team of returning players."

So next year, watch out Marina; watch out Edison. Here comes the Fountain Valley Water Polo Team!

This year, the Sophomore Water Polo Team surpassed the expectations of everyone! Determined to win, the team placed second in league play with a record of 4-1.

Under the leadership of Coach Bray, and with the talents of players Mark Stevens, Chris Tarus, Darren Ham, and goalie Ray Hahn, next year's Varsity and J.V. Water Polo Teams could be a force to be reckoned with!

The Freshman Water Polo Team also did extremely well, a considerable feat for a first-year team. They went undefeated in league play, and, during the last week of October, they became Sunset League Champs by beating Marina by a score of 13-2.

1986-1987 Girl's J.V. Cross Country: Gina Berry, Denise Combes, Bridgett Duarte, Melody Flinn, Robin Gurney, Anita Khambatta, Genee Migliotini, Dem Pham, Terri Rick, Kristina Riggs, and Vicki Walters.

The 1986 Girl's Varsity Cross Country team proved to be a great asset to FVHS. They had excellent support and coaching from Chris Shield and Martin Morris. Leading an excellent team were juniors Tonya Patrina, Michelle Conally, and Nicole Mitts. The important honor of most valuable player was awarded to Tonya Patrina who was the third best in the league. The entire team was honored for its hard work by placing fourth in league and third at the Central Park invitational.

During practice and out on the field, the Varsity girls put out all the energy needed to make a winning team. As a team, they showed great hope and encouragement to future teams, and if we keep the pride and spirit going, we will again have a team as victorious as our 1986 Girl's Varsity Cross Country team!

After hours of playing matches against each other, firing serve after serve, hitting backhands and forehands, and smashing overhead after overhead, this year, the girls Varsity Tennis team was ready for competition. As evidenced by an excellent beginning in pre-season with some of the top teams in Orange County, the girls played well in Sunset League throughout their successful season.

Under the direction of Coach Ammann, the lady Barons vied for the league with the rest of the Sunset League teams and contended to receive a C.I.F. playoff berth. With veterans like four-year Varsity member Jeni Weaver, and other strong varsity players like Stephanie Urricariet, and Kellie Thompson putting forth their best effort, this team was made possible as the hard work paid off with a top ten ranking in Orange County.

A strong congratulations goes to the efforts of the Girls' Varsity Team!

The Junior Varsity girls had another excellent team this year to defend their Sunset League champions title. Working harder than ever before, the girls showed true determination to reach new heights and play better with great skill, never giving up at any time. This spirit of never giving up and trying their best documented their enthusiasm both on and off the court.

With returning players like Pam Paek, Mer Mer Chen, and Christina Kim along with supportive leadership of coach Jay Gardner, the girls strove once again for another league title. The future of the tennis team looks very encouraging.

Boys Varsity Cross Country

The Boys' Varsity Cross Country Team started off with a bang! Top men were Dave Knos (Number One Man), Wes Watkins (Team Captain), Richie Lockwood (Number One Freshman in Orange County), and David Dannov. Also Glenn Gillete (Most Improved), Tim Gutierrez, Scott Seela, and Ralph Lopez made contributions. Four out of the top five will be back next year. The team had an outstanding record of 4-1 and placed second in the Sunset League.

All of the Boys' Cross Country Team's hard work, determination, and cooperation led them to a successful season. Coach Simpson says, "I was very pleased with this year's Varsity Team. They were capable of working together to get the job done. We had a lot of very young talent. I feel we could be the team to beat next year."

Hard workouts, dedication and endurance are essential for a successful cross country team. Attending workouts before and after school keeps the J.V. Cross Country Team in shape for the season. This outstanding record was compiled by runners Scott Sussman, Chris Gonzales, David Flatley and Bobby Bergeman.

After all their training and hard work, the Freshman Cross Country Team took second in their league. They compiled a record of 4 wins and 1 loss. Coach Simpson remarked, "I have hard working boys and I am proud of them. They have had a very good season!" The outstanding Freshman runners are Todd Wheeler, Robert Bounds and Heath DeWallace. "Three, two, one . . . no, they miss the basket and the Fountain Valley Baron's win another game!" Well, if you don't know what this means, you haven't been to the boys varsity basketball games. Starting the Sunset League by defeating Ocean View by 1 point, Huntington Beach by 1 point, and Edison by 2 points, the team pulled through when the heat was on. The team definitely had senior leadership; all of the players were seniors except for Jim Borquist, a junior, and Tom Weaver, a sophomore. The team was led by the outside scoring of Rob Briggs and Andrew Tulumello, along with the inside plays of Thomas "Slam Dunk" Rochlen and Kevin Waite "the elbow man," both of them two year lettermen. Rochlen commented, "This year we have more unity and team spirit. We're all friends to start with . . . We have a lot of depth and virtually anybody could start." Waite also agreed with this point commenting, "We're an unselfish team that plays hard to win and never gives up." In a league where competition is fierce with two CIF ranked teams, the team pulled through with their heart and desire. Ashcraft commented, "We play like the Celtics, playing fundamentally."

Field Hockey

One of the most unpublicized sports around is field hockey, but it's well worth watching. It's not a glamorous or an easy sport as one might think after seeing the girls' skirt uniforms. Practice — consisting of running, stretching, and drills on current plays — is held from 2:45 to 5:00 p.m. every day.

Why do the players endure these tough workouts? Teamwork, a sense of accomplishment, skill, and pure drive make the girls stick to it at the best and worst of times. This year's outstanding players were Marilyn Angulo, Sonya Anderson, Mignon Taylor, Connie Ho. These players, with the entire team, made it a great season well worth remembering.

The Baron Varsity Girl's Basketball team is a remarkable asset to the athletic program here at Fountain Valley High. Despite being a young, inexperienced team, the Lady Barons proved that they had a strong desire to win by having a successful season under the coaching of Carol Strausburg. Credit goes to all of the players for having an enthusiastic attitude and a desire to win. It was vital that each varsity player had the determination to be the "Best Me I Can Be" and entered every game with a "Can Do Attitude." This is the mental drive that molds successful teams, and this was what the Lady Barons were.

What sets this year's surf team apart from the many other surfers is their commitment. Practice is held three times a week after school at various surf spots like Rivei Jetties, Brookhurst St., Bolsa Chica, or Huntington Beach Pier. Once a week the team competed with other schools. The most difficult and challenging were the meets against Edison, Marina and Huntington Beach.

A group of four seniors consistently turned in outstanding performances. They were Kevin Feeney, Brian Van Holt, Kurt Obermeyer, and John Cassise. Rising stars are Jeff Schmitt, Jerry Clelanc, Brian Broderick, Laka Bugess, and Scott Smith.

Highlighted by players Cathy Penaflor, Michelle Elliott, Louise DeCanio, Stephanie Wood, Michelle Frejo, and Patricia Rosen. Wendy Kojima, Deena Hauver, and Kristi Beauchaup lead to the offense dominated games. The Lady Barons worked very hard to develop their awesome team, practicing for at least an hour after school every day. And it was all worth it! Way to go, girls!

Girls' J.V. Soccer

The Girl's JV Soccer Team promises to develop into a really strong Varsity team next year. This year, the full back line was held by, among others, Tara Morence, Therese Peters, and goalie Jaimie Morison. The offense was led by Nicholle Reichstein, Trisha Staake, Jennifer Westnup, and Tiffany Morenc. Some players that controlled the midfield were Jennifer Greenly, Mer Mer Chen, Christine Thompson, Stacey Cote, Leah Jones, and Demetra Syrengelas. These Barons were always dedicated, spirited, and full of pride. Ms. Adams did a great job helping our JV Girl's Soccer team achieve victory after victory. It was, and next year promises to be, an awesome year!

Varsity Boys Soccer

Varsity Boys Soccer 1986-1987: T. Morenc, M. Watanabe, C. Wimpenny, M. Maga, M. Siino, S. Steffan, S. Holt, M. Abend, M. Merli, K. Handler, D. Kirkpatrick, K. James, G. Kim, P. Mendiola, T. Mesa, and M. Ryan.

Walking past the tennis courts on your way to your car, you glimpse a blur of constant movement at the soccer field. School has been out for over an hour, and it's getting dark, but you can see the team's determined faces as the team indulges in vigorous drills and strenuous exercises.

You smile. It's going to be a winning year.

This year's Boy's Varsity Soccer team was always filled with this determination. As a very young team, the boys excelled under the coaching of Coach Ashby and gave each game their best effort. With all of the experience gained this year, next year's Boy's Varsity Soccer Team will definitely be the team to watch.

This year's JV Soccer team should be very a powerful team next year on Varsity. The guiding hand of Coach Mike Girgis, the togetherness of Mark Green, and Ron Mayeda, with Goalie Scott Aanonson, has already proved to be a volatile combination.

Admist much optimism, and hard work, the JV team is expected to do well, or, as one player put it: "We're gonna Shred."

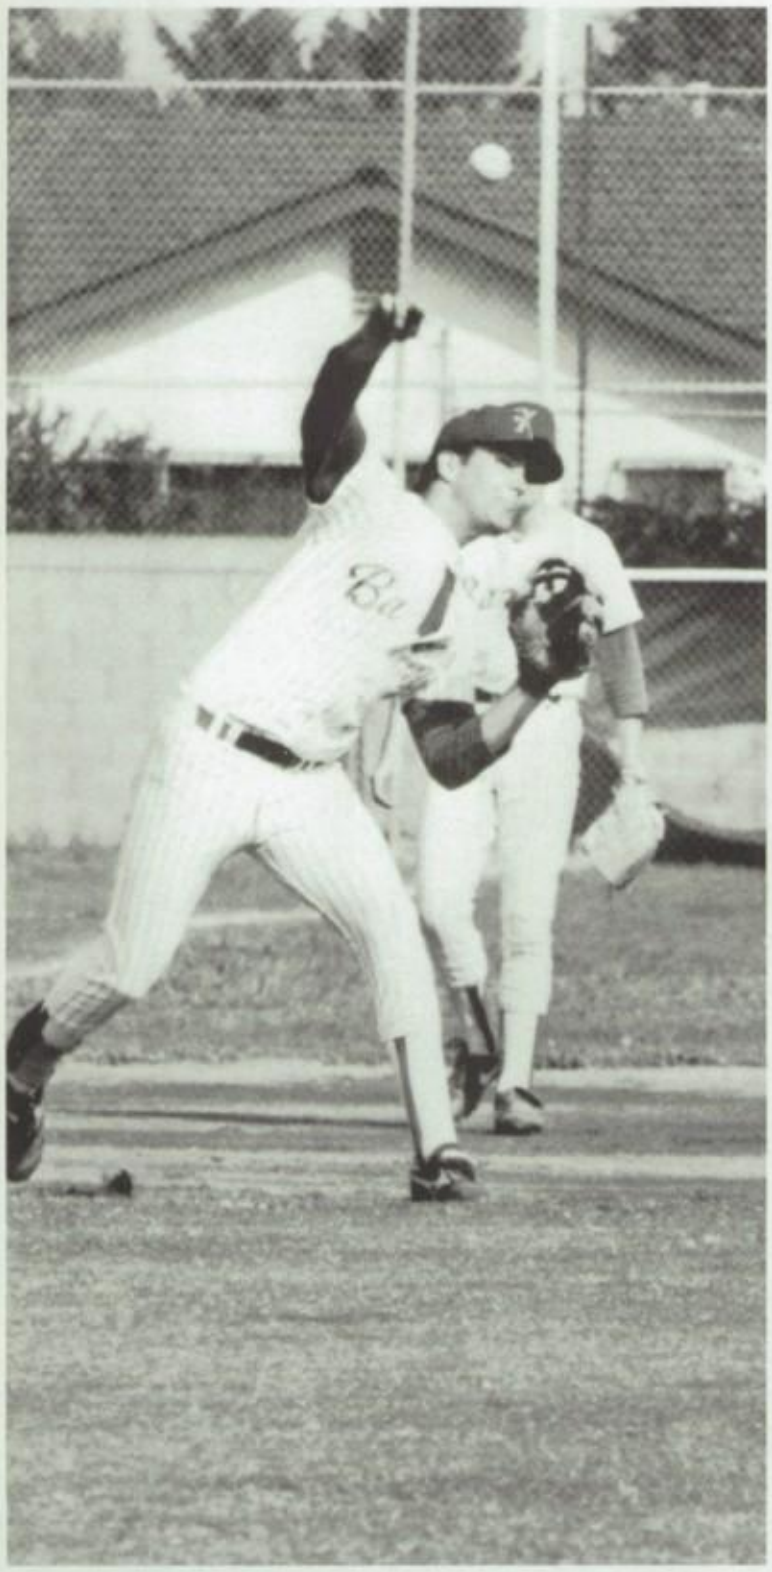
Varsity Baseball



As the dusk falls on the baseball diamond, the incessant cracking noise keeps on getting louder and louder. You look down and check your watch as your cross the field and ask yourself, "All this practice for baseball?" Yes, the team put forth countless hours of practice and it paid off when the season ended. Led by the senior leadership of Sam Martin, Cal Davis, Chris Neria, Tim Ashcraft, Court Dubar, Rob Flinn, and Phil Sakelios, the team finished higher than expected by other coaches in the district. This year proved to be a rebuilding year and a year of surprises as Tim Ashcraft turned in an unexpected results on the field.

Junior Varsity Baseball

What do you get when you introduce a group of sophomore boys to a glove, a mitt, a ball, and a bat? That's right — a successful Junior Varsity Baseball Team.

They were the youngest team to play at this level. But, to this sophomore team, age was always secondary to quality. They always tried their hardest to win every game; each game brought a new challenge, and each challenge was faced with winning in mind. They never gave up; they simply put their bat over the plate and swung their way to victory.

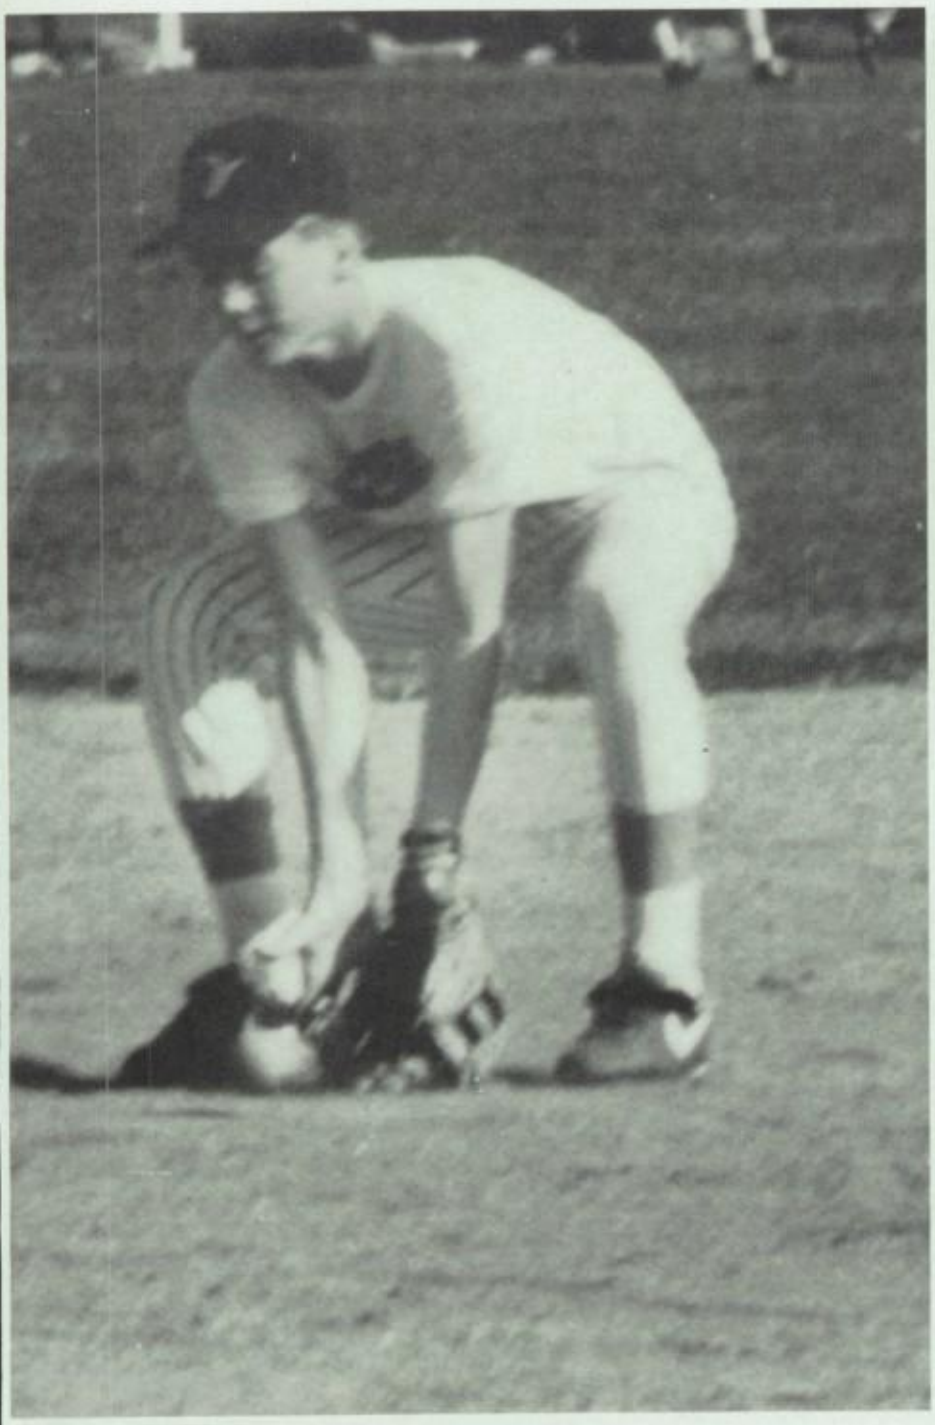
Frosh Baseball



A child of five years joins little league and develops an interest in the game. As he grows older, baseball fascinates him. He plays it in the street after school and on Saturdays for competition and victory.

High school — finally a time to show everyone what years of practice can do. This year's Freshman Baseball Team, eager to play and even practice, tried their hardest to win every game. The thing that contributed most to their success was their ability to pull together and use teamwork when the going got tough. By the end of the year, they were able to predict what the other players would do and respond respectively. This came from the dedication, hours of practice, and desire to win of this excellent team.

Varsity Softball

The hot crack of wood echoes through the field. A bullet whizzes through the air. Heavy feet pound on the grass. Cheers of victory rise from the bleachers. It's softball season — girl's varsity softball season that is. Coming off of a heartbraking CIF loss in '86, the team performed up to their potential this year, led by the strong talents of pitcher Jackie Blake, catcher Laurie Alvarez, Cindy Rice, and Dara Price. With so many excellent seniors, there's no doubt coaches Cary Baker and Dave Tuttle will have to rebuild the team next spring. But the Sunset League had a lot to fear from the Lady Barons.

In the shadow of Varsity softball is the hardworking J.V. team. But they stand in their own fight as a solid unit with a winning record, led by the talents of Pavla Estes and Stacey Wainwright as well as the fine coaching of Les Wolf. Although the girls faced many challenging opponents, they ended the season filled with the pride from many hours of dedication and practice.

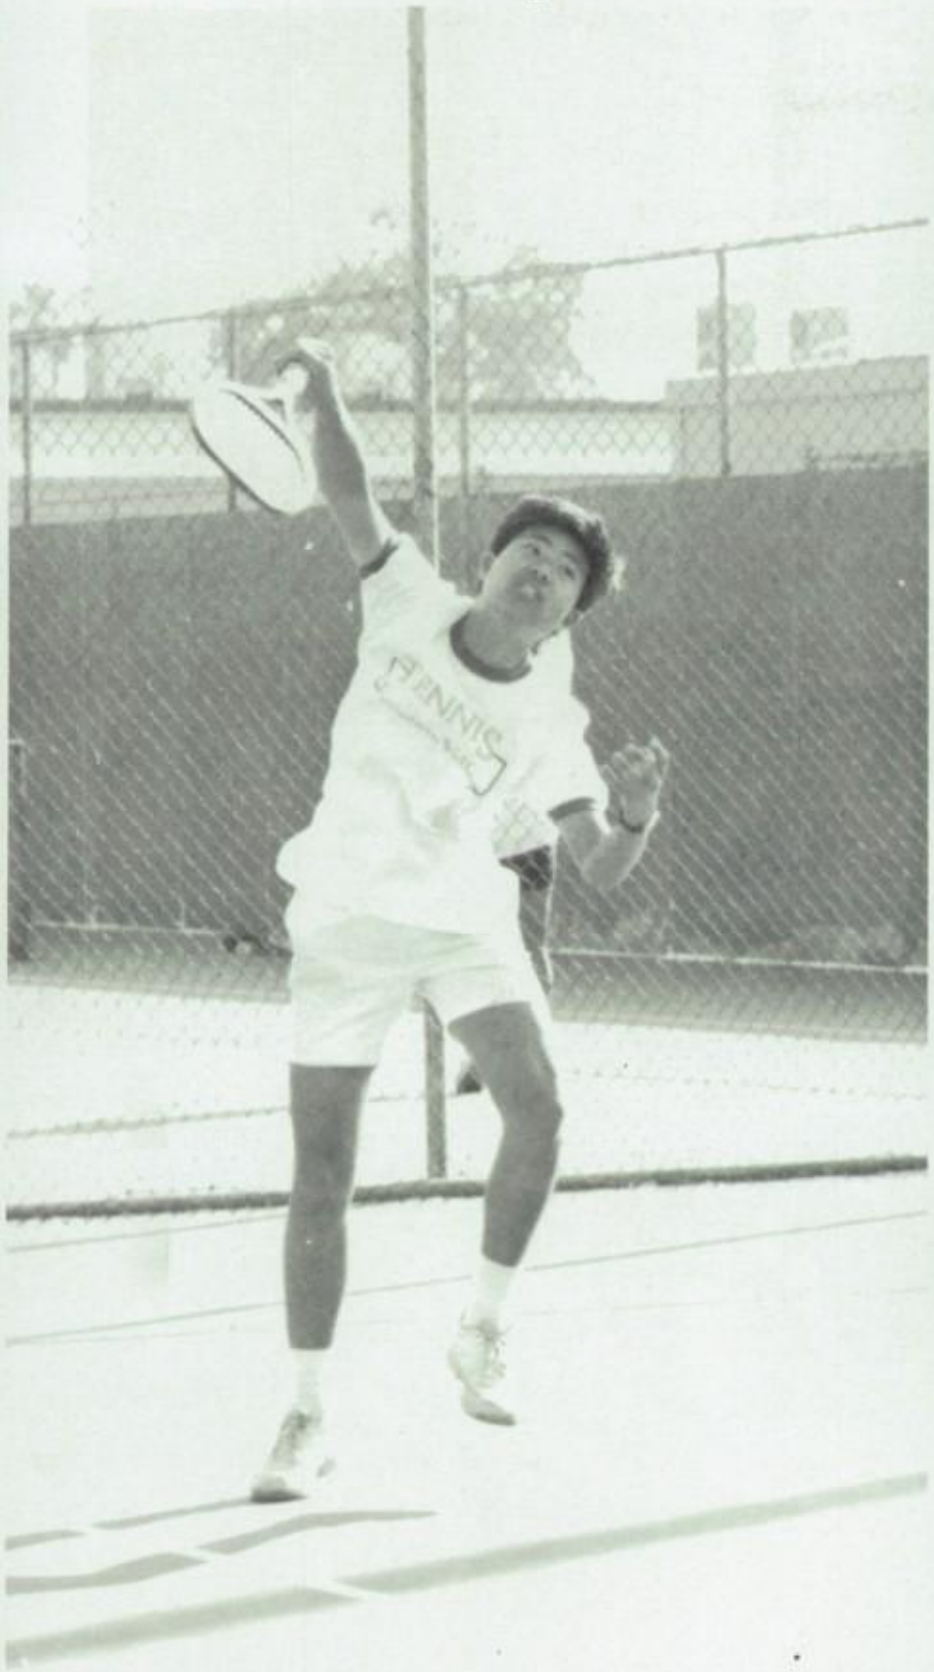
Boys Varsity Tennis



"Tennis team? We have a tennis team?" questions one freshman as he is about to walk home after sixth period English. Not only do we have a tennis team, but we have one of the top tennis teams in the league. The team losing its top players last year due to graduation was not expected to finish in the top, but they managed to be in the top three in the league. Dominated by the senior players in the team — Eugene Kwon, Ron Kim, Mark Mykles, Steve Sun, Jay Headley, and Mike Ni — the team had another successful season defeating other teams under the strong leadership of coach Jay Gardener.

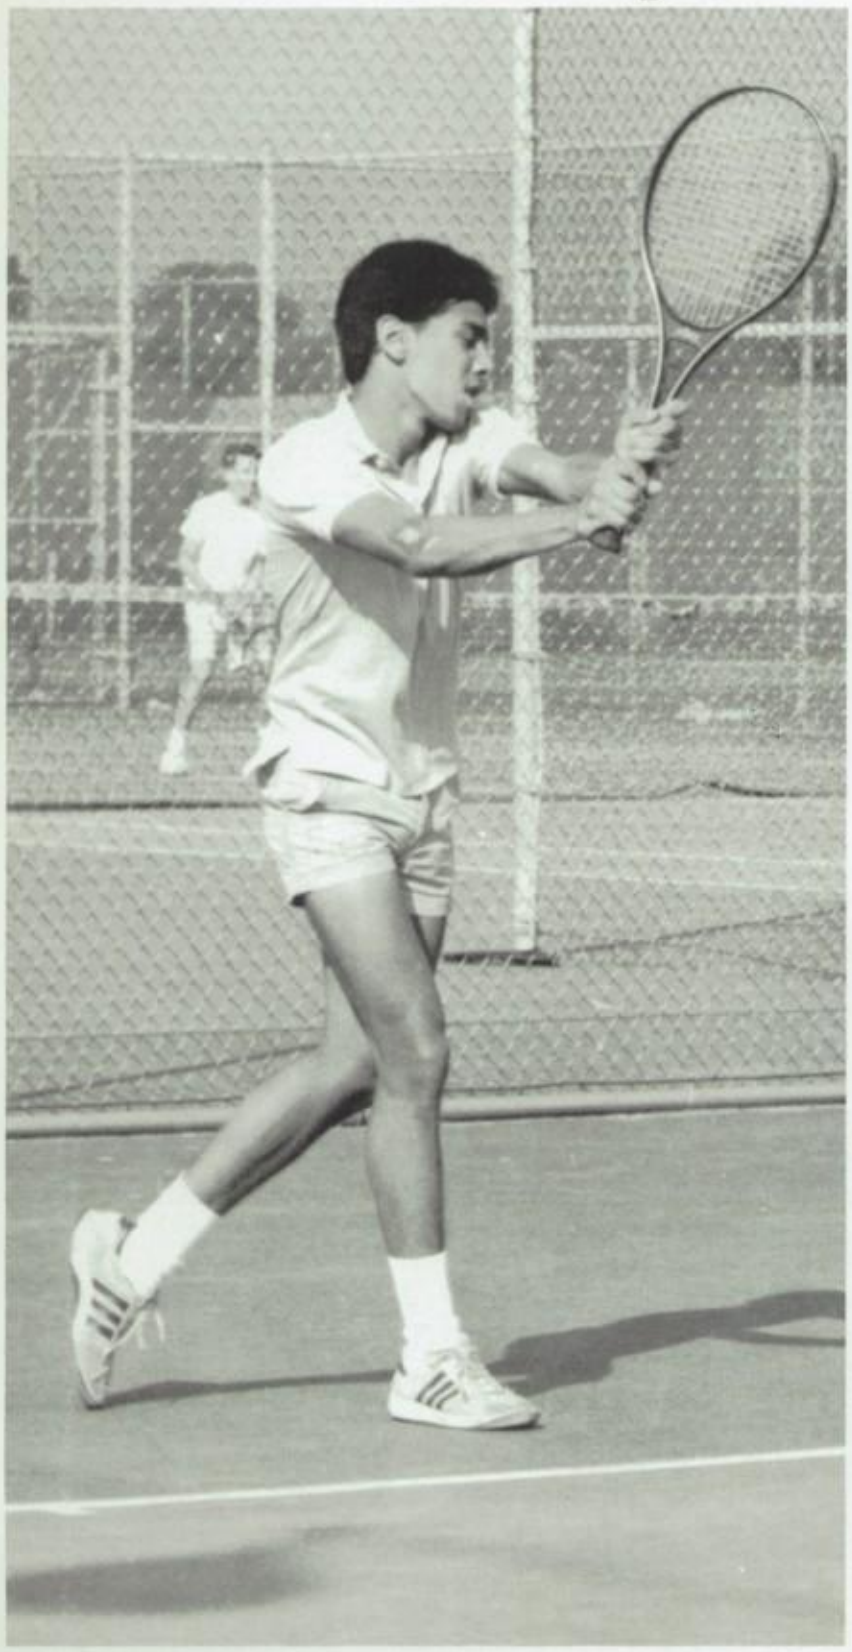
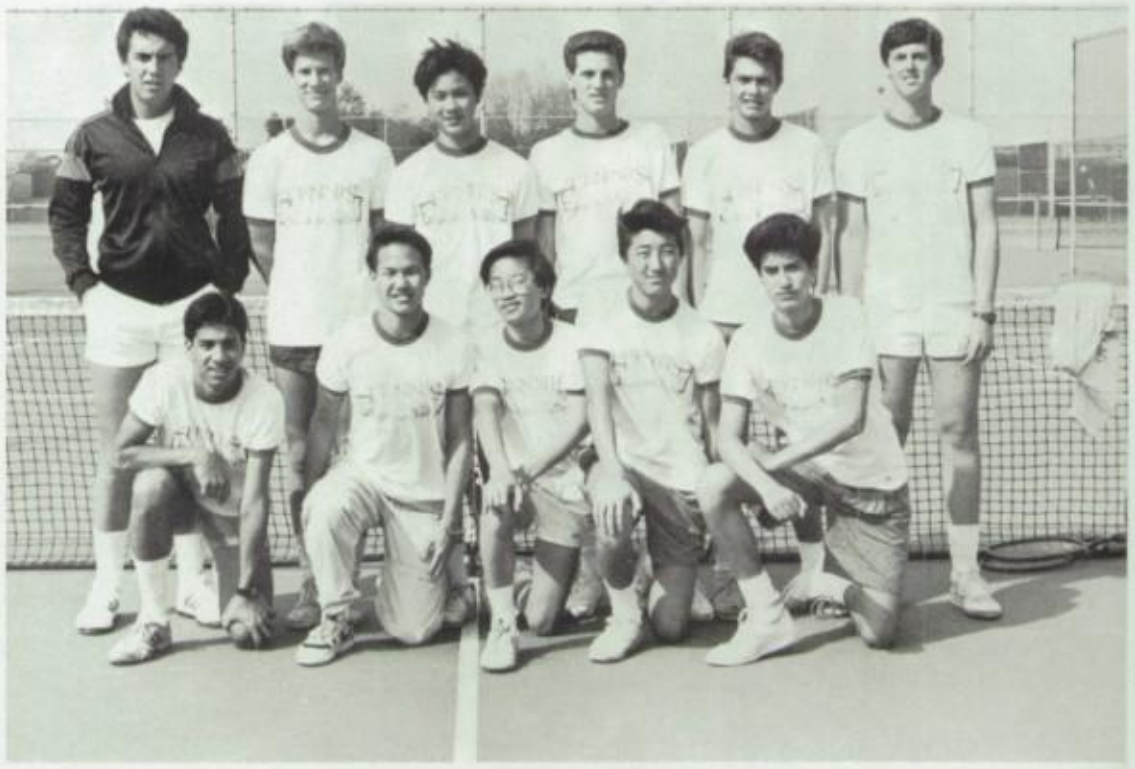
J.V./Frosh Tennis





Tennis can cause great tension in a person because of the one-on-one competition throughout the game. Kevin Scott and Sachin Despande have expressed that tennis is a hard sport and how grueling matches can be. This year's J.V. and Frosh teams know the meaning of hard work and dedication because they have been working on it all year long.

Varsity Boy's Swimming

This year's Boys' Varsity Swim Team had an outstanding year. Seniors Craig Bugbee and Kevin Pagoda, with juniors Mark Nielsen and Jason Huffman, with the coaching experience of Coach Ray Bray, all combined to form a very powerful varsity team. Every time members of the varsity team found themselves on the starting block, they were as determined as ever to go that extra lap in record time with their greatest effort. Even at the infamously tiring morning workouts (which began in a very cold pool at 6:00 a.m.) and at the workouts after school (which often continued until 5:00 p.m.), the team showed iron determination and strength. They worked extremely hard, and, in looking back over a successful year, it is easy to see that it all paid off.

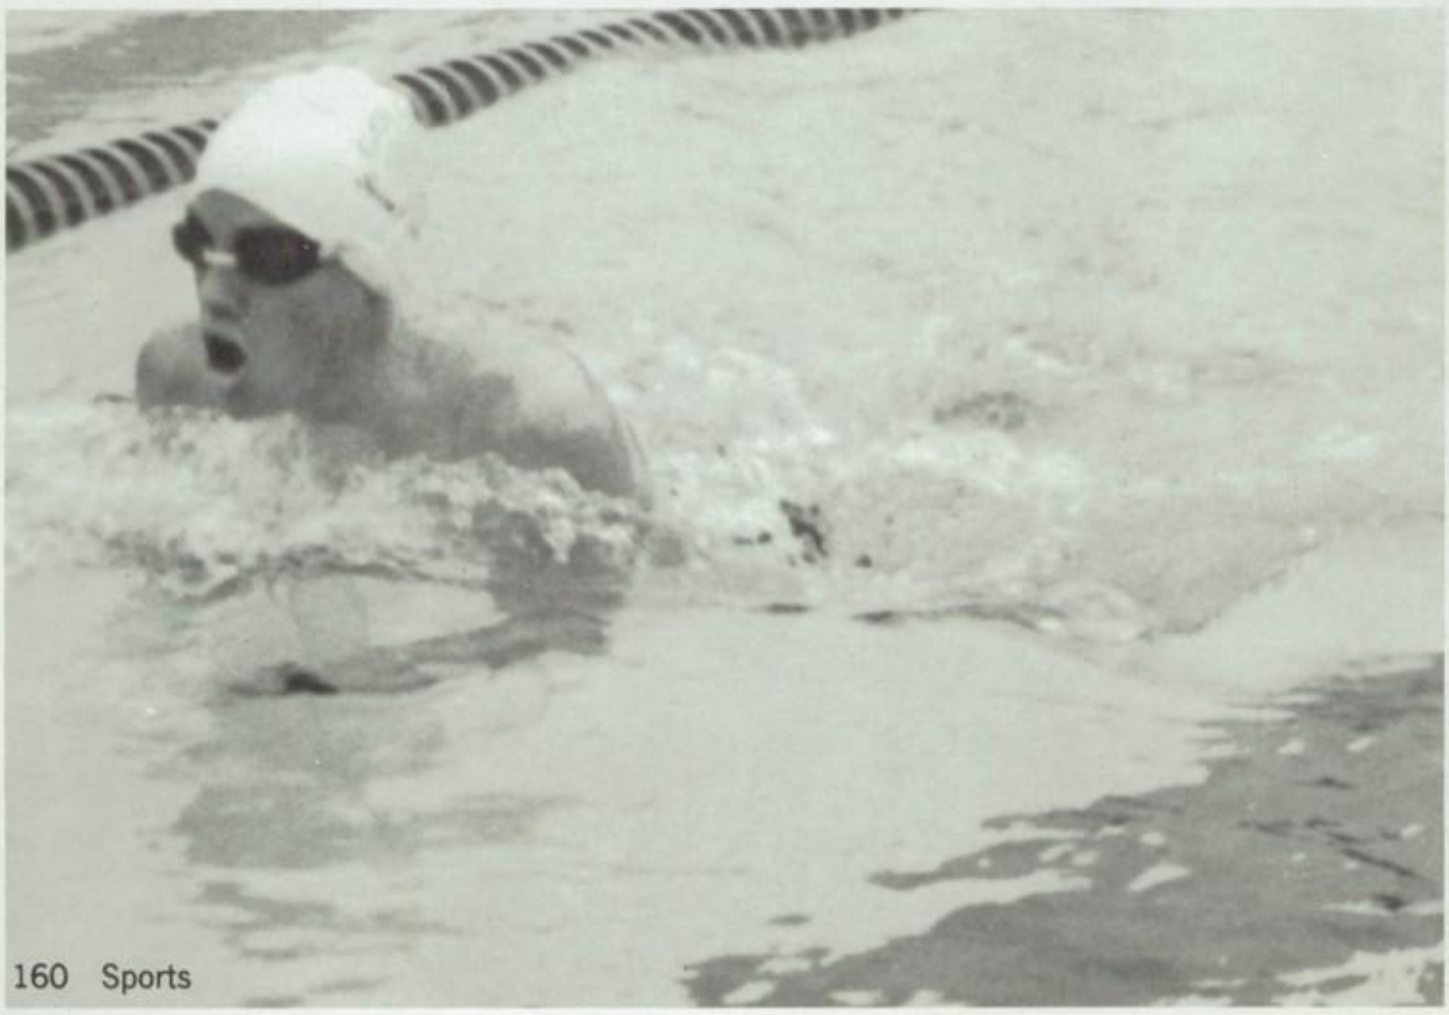
Junior Varsity Swimming



With the experienced and motivating coaching of Coach Ray Bray, the Boys' Junior Varsity Swim Team had a year full of triumphs and medals. Led by juniors Jesse Russel and Matt Nelson and by sophomores Joel Williams and Ralph Grant, the team strove for the highest peak, and they never missed that goal. Individually mastering the freestyle and the butterfly strokes and, as a team, racing for perfection in relays, the team showed its experience and skill to all who watched.

The Varsity Team next year will definitely be one to be reckoned with!

Frosh Swimming

In following the precedent set by the other boys' swim teams, the Boys' Frosh/Soph Team had an excellent year. Coach Dennis Schiller was very demanding, but the hard work paid off. Learning several swimming strokes and techniques as well as some great qualities like good sportsmanship, the members of this team will be great assets to next year's JV and maybe even Varsity Swim Teams. Watch them in the future. You may be surprised . . .

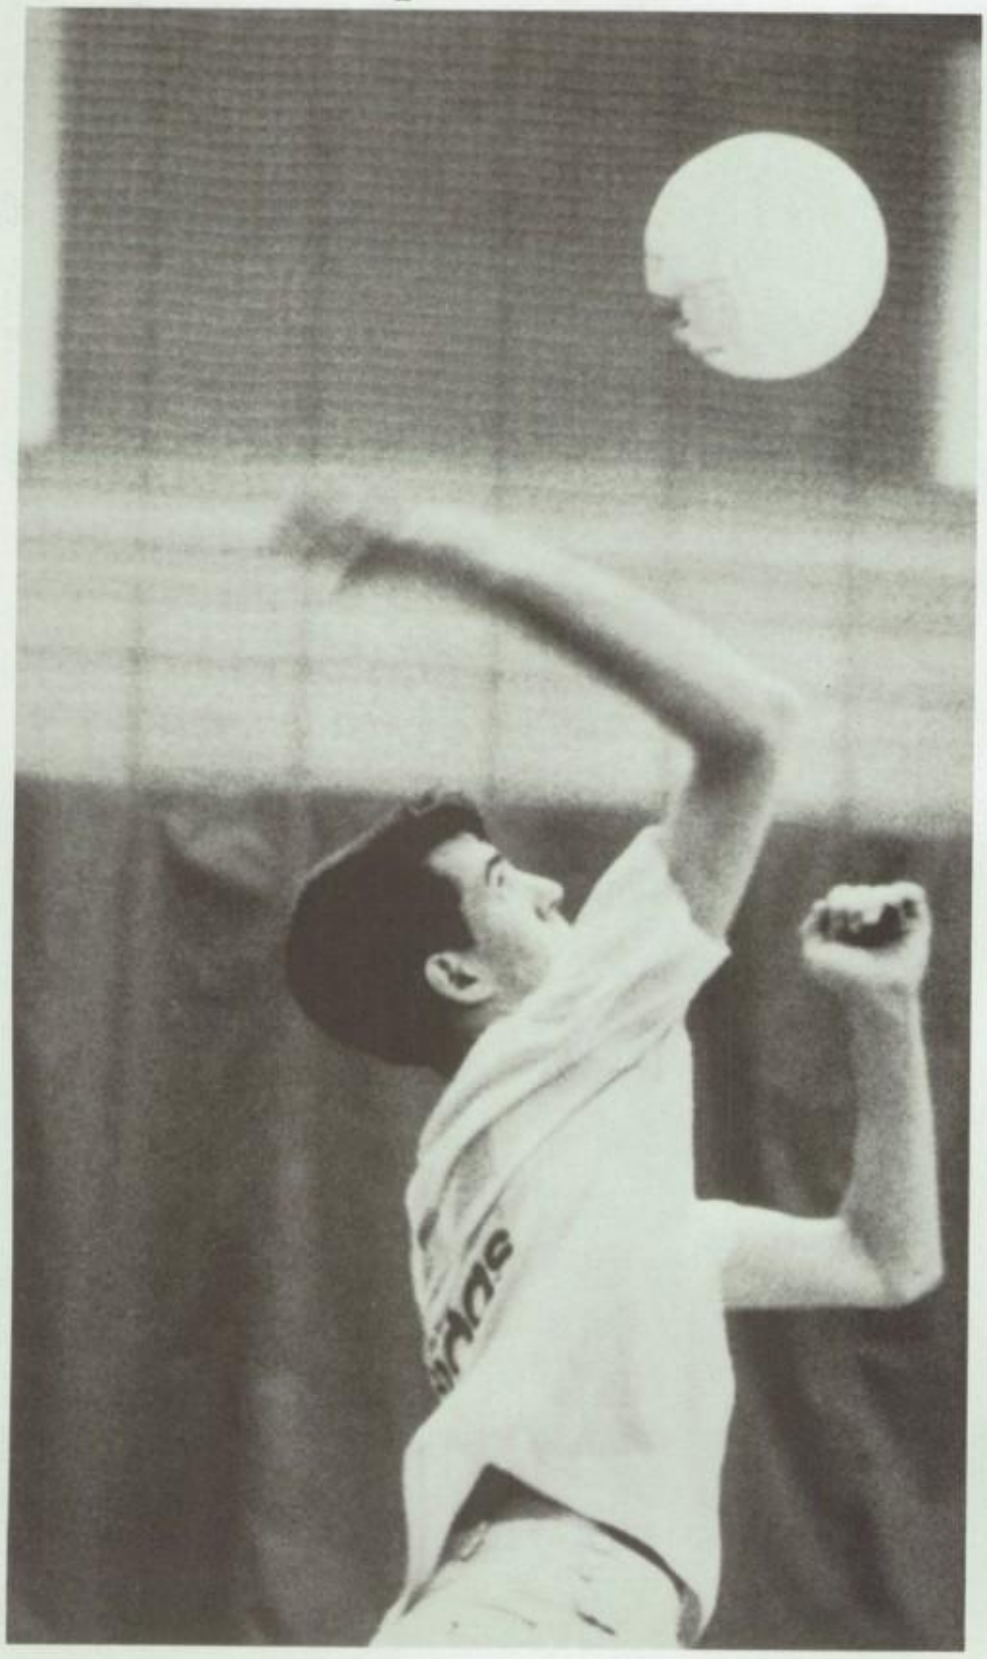
Boy's Varsity Volleyball



The game of Volleyball takes much more than just practice and dedication. It takes a certain desire to play the game. This year's Varsity Volleyball team had that certain desire to win. The team has something that places them above the rest. Girls Varsity Swimming

It's very hard to get into the water when it feels colder than the air around you, but that's what swimmers like Debbie Babashoff, Sharon Darone, and Carolyn Bentley have to do. The girl's varsity swim team must dedicate themselves to their sport in order to achieve the goals they are capable of. Great talent is bound to emerge from this very talented team.

A splash of success — no other words could better describe the Girls' Varsity Swim Team. Led by Coaches Debbie Kelly and Ray Bray, the team showed a determination to succeed like never before! Individually, the girls excelled, and some of the swimmers may even continue on to the 1988 Olympics.

Whatever the members of this excellent team decide to do in the future, their past on the Girls' Varsity Swim Team has assured them a proud spot here at Baron Manor. Many years of hard work, long practices, and sheer determination and willpower have created a wave that will long be felt for years to come.

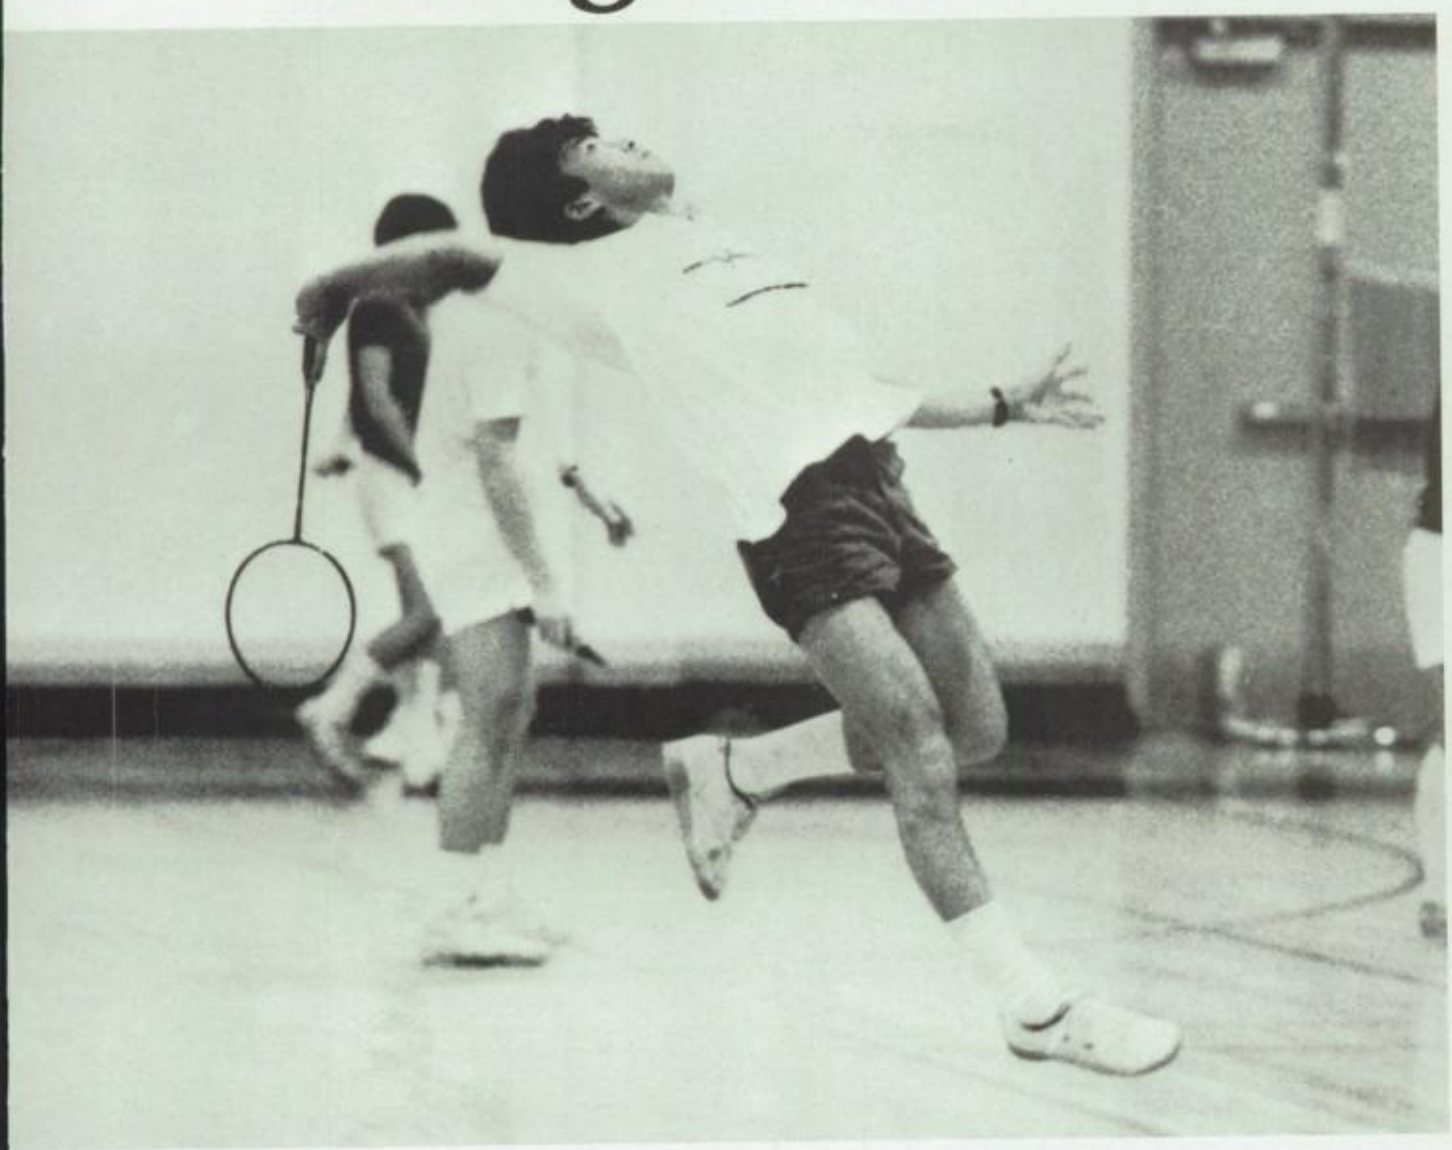
J.V. Girl's Swimming

Splash! Splash! Splash! No, it's not the movie, it's the Girls' J.V. Swimming Team practicing to become the best that they can be. The difficult practice schedule had to be met and conquered as they reach the top of the league. It's fait accompli that the Baron's are a power house to be contended with.

No matter the outcome of any swim meet, the Girls' J.V. and Frosh/Soph Teams always made excellence their top priority this year. With the help of Coach Debbie Kelly, the teams met such challenges as Edison and Marina with the knowledge that they COULD win and that they WOULD win!

With that winning attitude, both teams were committed to excellence for a very successful year.

Singles Badminton



Speeding through two yellowish-red lights, you attempt to arrive at badminton practice on time. But you arrive just a few minutes late, the wrath of Coach Palmer is upon you!

Actually, Coach Palmer is extremely dedicated to her team, and this dedication has helped the badminton teams excel beyond all expectations. Everything in badminton is a team effort, but several players did establish themselves as major contributors to the team effort. Top singles players for the boys were Ross Cope and Steve Nakanishi and for the girls, Tang Lam and Anh Le. With these outstanding members, the teams entered several major tournaments in their quest for the CIF championship.

Doubles Badminton

All the badminton teams have put forth nothing less than maximum effort and have gotten back nothing less than maximum victories. Among the top doubles players for the girls were Pam Seyffert and Belinda Boyer and for the boys, Bob Albright and Peter Yoon and Kevin Lange. With the CIF championship in mind, the teams worked hard and played hard, and it all paid off tremendously!

I would really like to thank everyone that put up with the dictatorship rule of the Sports section because I can be a pain. There is one person, however, that has meant a lot of help to me and is very dear to my heart. She has not only helped me with the work, but also been there when I needed her. Thank you Lynda for everything; you will never be forgotten.

The Spotlight

Here they are! The future of the school depends upon this 75% of the students. Some will be the great leaders of upcoming years, some will just uphold FV's high standard of athletics, arts, and academics.

It is said that Seniors have the most fun or are most classified as "Born To Be Wild." However, the Underclassmen probably have the most fun! Freshmen and Sophomores have virtually no worries at all — except maybe getting used to a big campus. Juniors, although burdened by tons of college exams, make the best of their intense year.

It is not often when individuals get attention at FVHS. These individuals are not well-known by a large number of people (they are not "popular" campus-wide). Well, the yearbook staff thought it was about time that you saw other talents and interesting people (maybe that's you!) that usually don't get noticed. These people, and the hundreds of others we couldn't feature, are as important to the school as a star athlete. Therefore, the yearbook staff has put the "spotlight" on six or seven students from each class to show everyone how the underclassmen are a great group of people who were definitely "Born To Be Wild!"

The Compulsive Shopper KARI TERICH

Kari is one of Fountain Valley's well-rounded juniors who manages to keep herself busy at school. She is a very outgoing and open student. She loves to spend time with her friends and meet new people everyday. She considers herself to be a compulsive shopper and will do so every chance she gets. Other than shopping, Kari likes the beach and listening to KROQ and groups such as Depeche Mode and The Pet Shop Boys.

Big deal, you say? This is a description of half of the girls attending Fountain Valley High School! Well, Kari Terich has much more to her than that. She sings in the school choir and has been doing so in Mr. Reid's Concert Choir for a while now. She is also a part of Junior Commission and plans to be an active member for the rest of the year. U.S. History with Mr. Lacey is her favorite class, and Geometry is one of her worst subjects. She says she is trying her best.

Outside of school Kari likes to be with her friends and loves to write. She is extremely interested in the news and plans to major in journalism. She will later become a journalist stationed somewhere in Washington or London. She eventually hopes to end up a famous news anchor. May the spirit of Tricia Toyota be with her always!

A Man of Many Talents PERRY SHIEH

Perry Shieh is a man of numerous talents. Not only does he excel in academics in this his eleventh year, he also is a tremendous violinist, is very involved in school activities, speaks three languages fluently, is involved in the community, participated in athletics, and surprisingly, has some free time.

As a junior, Perry faced an incredibly difficult schedule with courses like Spanish 4 AP, Biology AP, Calculus, U.S. History AP, English 3 Honors, and Physics. He maintains a straight-A average and aspires to be a doctor. He also is very involved in school affairs, working with C.S.F., B.A.S., and junior commission. Previously, in his sophomore year, he ran on the cross-country and track teams.

In addition, Perry is involved in the community, actively participating in the Taiwanese-American Student Association. He is fluent in three languages — English, Taiwanese, and Spanish. During his free time, he enjoys swimming, reading, and spending time with friends.

A great talent that Perry possesses is his ability to play the violin, which he does extremely well; however, despite this talent, he cannot play in the school orchestra because of his full academic schedule. Perry still practices his violin skills at home and performs numerous concerts on the weekends.

He is definitely a man of many talents!

Highest Honor of Eagle Scout MARC TAYLOR

Fountain Valley High School is lucky to have the multi-talented Marc Taylor as one of its students. His achievements in the areas of music, academics, and scouting are an example of Fountain Valley High School spirit and dedication. This dedication takes many forms. Instrumental music is one of these forms, playing an important part in Marc's life. Being one of the drum majors, Marc has displayed outstanding leadership. Since his freshman year at Fountain Valley High School, he has played the trumpet in a Jazz Band, a Wind Ensemble, a Symphonic Band, and the U.C.I. Wind Ensemble.

Having an outstanding tenor voice, Marc has also sung in Concert Choir for two years and is a Troubadour.

Marc knows how to make the grade when it comes to academic achievement. Even with his busy schedule, he still has time to maintain honor role status and is a member of CSF.

With all these activities, Marc has also been active in Boy Scouts of America. After six years in Boy Scouts, Marc became an honored Eagle Scout — the highest honor a Boy Scout can attain.

Marc Taylor is the kind of person Fountain Valley High School can be proud of. He has true Baron pride!

Whistles With Mouth Closed

KERRY BURNS

You know Kerry Burns, the girl who can snow ski backwards and whistle with her mouth closed?

With her mouth closed! It's a rare occasion when Kerry's mouth is closed! In fact, Kerry believes that the main problem with FVHS is a lack of time for proper socializing. Seven minutes between classes just doesn't do it for Kerry.

The extra time that Kerry spends playing Basketball and Volleyball compensates this lack of absolutely essential time to gossip and plan for the weekends. As Captain of the sophomore Basketball team, as well as the Volleyball team, Kerry stopped talking long enough to lead both teams to seasons full of pride and spirit.

All this from a girl who used to play in the gutter when it rained? The need to be wild, no longer satisfied by wet gutters, drove her further than ever before this year. This wild drive shifted into high gear as Kerry and her friends enjoyed creating an atmosphere of total restaurant chaos by torturing and harassing their innocent waiters and waitresses and then leaving no tip!

There is a serious side to this crazy gal. She works hard to maintain her grades and dreams of a life in the clouds as an airline stewardess. From rain filled gutters to the wild blue yonder!!! You've come a long way baby!

She Is Always Happy FELICIA HALL

When you think of creativeness, spirit, energy, and intelligence, who do you think of? Why, of course! You think of Felicia Hall, an outstanding member of the class of 1988. Going to almost every football game, Felicia gives her all to do all she can for Fountain Valley High School. Not only is she a spectator for the mighty Baron Air Force, but she keeps track of the statistics for our Basketball team.

Felicia Hall does not just spectate for the Fountain Valley athletics; she participates. She is on the tennis squad, field hockey team, and badminton team. In other words, she physically devotes herself year 'round to Baron athletics. Felicia uplifts all who know her. Even if she's down, if Felicia sees a sad face, she devotes her energy and cheerfulness to making that someone happy. Do you think that's enough to make a fantastic person? Well, it's not, because Felicia is also an above average student in the area of brains. Enrolled in such high level classes as Chemistry and Algebra II/Trigonometry, she still maintains practically a 4.0 grade average.

To you, Felicia Hall, who is a most outstanding junior here at Fountain Valley is given congratulations for being so talented. You give all of your great achievements and this school your own personal, likable style. We Barons salute you!

Stanford Prospect and Singer SACHIN DESHPANDE

An extremely well-rounded junior attending Fountain Valley High School this year is Sachin Deshpande. Here is a young man with many special talents, one of which is an effortless knack to excel in academics. In addition to maintaining a straight "A" GPA, Sachin also partakes in many extracurricular activities. Among these are his membership in the German Club, C.S.F., and Yearbook. Athletically, Sachin is a prominent member of the school tennis team. With all these credentials, Sachin entertains future hopes of going to Stanford.

Away from the busy confusion of school, Sachin occupies his leisure time by participating in sports, including football, racquetball, tennis, and land sailing. He also enjoys spending time with his friends at night. He enjoys the nightlife. "It's how I unwind," he sighs.

Unwinding also takes place in the garage, where he jams with his band The Peculiar Institutions, in which he sings and plays the piano. His current band is the offspring of Ivan Maroni and the Occult, which broke up less than a year ago. Sachin hopes that his new quartet will be a prominent new act in the local music scene.

Certainly, Sachin Deshpande has many, versatile talents that will carry him very far. One day, we'll look back and say, "Hey, I knew him!"

Actress at South Coast Repertory JULIE MOULTON

Maybe you've seen her around school. Or possibly at Leno's pizza parlour — her favorite place to hang out after school. Could it have been at South Coast Repertory when she did a play? Wherever it was, you should be proud if you've ever met Julie Moulton.

Julie is not the most vocal person at Fountain Valley — sometimes she is very shy. But with her friends, who are the most important thing in her life, she really gets wild!

At school, this wildness is perfect for drama class. For 2 years Julie has also taken classes at South Coast Repertory. After one more year of classes, she will be ready to go out and audition. She feels these classes are giving her the background and experience needed to be her best. When acting, Julie likes to portray other people, and in this way, she opens her mind to other ways of life. Many people go into acting for fame and fortune; to Julie, this is not right. She wishes to pursue this career because she enjoys it. One day, Julie hopes to go to UCLA and major in theater. Travel is also in the future for Julie. She wants to visit Europe and feels England is a good place to audition for plays.

Good luck Julie. You've got what it takes!

Who is the most enthusiastic Sophomore? Who has school spirit and isn't afraid to show it?

Many people fit this description. But it surely fits Monica Wright. Monica works hard at school to keep her A's and B's. She enjoys all the activities that go along with school, but Monica could do without the pressures of homework and finals. Her favorite class is Spanish with Mrs. Felix. When asked why, she replied, "Mrs. Felix is the greatest teacher. She does give homework, but she talks to us about other things also." In the future, Monica hopes to go to college and become a special education teacher or a psychologist.

Monica tries to become involved in other activities at school and at home. She was on the Drill Team, and she has participated in dance. She also enjoys playing basketball, skiing, and swimming. To keep in contact with her past, her family attends Norwegian Club meetings away from school. There they talk with friends and have a good time, and once in a while they dress up in traditional costumes.

Monica is happiest when she is around other people. On weekends, she enjoys going to the movies and just hanging out with friends. Monica definitely has a winning personality!

Like many other students throughout Southern California, Heather Smith dreams of being in the movies. However, Heather is a little different from the rest in that she doesn't dream of seeing herself on the big screen, but she wants to be behind the scenes as a director or writer.

She lists writing as one of her talents, and she is in the Writers' Club. But that is just one of her many talents. She is also a 4.0 student who tries to do well in everything she does. She also greatly values friendship, and she says that she is very close to her friends.

To Heather, wild is loud music. She enjoys music by Prince, and she is also a Duranie (a fan of the musical group Duran Duran).

Heather is a very special person for all of these reasons and more. She is a great individual with some truly special talents!

"My name is Shpade, Sam Shpade," Mark Pieter began. Continuing, he told Sam Shpade's story of how he tracked down the one man responsible for all of the bad jokes at which we all wince. It was a long story. It was a funny story. It was a humorous interpretation speech for one of several speaking competitions that Mark entered this year.

Mark Pieter — a talented speaker, an Eagle Scout, a hiker on the weekends, and a pianist — is a multi-talented sophomore attending our school. At school, he can often be found practicing for a tournament for his favorite class, speech. "It is a fun class . . . with fun people," he explains.

School is loaded with difficult classes like Algebra II/Trig and Chemistry, but at home, Mark relaxes. Listening to Bill Cosby or Eddie Murphy, Mark can forget the trials and tribulations of school and just laugh!

Mark recalls a moment two years ago when it wasn't as easy to laugh. "I was standing in the band room, talking to a friend of mine . . . Two sophomores came up and tried to trash can me!!"

Mark rests easier now that he is a sophomore; his days of being trash-canned are over! Now he can look forward to next year and the status of a junior, possibly more speech competitions, and an exciting, fun time!

Every weekend, she can be found at the rink. She spends over $390.00 skating every year. And if she couldn't skate? "I would go crazy!" confesses roller addict Tracy Rolfe, an eccentric sophomore with many other longtime talents and hobbies.

Since the fourth grade, Tracy has played the violin, and she is a member of the FVHS Orchestra. On Thursdays, she sings in the church choir. On Mondays, she bowls with the first place Baron Bowling Club.

When at home, Tracy can gaze at the beautiful landscapes adorning the walls. Renoir? Van Gogh? "I painted them!" Tracy asserts, having taken art lessons at the Forbes Museum in Fountain Valley. With her artistic talent, she placed third at the 1984 Orange County Fair with a portrait of "American Man's Best Friend." This artistic hobby has led her to pursue a possible major in music/art or architecture.

Tracy finds time for school activities, too. She is a member of the Keywanettes, and, in October, Tracy helped design, construct, and perform in various rooms at the 10th Annual March of Dimes Haunted House.

As the victim in Freddie Krueger's boiler room from "Nightmare on Elm Street," she kicked and screamed for over 13,000 customers. "One guy hit the wall and dropped on the floor, a girl lost her retainer, a guy lost his shoe . . . and the best part was scaring little kids." For her ghoulish role, Tracy was filmed for a national commercial and a story about her was aired on JCET-TV.

Tracy lives a very fulfilling life. What's her secret? "It doesn't matter what you are on the outside, it's what you are inside that counts," she says, smiling.

Most assuredly, it's that kind of bright, optimistic attitude that has helped Tracy come this far.

Description: Brown hair, blue eyes, approximately 5 feet, 4 inches, 103 pounds.

Occupation: Sophomore at Fountain Valley High School

"Good morning, Fountain Valley," Marlene begins her section of the morning announcements. You've heard her every Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, and now you get to see a little of the personal side of Marlene Solway.

Marlene is more than just the voice you hear on morning announcements; she's also a member of the Writers' Club, and an apt student with an excellent GPA. As a new member of the Speech Club, Marlene also proved her speaking ability by becoming a finalist at the Cyprus Invitational Speech Tournament.

Marlene is active away from school as well. She sings in her temple choir and plays the cello. She also speaks fluent Hebrew. When she leaves school, Marlene says that she wants to be the greatest and most respected teacher in the world.

Marlene is definitely a person worth getting to know. Good luck in the future, Marlene!

"Aim High" is the phrase indicative of the U.S. Air Force. It is also what Todd Lassig keeps close to his heart as he dreams of flying a fighter for the Air Force. He plans to attempt to get into the Academy; if he doesn't make it, he plans on joining the Air Force. To prepare for this future, Todd is training privately to be a pilot. He is currently working with a single engine plane.

Flying, however, isn't the only activity that receives Todd's attention. He spends many hours building balsa wood, remote control models. He also photographs military paraphernalia.

The school's bands also receive much of Todd's efforts. He plays alto saxophone for the marching band and for the jazz band. The heavy marching band schedule for the year challenged Todd, but he still managed to do very will in his other classes.

Taking a break from all of these activities, Todd often visits his uncle during the summer where he enjoys many days operating a speed boat. Todd Lassig is a guy who knows how to unwind the WILD way!

Hard Work and a Smile Juliana Ng

Zavodnik, Cheryl
Zebarth, Mark
Zine, Kenneth

A talented violinist, an active member of yearbook, a speaker of both English and Chinese, and a cherished friend of many — who could possibly be all of this?

Her name is Juliana Ng. Juliana is a special person who is very involved in many school activities. She has been a member of our Orchestra for two years, and, this year, she has challenged herself by taking on the responsibility of helping to put this yearbook together. Gracing both Orchestra and the yearbook staff with her abilities, Juliana has given both classes her hard work and her smile whenever they were needed.

Even with demanding classes like these, Juliana has still managed to receive mostly A's and B's throughout her stay in high school.

Of course, everyone needs a break. After school is over, especially on the weekends, Juliana enjoys being with her friends, going to parties, and just having a great time!

What does the future look like for Juliana. Well, she plans to become either a fine arts/music or a business major. And, with such a special, friendly person as Juliana, anything is possible!

Sunday School Teacher JULIE YOUNG

Rhythm and style can be seen in Julie Young's life. Bands such as Marching and Symphonic band keep her busy. When one listens to the Wind Ensemble group, one notices that she plays with style.

Still grades and Honor roll are important to her. To keep her grades at least a 3.5 is one of her goals in high school.

Job's Daughter's and Swim Team are Julie's two loves outside of school. Getting involved in Job's Daughter's as an officer and practicing and racing in swimming keep her busy. Nevertheless, like almost all other California teens, the beach is one place you can often find Julie. Relaxing or absorbing sun rays are ways she enjoys the California beach and sun.

Helping others as a Sunday school teacher, Julie expresses her love for her religion. She loves to help people! Julie is definitely a person who loves and cares about everyone and a person who's easy to love and care about too!

"I Never Worry" BECKY BURNES

"I don't want to be popular. I don't want to be a Homecoming Queen . . ." says a perky, level-headed freshman named Becky Burnes. At a time when most 9th graders may shy away from involvement or dream of starring in the high school play or being captain of the football team, Becky has a refreshingly different outlook on life.

Coming from a small private school, Liberty Christian, with a graduating class of only 19 students, a big high school must have seemed an intimidating place. But Becky looks at it as "just another school year," and in fact, the only thing that was hard to adjust to was the freedom of the dress code! Looks like nothing fazed Becky! "Probably my worst problem is that I never worry. When things go bad, I'm shocked."

But Becky's attitude on life isn't the only thing that sets her apart from the pack. Dance, gymnastics, singing, ice skating, tennis, softball, and volleyball all are activities in which Becky participates. In December, she tried out for West Side Story just to meet people and much to her surprise, ended up on the call back list and came within three people of making the cast. Still, theatre is something she plans to pursue during her four years here, as is serving the school and community, through Keywanettes. "The best part was when they kidnapped us and toilet papered and spray painted us and paraded us down the pier in our pajamas," she happily recalls.

High school, no doubt, has more strange experiences in store for Becky. But for now, she'd just like to work harder on her grades so she can go to college and settle down and eventually pursue a career in interior decorating. And with stability, high school may just prove to be "another four years," but knowing Becky's nature, it will surely be something very special.

Freshman Gets Varsity Letter

LISA PECHULS

The first thing you notice about Lisa Pechuls is her smile. Not just any grin but a great big blushing happiness that lights up her whole face and lets you know her bright, optimistic attitude right away. "I smile a lot. I do, and I laugh easily . . . if things are bad, I just say to myself 'they can't get any worse'."

So where does all this exuberance manifest itself? In a variety of activities, mainly sports, including JV soccer, swimming, gymnastics, waterskiing, and snowskiing. In the fall she earned her varsity letter in cross country. "Every Thursday I'd go through a lot of pain but I'd think if I make it through just this race then I'd never have to do it again. But I never quit."

And Lisa doesn't limit herself to sports. At Freshman Orientation she noticed how much fun the student government members were having together and knew right away that she wanted to be part of it. Twice a week she reports to classes on campus activities as a Senator. But it isn't always easy. "Sometimes, I have to put myself down to make other people laugh and want to do stuff."

And it's good that Lisa can laugh now because she has very serious career plans. When she was younger, she made frequent trips to the doctor for asthma and by fifth grade, she was sure she wanted to specialize in pediatric care.

The Man With Magic Fingers

CHRIS CHANDLER

Chris is one of FV's students who is willing to do a great deal for his school. While attending Masuda Middle school last year, he was the activities director in charge of all the dances, sports, announcements, etc. He put in a great amount of time and effort to insure the school was entertained and well-informed. Chris graduated as the Most Outstanding Student and was selected to be the emcee at his graduation.

Chris' life at Fountain Valley is still very busy. He carries periods 0-6 and still has time for jazz band. In the jazz band, he plays his Roland synthesizer (you may have heard his sound effects and excellent playing at basketball games). His keyboard expertise was used in the spring musical West Side Story. Chris also played trumpet for the marching band and the symphony band.

Chris adjusted well to the change from 8th to 9th grade with the help of a middle-school background. The crowds didn't bother him at all. He gets along with others quite well. He has the unusual talent of being able to speak comfortably before large crowds.

Besides looking to imitate the groups such as Depeche Mode and the Pet Shop Boys. Chris frequents FV's hot spot — Photon, in addition to snow skiing and racketball on the weekend.

Chris' huge embarrassment occurred when he was activities director at Masuda. He and a friend scheduled an air concert. Instead of using the school's equipment, they used their own stereo systems for the concert. They connected his friend's stereo first and immediately blew out the speakers. Needless to say, Chris was booed for about five minutes as he rewired the set up to his stereo.

Still, failures are rare to Chris — he's got that magic touch!

Future Police Officer MICHAEL MATTO

Honor and pride are the words that describe Mike Matto's lifestyle. Besides getting a 3.5 GPA in school this year, he is very involved in the Fountain Valley Police Explorer Post. During the first semester, he attended an 18 week academy in L.A. for Police Explorers. It was held every Saturday from 7 A.M. to 5 P.M. for 18 Saturdays. That's dedication!

Mike says, "I joined the Post because I want to be in the law enforcement as a career, and there's no better place to go to get experience than the Explorer Program." Explaining the Explorer program was all about, he responded, "The Explorer Post is the best way to learn about the law enforcement field. You get classes from experts on criminal law, SWAT tactics, CPR and a lot more. We do tours of the police station for different groups, work security at special events, and once a week, we can go on a ride-a-long, which is being able to go with an officer on his beat for the night, help him out, work the radio, and help him with reports. It's good experience!"

Mike seems to know exactly what he wants to do with his life. "I'm going to finish high school, keeping my grades up. I'll then go to a college that has a good criminal law course. When I turn 21, I'll apply for a police officer position and go through the academy."

Through this spirit and dedication, Mike Matto shows that he takes "Baron Pride" to heart. Good luck in the future, Mike!

Dodges Potential Pranksters

LISA MATHIAS

Fountain Valley High School's class of 1990 is filled with interesting, intelligent,and skilled students. One such freshman, Lisa Mathias, can be found involved in many school functions, many of which relate to band. Such nicknames as "bando" have arisen from her involvement in one of the school's most successful organizations, the marching band. During spring, Lisa plays the sax in the concert band. Other special talents of Lisa's include achieving an excellent GPA, speaking French relatively well, and being exceptionally tolerant with her friends (as well as with interviewers for yearbook).

Although she has many friends and enjoys going out with them, Lisa's quiet personality does not permit wild parties or toilet papering escapades. She does, however, have fun filled weekends at the movie theater and at friends' houses.

Being a freshman girl involved in band, it would seem that she would be the perfect target for some senior with a pocketful of pranks for freshmen. However, Lisa, being the intelligent person that she is, has managed to dodge all potential pranksters. And, overall, Lisa and the high school get along rather well. There aren't too many things that she dislikes about school, but the obvious answer to her favorite subject was, of course, band. Lisa also enjoys her French class because with a teacher like Mr. Veenstra, what is there not to like?

With three more years of Fountain Valley still ahead of her, Lisa maintains high hopes for her future. With an interest in pursuing a career in music, one of the major universities seem appealing to Lisa. And with compliments like she receives from her teachers as well as her friends, it seems that success is obviously in Lisa's future.

n Action

This year was a successful one for all the numerous clubs on the Fountain Valley Campus. It was a year that brought about new friendships and fellowships. The formation of new clubs seemed to be the fad of the year; for, as Mr. Bryan said, "This year has been the most popular for the formation of new clubs . . . and . . . I have never seen this much school spirit in a long time."

Making friends and enjoying your free time were the main objectives each of the individual clubs on campus had. It seems that each club, new and old, spent a successful year for they achieved their single, common goal — establishing new friendships.

Several new clubs were formed this year on the Fountain Valley Campus, each with their own certain likes and dislikes. The new clubs or organizations ranged from the Mecha Club to the Bicycling Club, and each one quite unequivocally found hundreds of members.

The ultimate felicity was achieved by Mr. Bryan, Mr. Kasler and the ASB, for they achieved a single objective and played a part in the socializing of the numerous students on the F.V.H.S. campus.

The entire Huntington Beach High School District was impressed with the amount of input Fountain Valley demonstrated.

It seems that this was the year for the Clubs and it certainly showed that each individual one was IN ACTION!

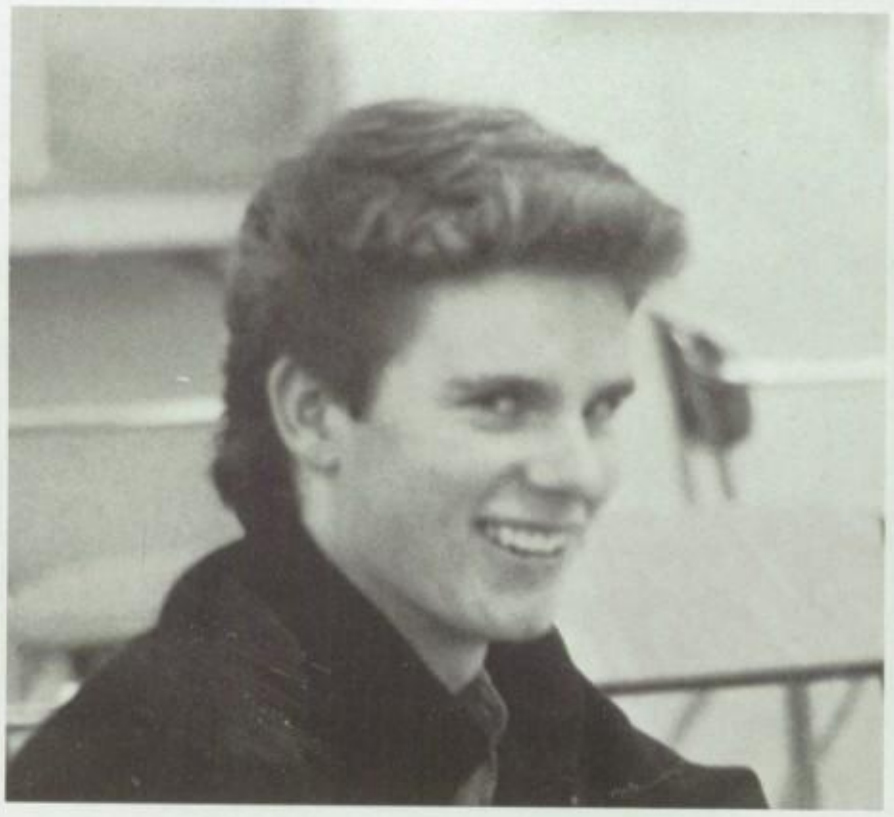
FOUNTAIN VALLEY

Clubs All IN ACTION!



Speech Club

"The next tournament will be in two weeks," Mr. Caforio affirmed, twisting and turning his hands in his famous Caforio gestures.

The speech team was ready; they were always ready. From many diverse tournaments — Edison to the possibility of Berkley — our speech team, led by President John Sedgewick, Vice President Tom Webster, and Treasurer Robert Bach, excelled in them all. The events were varied — impromptu, debate, original prose poetry, and interpretation, but the result was always the same — a winning tradition of which Fountain Valley can be very proud.

Mecha Club

During the course of the year several new clubs were formed; new friends met and old relationships improved. One of the new clubs that was formed on the Fountain Valley campus was the Mecha Club. The Mecha Club was a Hispanic-American organization that opened its doors to anyone who wanted to join; however, most of the members belonged to the Hispanic-American race.

Under the direction of Mrs. Banner, the Mecha Club had a very successful year. Some of their activities included a membership drive, a car wash and their first annual candy sale. The members planned to buy sweatshirts with the money that they received from the candy sale.

Middle-Eastern Club

Concerned with moral issues, the Middle-Eastern or Arabic Club spent most of its time discussing the problems of their "Mother Country" and opening its doors for new members. They spent endless hours working on developing new friendships and enjoying the rigorous activities they planned at the beginning of the year.

With the guidance of Mr. Sepulvida, the Middle-Eastern Club had a surprising membership. Some of their activities include a Valentine's day party and a candy sale.

Ski Club

A.P. Council

Are you an Honors student involved with A.P. classes? Are you looking for a scholastic club that can offer you scholarships and enjoyment? Well, then the A.P. council is right for you.

This year's A.P. Council got off to a slow start, but, eventually started a trend among the students at Fountain Valley. Under the guidance of Mr. Braithwait, the A.P. Council had a successful year. The club raised money through candy sales and car washes, and they were able to give away several scholarships with the money they earned.

To qualify you must have at least one Honors-A.P. class and you must be interested in the Education of yourself and others.

International and Model United Nations

Have you ever wondered how international problems were solved especially those between two countries? Well, the Model United Nations found out exactly how, (pictured on bottom, page 273) This was their second year on the Fountain Valley campus, and what a successful year it was! Members attended conferences on several occasions at local and state wide competitions. Some members even went to a conference in Georgetown, Virginia.

The program was started by Mr. Alan Armstrong, who began working with MUN students 12 years ago at Huntington Beach High School. He stayed there for two years before moving onto Ocean View, where he established one of the finest Model United Nations Programs in the United States. Mr. Armstrong plans to bring that prestige here to the Fountain Valley Campus.

The program has its own library dedicated entirely to MUN, which is located in Huntington Beach on Main Street. They met every Tuesday and Thursday at lunch in room 316.

Another club that dealt with International problems and concerns was the International Club. Like MUN, they were also involved with International affairs; however, on more of a peaceful side. International Club (pictured top, page 273) spent numerous lunches talking about the several different countries around the world and their origin.

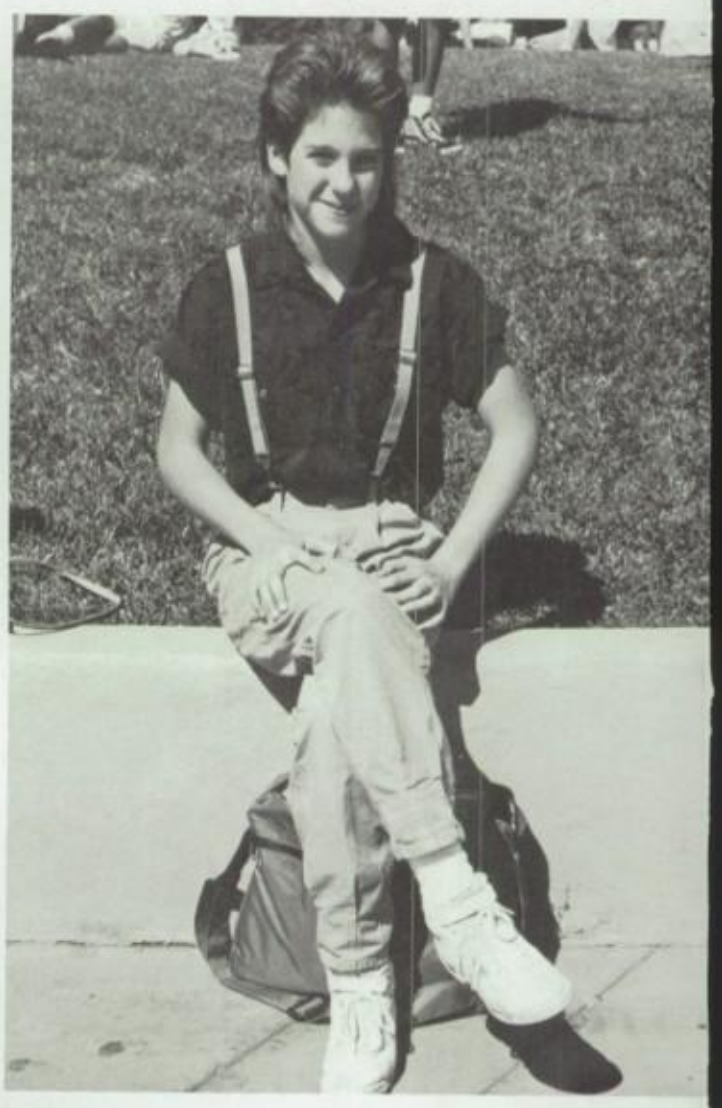
MR MISTER

Cycling Club

Trek, Bianche, Nishiki, Unevega . . . do any of these names mean anything to you? Well, they do to the Bicycling Club because all of these are names of different bikes that each member owns. This club devoted most of its time to biking. They did, however, take the time to stress the importance of safety on the road.

Bicycling club got off to a racing start during its first year, having one of the largest membership drives on campus. There were well over two-hundred members, each with a common interest — cycling!

This year they rode across California, up-and-down the coast, and just around Fountain Valley, taking their enthusiasm with them wherever they went!



Taiwanese

This year was the year for new clubs on campus, and one of these new clubs was the Taiwanese Club. Pursuing a great cultural experience as well as a great deal of fun, the members of the Taiwanese Club definitely had a terrific year!

Basically comprised of activities aimed at promoting membership as well as serving the community, this year was a building one. In serving the community, members set their agenda for helping out during the holiday season by supporting the Christmas can drive.

Because of the large number of clubs on campus this year, the Taiwanese Club had trouble getting a fund-raising week. But you can be sure that next year they will be there to sell all of the goodies that everyone loves!

Taiwanese Club is off to a great start!

A.S.B.

Months later, it's still there. A trampled flyer, a faded blue and gold label demanding "Make the Right Choice." But student government didn't just make election promises of more activities; they made them come true. Armed with the motto "Let's Go Crazy," the Executive Council, under the leadership of ASB President Sam Helfrich, brainstormed the ideas, the administration carried them out, and the senators reported on them to their classes. Through these efforts, Mr. Clean, the Great Pumpkin, and Beach Week entertained fellow students. However, being a member of government was more than spending 2nd period or lunchtime in the Council Chambers. It called for long hours and hard work, even if it meant spending five hours on a scaffold putting up Edison signs or driving to LA to look at shark costumes or spending lunch in the gym at a pep assembly instead of at McDonalds. It called for an attitude, a positive mental attitude, as Elisa Terry called it. Stacey Reddish said, "I like all the friends I made, and I like being a part of something."

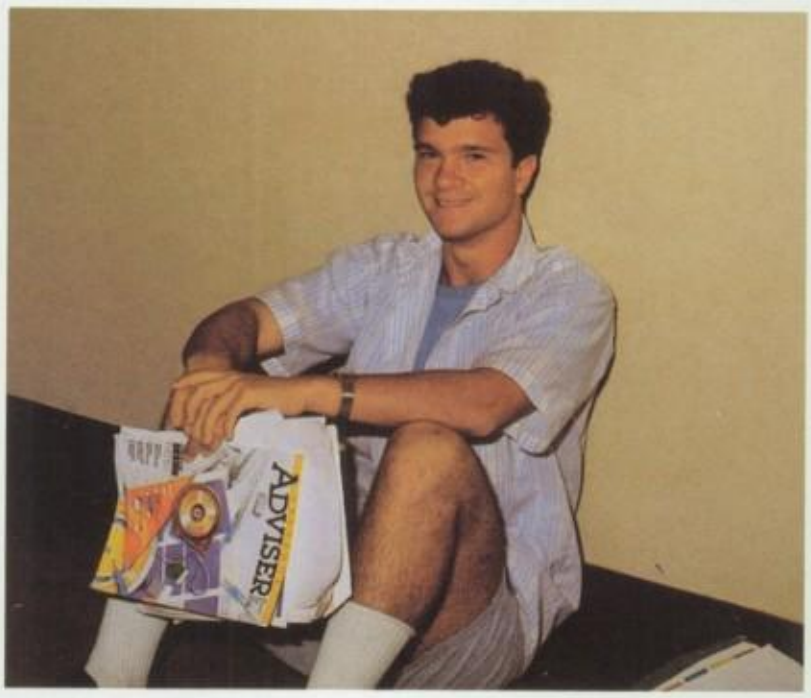
Senior Commission



Junior Commission

Welcome back seniors to your last year at Fountain Valley High School. What do we have planned for you this year? Well, let's ask the senior commission board members led by President Deanna Chute, Vice-President Andrew Tulumello, Secretaries Ann Chavez and Jackie Blake, and the Treasurer Steve Sun.

With this introduction, the senior commission began its very exciting productive year. The senior commission had a tremendous amount of success, starting the year out with the annual Ghoul Gram sale along with the junior class commission. They sold key rings, cushions, sweat-shirts, and much more to help the seniors remember their last year at Fountain Valley. They also repainted the prestigious and elite Senior Parking lot and organized a very successful Senior Assembly. Along with the exciting activities, the senior commission also planned out an exciting senior trip to Hawaii.

The junior commission was a little unorganized at first, but they eventually succeeded in having a very successful year, raising a lot of money from the Ghoul Gram sale along with the senior commission. Once again, without the help and involvement of Mr. Bovberg, the two commissions couldn't have been nearly as successful and exciting as they were this year.

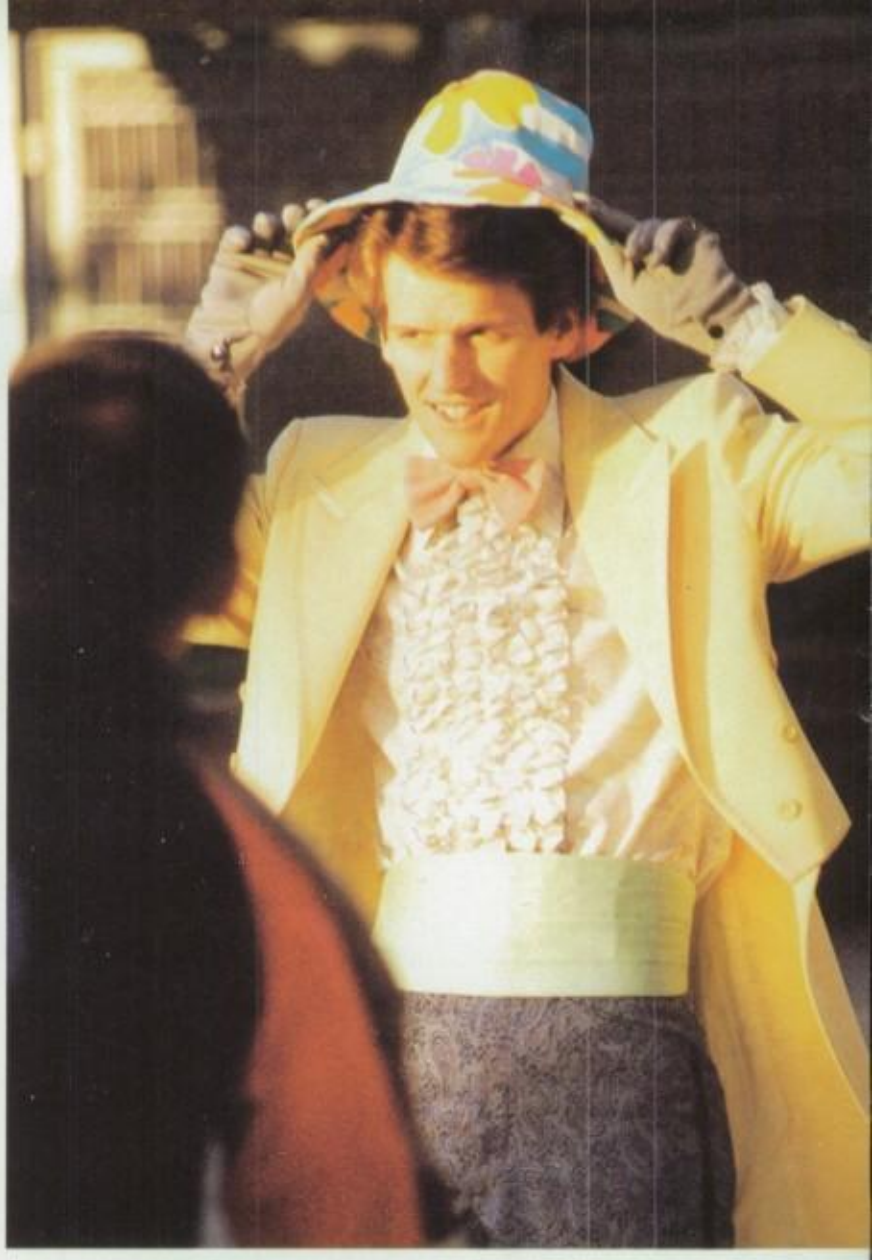
Spirit Club



Raconteur

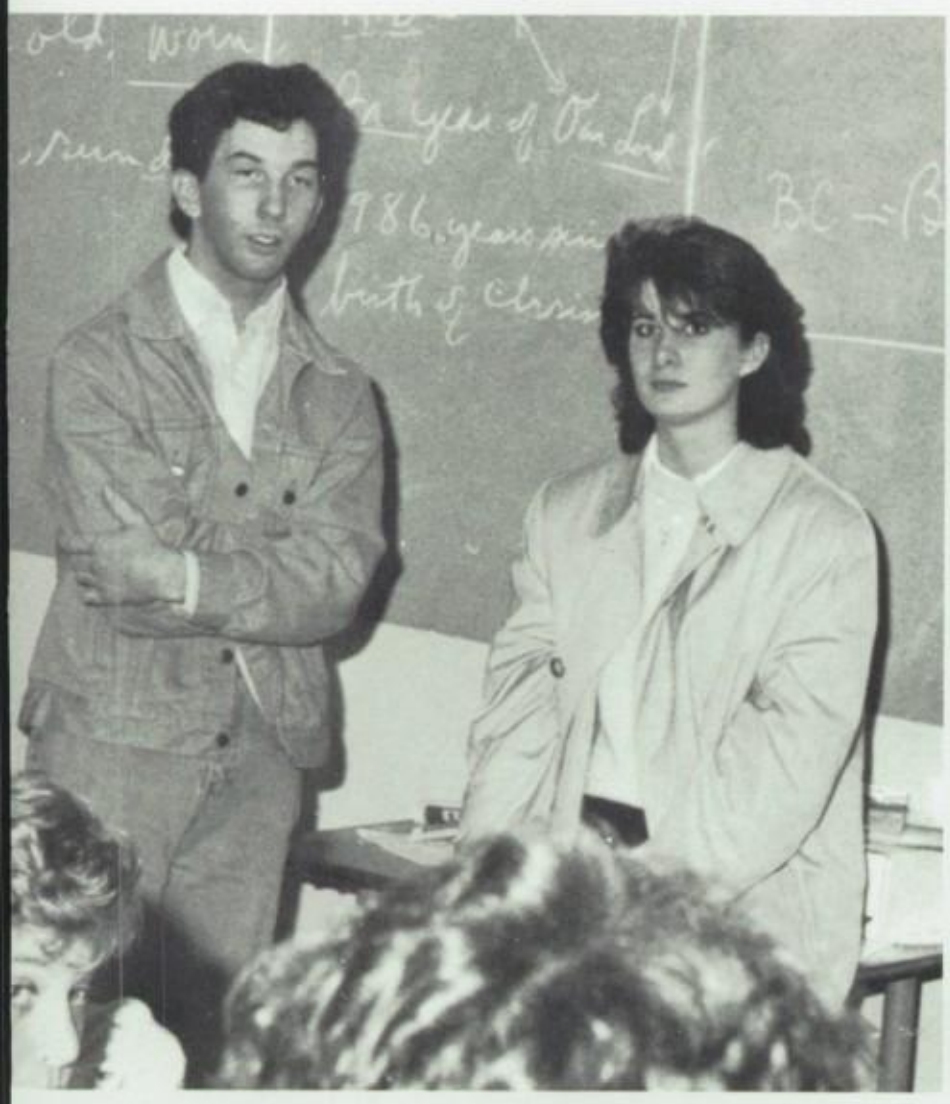
It was 7:00 a.m. The 1986-87 Yearbook Staff sleepily shuffled into the yearbook room. Standing before them, Mr. Staunton, three-year yearbook advisor, announced that he was stepping down as advisor. As he said good-bye, the section editors poured into the yearbook office to be confronted by a certified disaster area of paperwork and boxes. Photographers, having no supplies, shrugged defeatedly.

Chaos, pure chaos — that's the only way to describe the first two weeks of yearbook class. Thankfully, an extremely creative, productive yearbook staff and photographers proved capable of turning out the 376 pages of the Raconteur, Born To Be Wild. With the tremendously timely help of Mr. Les Wolf, the new yearbook advisor, months of caffeine-induced late night vigils to yearbook deadlines, and, above all, teamwork, the 1986-87 yearbook staff succeeded.

And this success can be described in very few words — Born To Be Wild, the 1986-87 Raconteur.

Baron Banner

The goal of the 1986-87 staff of the Baron Banner was to create a student newspaper that was not only technically well-done, but was entertaining and informative as well. Under the leadership of Editor-in-Chief Gabi Elfenbein and Advisor Mr. Kendall, the page editors and reporters provided the students of FVHS with informative, thought-provoking, and entertaining articles covering current, school-related topics and contemporary teenage issues.



Writer's Club

The last line of poetry is read. As the reader pauses to sip at her chocolate milk, a voice erupts from the back of the classroom.

"That was great!" the blond-haired girl acclaims. "That poem is so great!"

Twenty other people nod their heads in agreement.

Where did this take place? Where was poetry, short stories, essays, plays, and lyrics written by Fountain Valley High School students read aloud every week?

The Writer's Club, of course! This year, the second year of the Writer's Club, was filled with days like this. With the help of President Robert Bach, Vice Presidents Stephanie Zea and Hale Burckin, and Treasurer Chathi Anderson, the Writer's Club sparked a great deal of interest among the students at school, encouraging them to write material and to present it for constructive criticism at each of the weekly meetings. This approach helped many aspiring writers improve and personalize their styles of writing.

These styles of writing led some of these writers to consider possible careers as writers. One member, Jeanne Smith, aspired to be a lyricist while another member, Heather Clyde, looked forward to a writing career in the field of advertising.

This diversity of interests resulted from a diversity of people. Robert Bach asserted, "This year's Writer's Club is bigger and more diverse than ever before. We have people interested in poetry, short stories, screen plays, lyrics, and even writing for the advertising industry just as we have people who are very quiet and reflective as well as people who are very outgoing and ambitious. It's a great balance for any group, especially when you're criticizing each other's work. There are so many different viewpoints!"

With all of these advantages, the Writer's Club was bound to be a success, and it lived up to this expectation. With the encouragement of its advisor, Dr. William Woolbright, Writer's Club published a collection of its members' writings for the first time this year.

Who knows? With successes like these, maybe the Stephen Kings, Anne McCaffreys, Neil Simons, Rod Serlings, and Emily Dickensons of tomorrow were here today as members of Fountain Valley High School's very own Writer's Club.

Spanish Club

¡Hola!¿ Como estas? These words were the common welcome of this year's Spanish Club. They were probably one of the busiest clubs on campus! The members participated enthusiastically, and they weren't afraid to express their feelings at any of their meetings.

With the help of this year's advisor, Mrs. Felix, the club was more successful than ever before. They had a can drive for the needy at Thanksgiving, followed by a clothes drive for little orphans at Christmas and finally, to raise money for the club, they had a giant "blow-out" candy sale.

Chinese and Korean

German

The German club, this past year, was incredibly successful. Under the leadership of President Christina Bender, Vice President Robert Jonas, Treasurer John LaCroix, and Secretary Anne Escalante, the German Club had one of its most successful and productive years ever!

During the heralded Oktoberfest, the members took part in a celebration at Old World near the Hutington Center. In December, they voyaged to Hollywood to see the taping of "Who's the Boss?". Towards the end of the year, during international week, the German Club presented Mercedes Benz and other classic cars to FVHS students for their viewing pleasure. Finally, the club as a whole raised enough money to employ a scholarship for its members.

French

The French Club this past year has made itself an overwhelming success. Under the supervision of foreign language teacher Anna Ananian and the club president Marc Azcono the club has given its members a worthwhile and fun-filled experience. The activities that occupied the year included ice skating, a picnic in the bowl, a field trip to the theatre house to watch a play by French playwright Fontaine, and a lunch at Cafe Casino for a "club" sandwich. The big event of the year was a trip to the television studio to watch "Who's the Boss?" Other activities included athletic competitions with the two other foreign language clubs, cultural events, and presentations during international week. The French Club even managed to form its own rock band!

The French Club gave its French students a fabulous time. Part of the fun was that the students gave a lot of input and suggestions concerning club activities. This gave the club a special unity and harmony. The unifying symbol was a colored beret, which members had to wear to attend meetings. This further cemented the bond that holds together "La Circle de Franzais."

Keywanettes

"WEL-come, my pretties, WEL-come," was the familiar cackle every timid customer heard as they entered the torture chamber of the March of Dimes Haunted House at Anaheim Plaza. Putting in over 500 hours of designing, building, and performing, they captured third place in their Halloween venture to kick off the year on a successful note.

But that wasn't all. The district theme was "A Hope for Tomorrow," and Fresno was the site of the California-Nevada-Hawaii Convention. Led by President Caroline Allam, the girls raised money for the Adam Walsh Foundation for Missing Children and the City of Hope, coordinated a Monster Mash with the recreation center, and assembled Thanksgiving treats for the Someone Cares Soup Kitchen in Costa Mesa.

And these efforts stretched beyond Orange County as well. Through Mission International, they sponsored a boy from the Dominican Republic and a girl from the Philippines to provide them with a quality food, education, and medical care. Whether they were hosting a bingo game for elderly citizens, singing songs by the fire at the beach, or tooting horns on the pier at 6:00 in the morning, being a Keywanette was more than coming to meetings once a week — for some it was a way of life.

C.S.F.

A change of spirit has come about with this year's California Scholarship Federation. Their membership had once again increased tremendously; however, the club had a new advisor, Mrs. Swingle. In order to have been eligible, members must have taken a rigorous course load, one that allowed for little spare time, and succeed. Although many students were members of the club, few knew about the many benefits the club had to offer.

The primary focus of CSF members was to provide numerous scholarships for outstanding seniors. They also provided an overwhelming number of sources of information concerning colleges, AP tests, and other aptitude tests.

This year the members participated in a tutorial program that allowed the football team and other students free help on their homework and in their classes. To raise money, this year the club sold seat cushions for spectators at the football games. They had also participated in a candy sale at the end of October for Halloween.

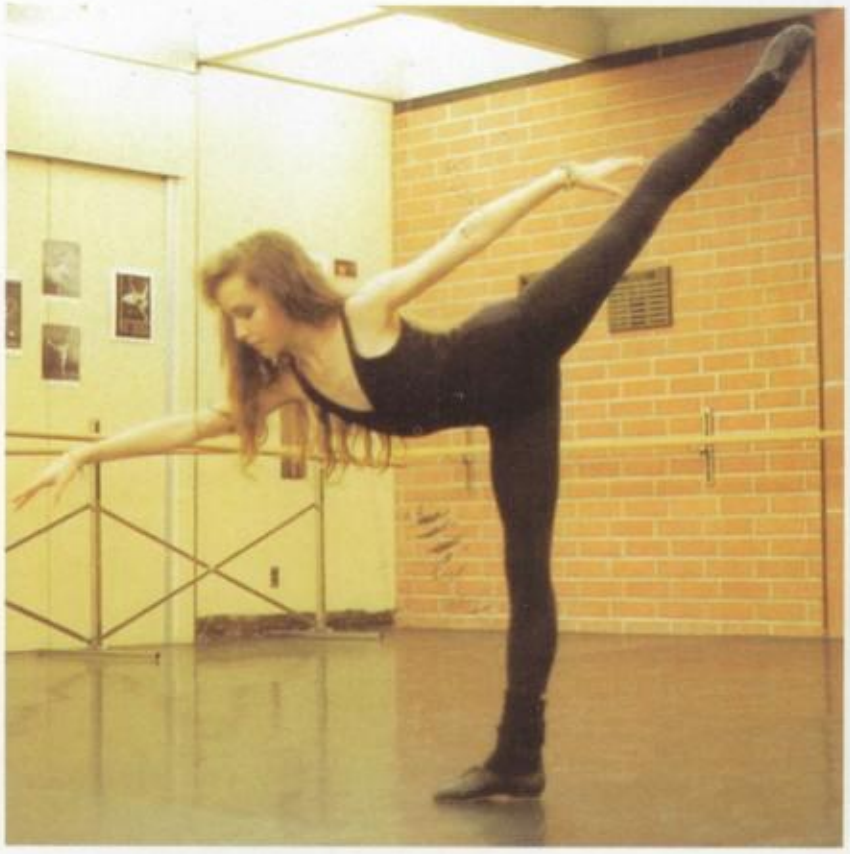
Red Cross

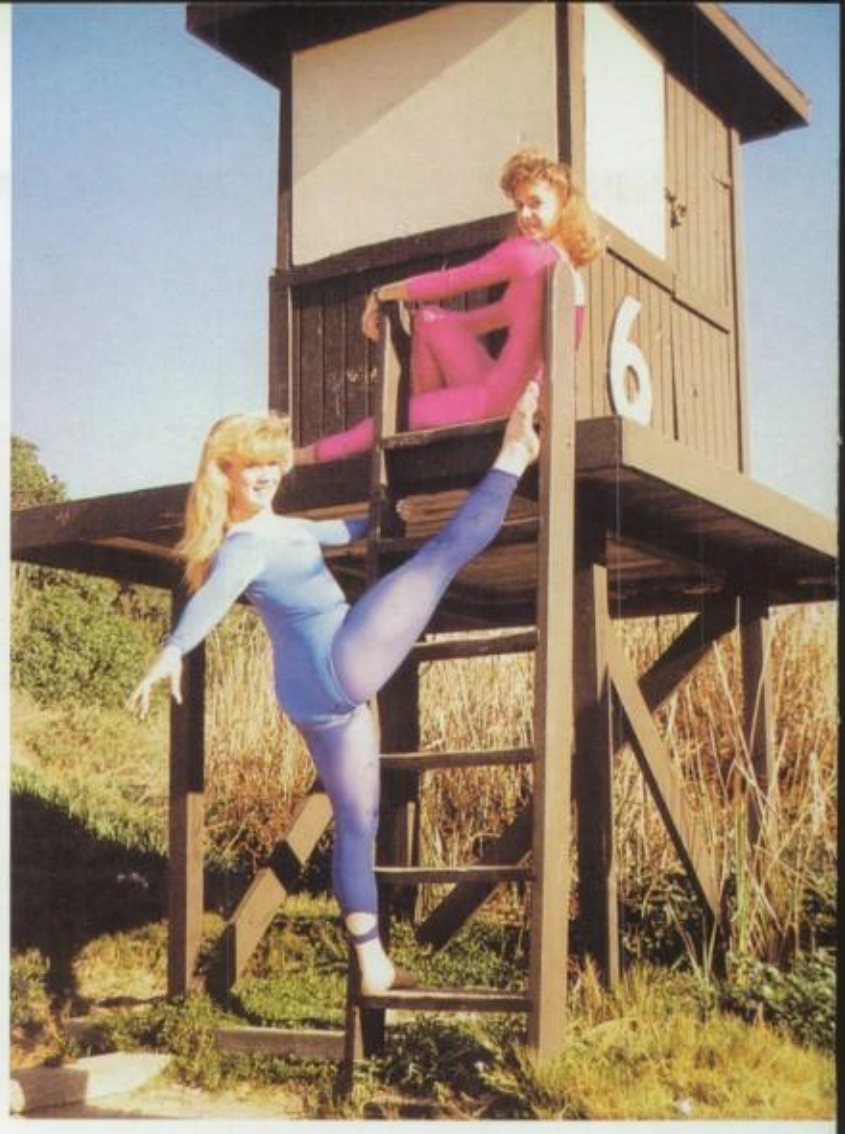
B.A.S.

Fountain Valley once again is proud to be the host of one of the top twenty clubs on campus this year in science. That club is the Baron Academy of Science. They earned their title by servicing the community, national affiliations, and a commitment to excellence.

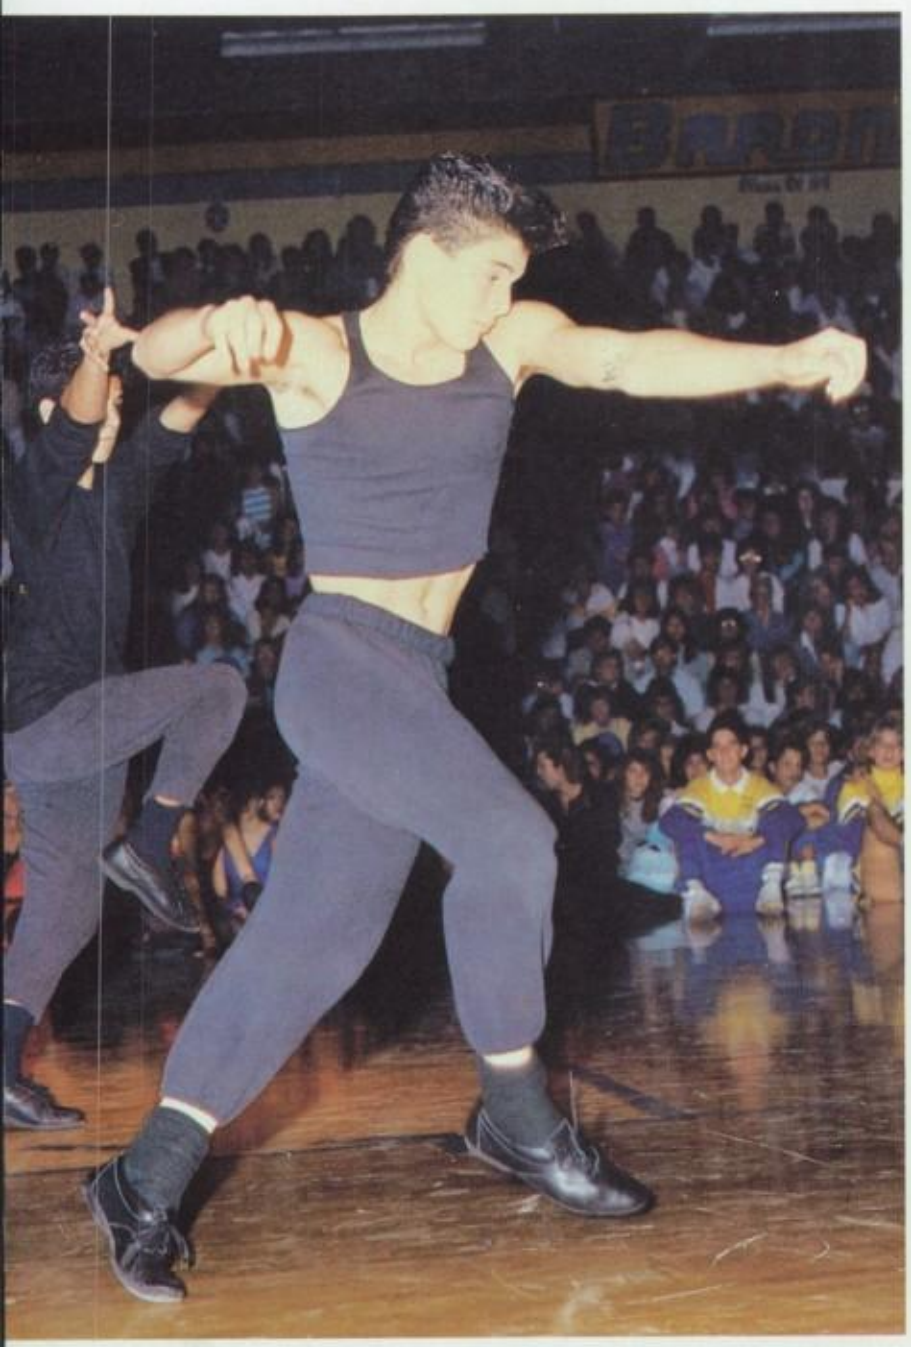
Under the guidance of their new advisor, Mr. Kurth, the club has had a very successful year, one that will most definitely be remembered by all the members. They had one awards in Chemistry, Physics and Biology. Guest speakers attended meetings to talk about different subjects like Halley's comet and the Space Shuttle.

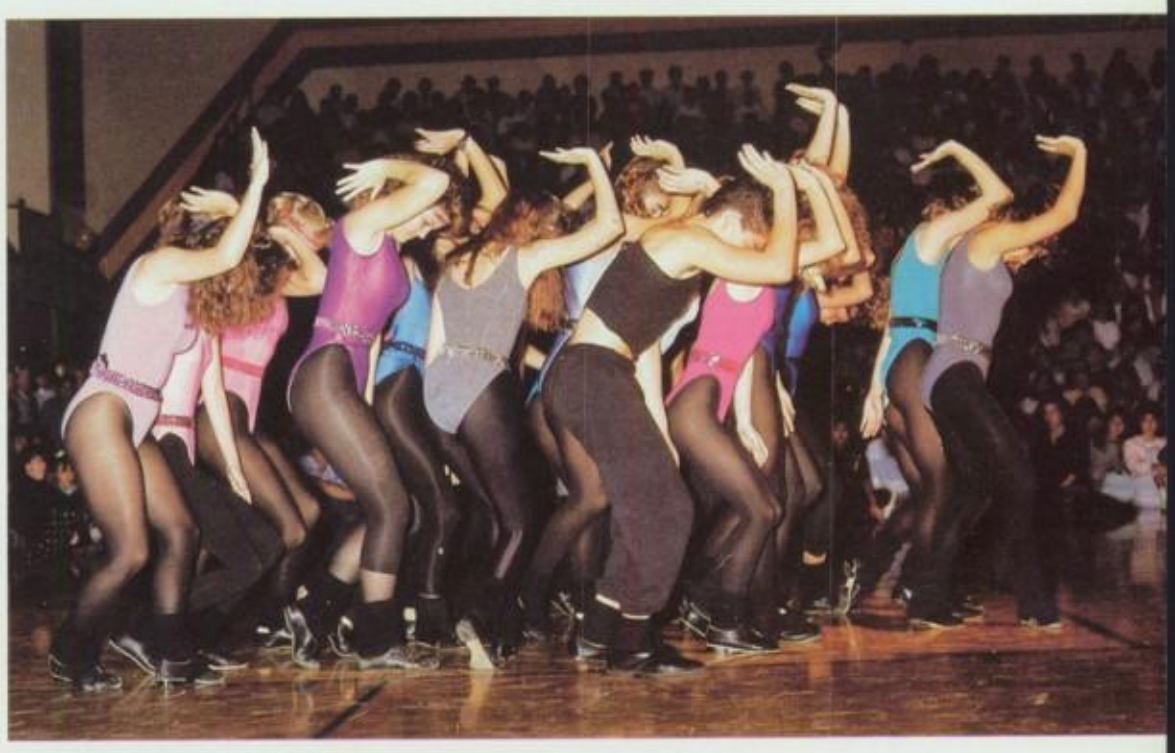
Dance Team

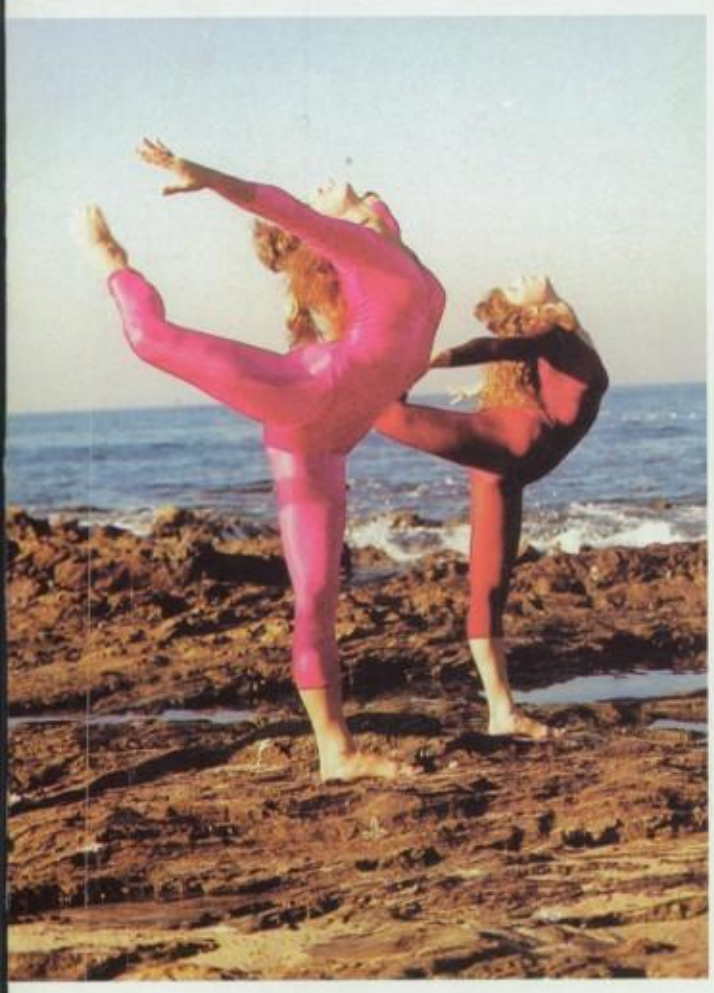


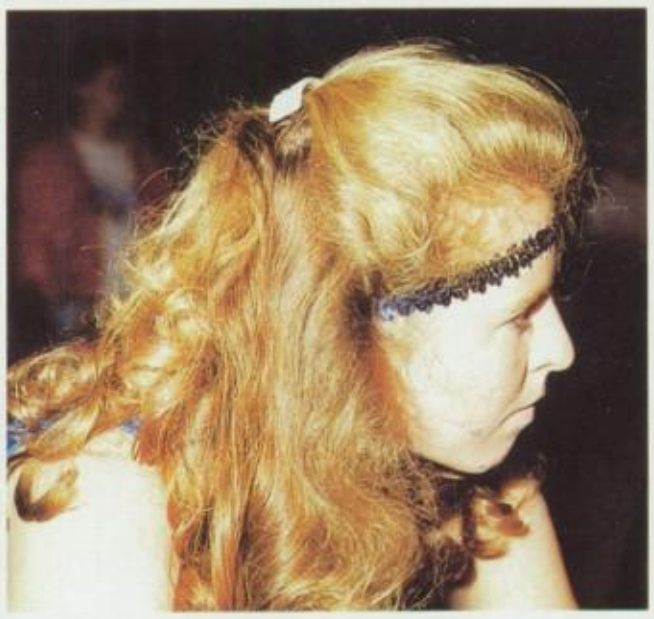


A Step Beyond









Dancing Their Lives Away

The Fountain Valley Dance Team was very busy all year long putting together three excellent dance concerts as well as a mini concert performed in January with nine other high schools.

In May, a special dance scholarship was offered, and Jacque Lehrer and Betsy McMillen won the scholarship and took a summer-long trip to New York for the dancing experience of their lives! Another award, the senior award, was given to Gina Cox.

Returning after three years of absence, Mrs. Jones helped the dance team rise to great heights along with the dance team manager, Vicki Guest. With both of their help and with the dedication and skill of the Dance Team, it turned out to be one of the best years the Dance Team has ever had!

Thespians

The purpose of the National Thespian Society is to expose young people to the world of performing arts. Here at F.V.H.S. we have a very active theatrical department. The three productions this year have been outstanding. The first being the "Odd Couple." This performance was just a sample of the ability of the Thespians. Throughout the year the advanced Theatrical department traveled to and performed at Wintersberg H.S. and F.V. Elementary.

Thespians introduces the students to every aspect of the theatre. They learn by traveling to see local and professional plays and also by experiencing the behind-the-scenes productions.

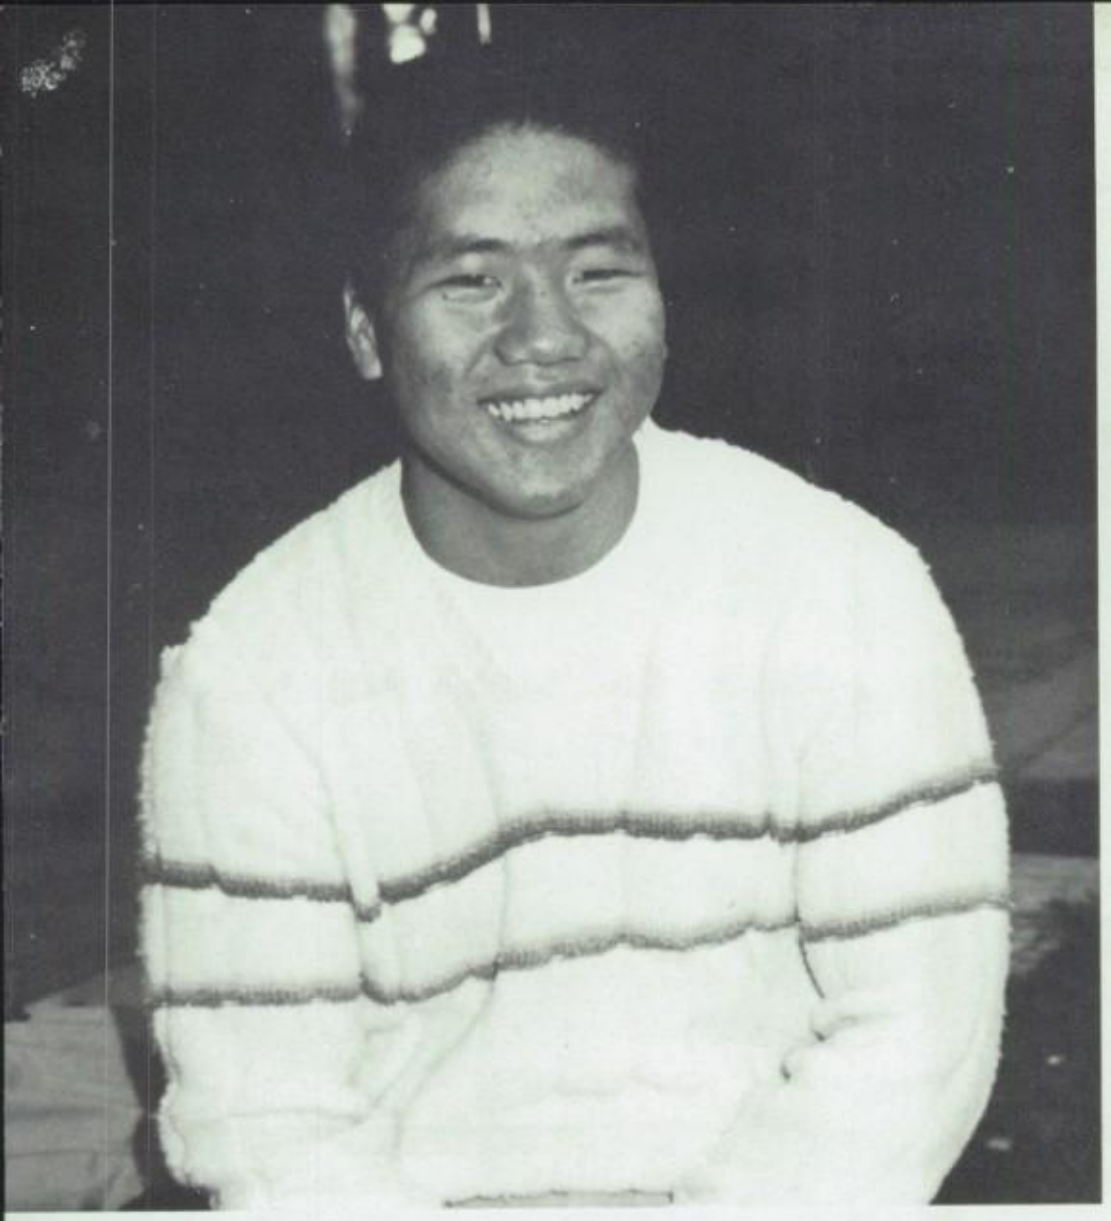
Neo-Existentialist

So what exactly is the Neo-Existentialist Organization? Well, it's a cultural organization for students who are looking for more intellectual forms of entertainment than seeing "Friday the 13th Part 17" (Guess who's still not thoroughly dead) or listening to the unintelligible lyrics of some screaming Neanderthal. NEO's would rather see an exhibit of French Impressionist reproductions, go to the Hollywood Bowl for an all Tchikovsky concert, or build sandcastles at the beach at 4:30 in the morning.

This year, under the leadership of Mrs. Baron, Lani Wynston, Tricia Takahara, Alan Kinkaid, and Jill Messecar, NEO put out a literary magazine and the NEO's letter.

This year was a great success as NEO members viewed life from a different perspective, a perspective that made NEO unique on campus.



Dunk-Ball

Do you take good pride in your school during Homecoming week? Do you wish that you could knock that girl on the platform down into the water? Well, there is a club on campus that does. This club is the Dunk-Ball club and they want to teach you how to "dunk" that pretty girl.

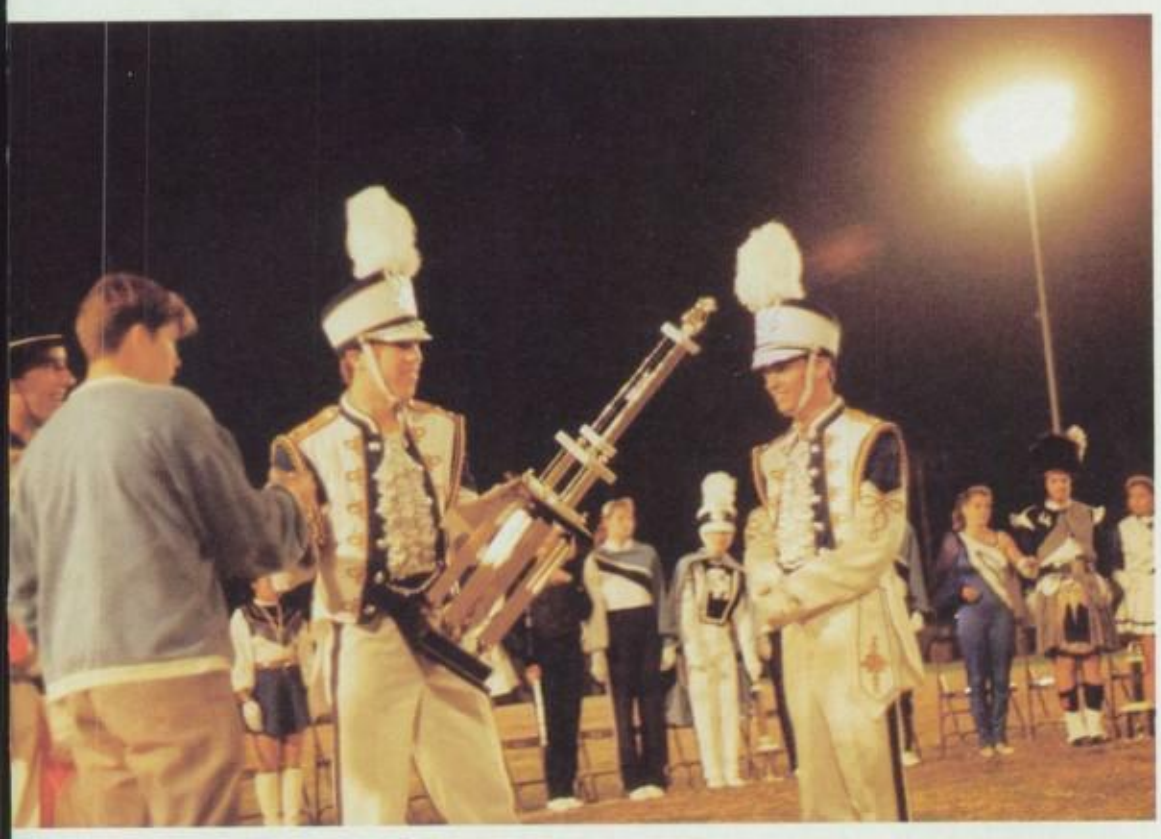
The club attended affairs like Homecoming week to "dunk" that special girl. They stressed points like "aim, footing," and of course if you miss "run up and hit the target!"

1986-1987

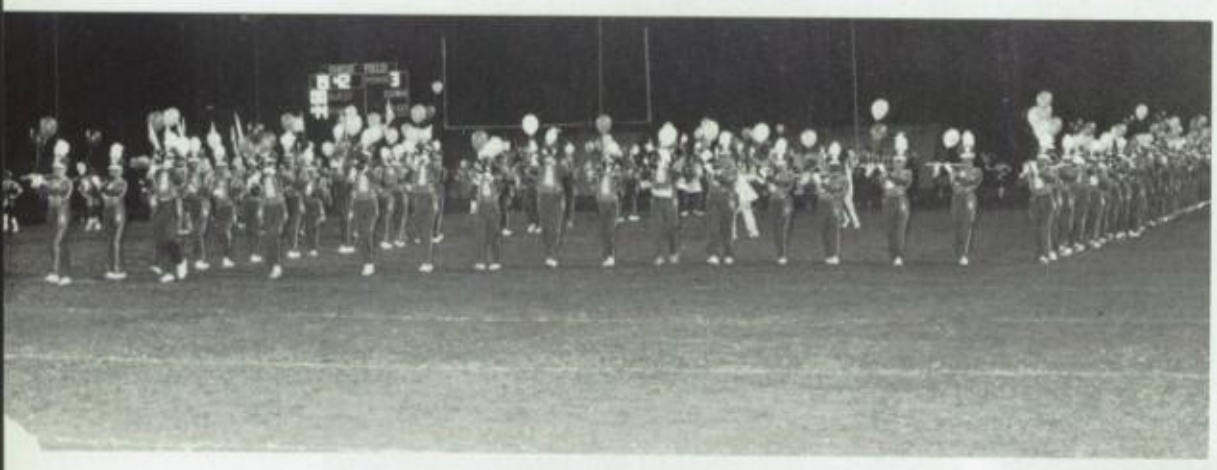
F.V.H.S. Royal Regiment

Mr. Wampler,
Director

Band



1986-1987 Royal Regiment



Fountain Valley's Royal Regiment was directed this year by Mr. Wampler — a dedicated and humorous man. This year was the band's most successful year, but many ask the question, "What is it like being in band?" Well . . .

It always seemed that when band members were supposed to be let out of practice at 4:15, they were always let out at 4:30. The only time they left at 4:15 was when practice was supposed to be out at 4:00. However, those extra fifteen minutes paid off. Not only did the Royal Regiment win the highest awards in the history of the band, but they also won the rivalry between Fountain Valley and Westminster when they took ALL the sweepstakes awards at Norwalk, the last competition of the year.

Ranging from the classical opener, "First Suite" to the jazz of "They're Playing Our Song," the show varied in musical style. The audience went wild with the show's visuals, especially the interesting ones displayed by the drum line in their drum solo, "Chit Chat." The show was highlighted by the closing — our popular national song, "America the Beautiful." It was truly a great year!

1986-1987

F.V.H.S. Concert Choir

Ted Reid,
Director

Choir

Our choral music program featured many very talented students this year. This was displayed in four concerts, including "Flashback," "A Gift of Song," "Musica Sacra Et Profana," and the "Faure' Requiem."

Concert choir, Troubadours, and Trouveres all presented these great concerts with much thanks to their director, Ted Reid. About the choir, he said that they were "interesting, provocative, and well-seasoned." This being Ted Reid's first year here at Fountain Valley High School, he has enlightened his students with his musical background and sense of humor. He said, "Teaching is a very rewarding profession. Unfortunately, money is not one of the rewards."

Rewards were offered to the Concert Choir through long hours of practice and fund raising — they recently traveled to Washington, D.C. where they sang wonderfully, receiving a great cultural experience in the nation's capitol.

Ted Reid and his choirs brought much enjoyment and enlightenment to all who were a part of the choir's family, especially you, the audience.

Pepsters

Fountain Valley's spirit and pride undoubtedly originates from a dedicated group of girls known as the pepsters. Their overwhelming energy has been the source for the spirit originated within the Baron Manor. They attended every football game to cheer our team on to victory. Under the guidance of Jean Clower, they showed us how being a pepster involves hard work. Many long hours were spent each day practicing for the games and pep rallies. They attended summer camp and met three times a week to stay in shape for the fall sports. Other events include the Miss Drill Team U.S.A. and the Magic mountain competition. Whether work, rest, or play they really showed what it meant to be a true Baron Pepster.

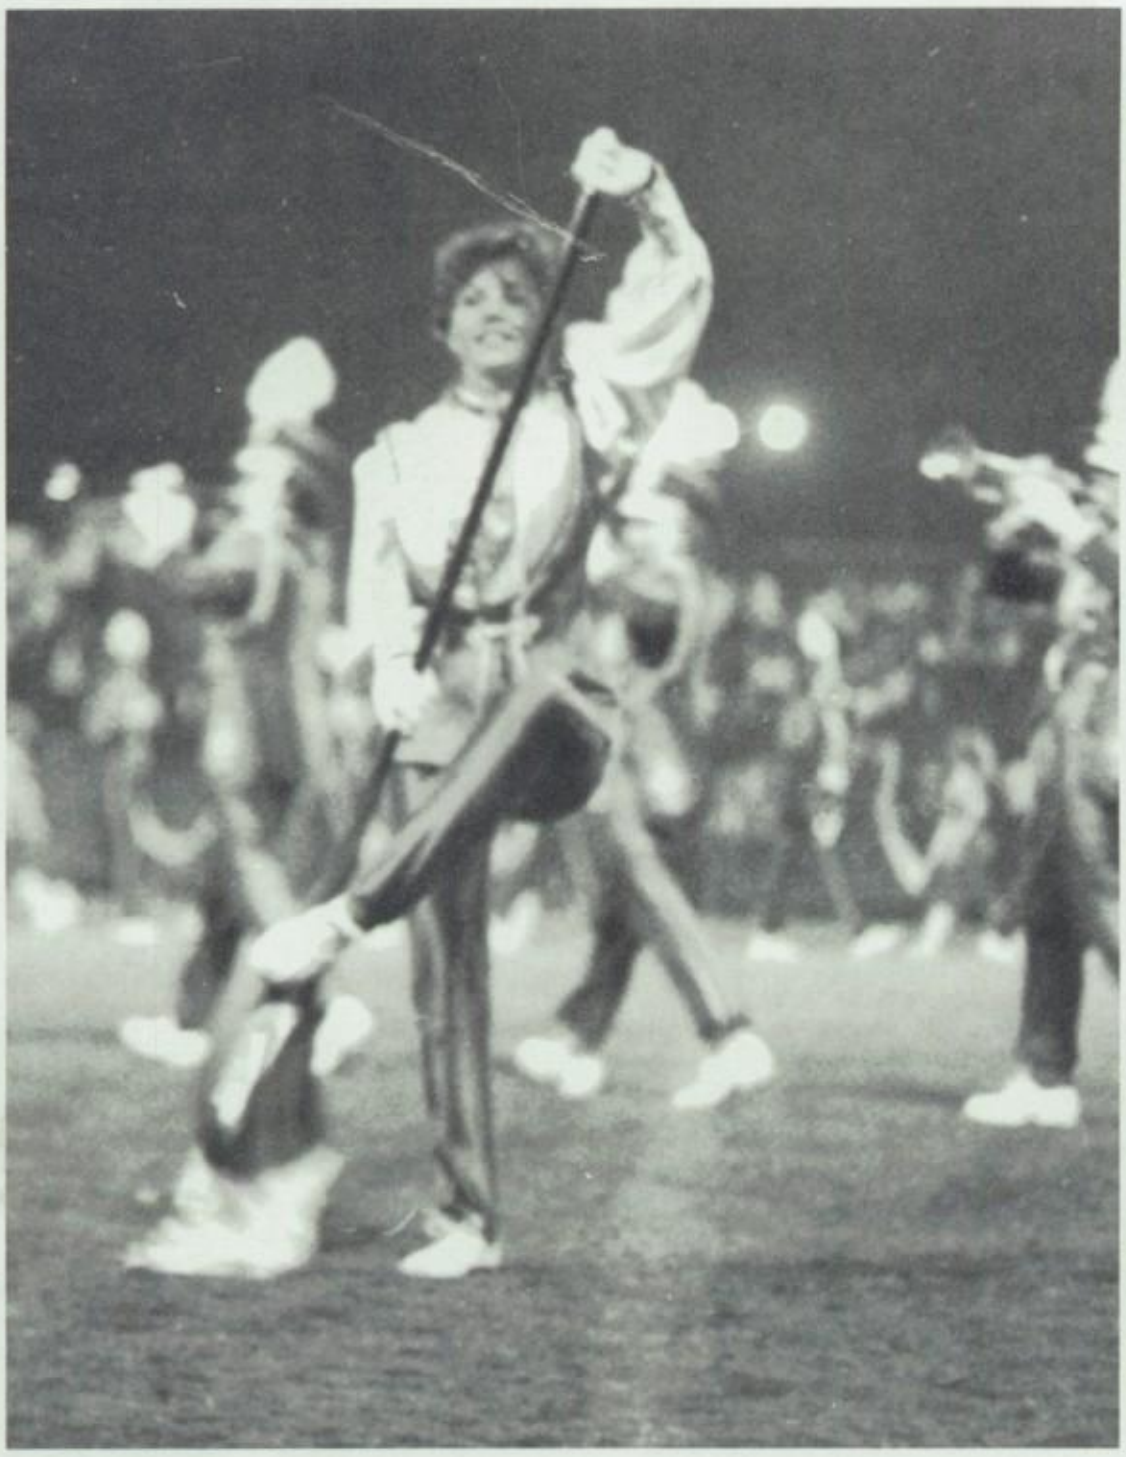
Color Guard

Tingling with expectation and electric with anticipation, they radiated energy. As hot as the stadium lights glittering down on them, the Fountain Valley Color Guard sparked to life. The brilliance of unity dazzled spectators as the team became one with the music. Every movement was perfectly synchronized once again.

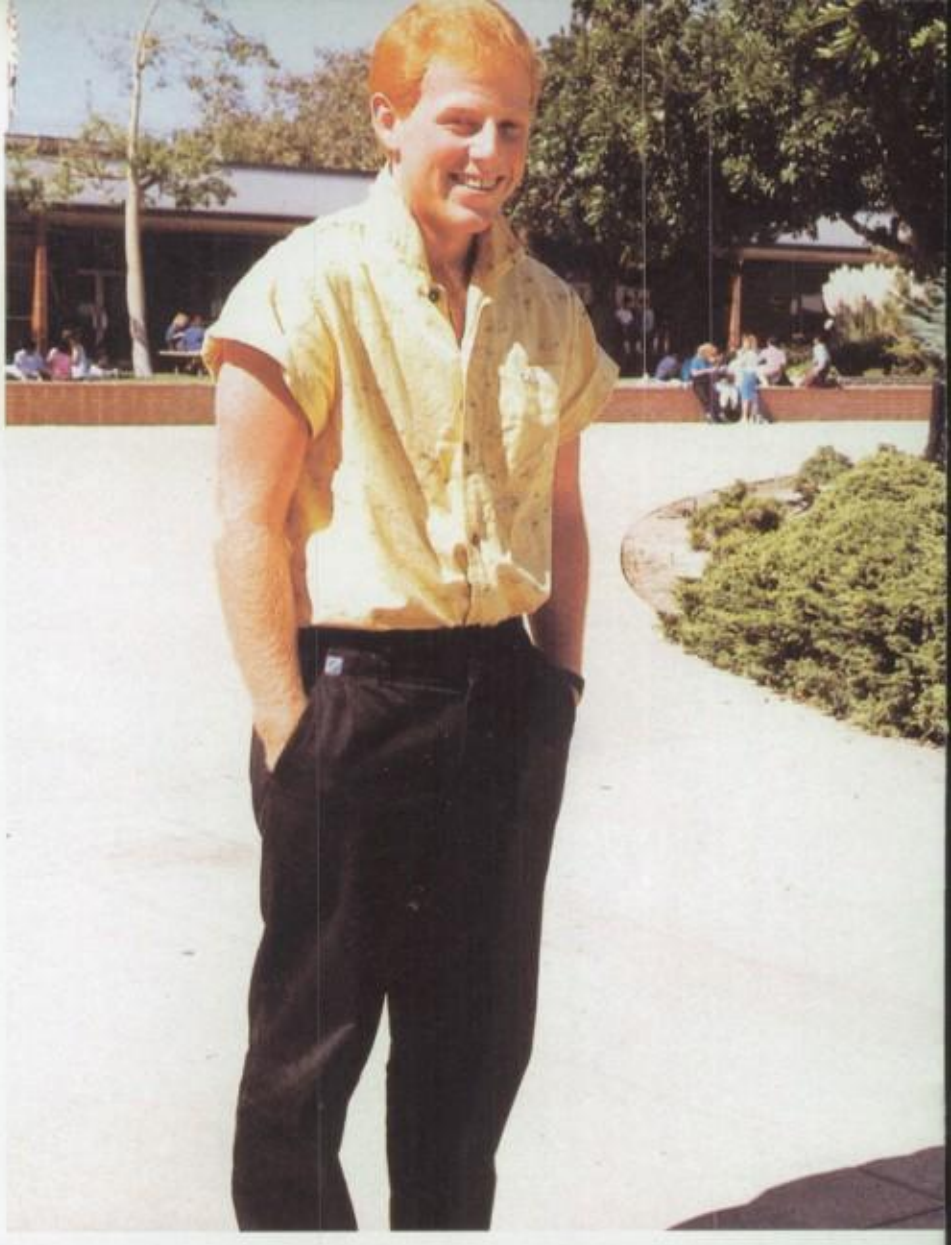
The applause rose to a crescendo with the final song and enthusiastically burst into the night air. The flag team felt the familiar thrill of success as they proudly marched off the field, the clapping crowd now a sea of satisfied smiles.

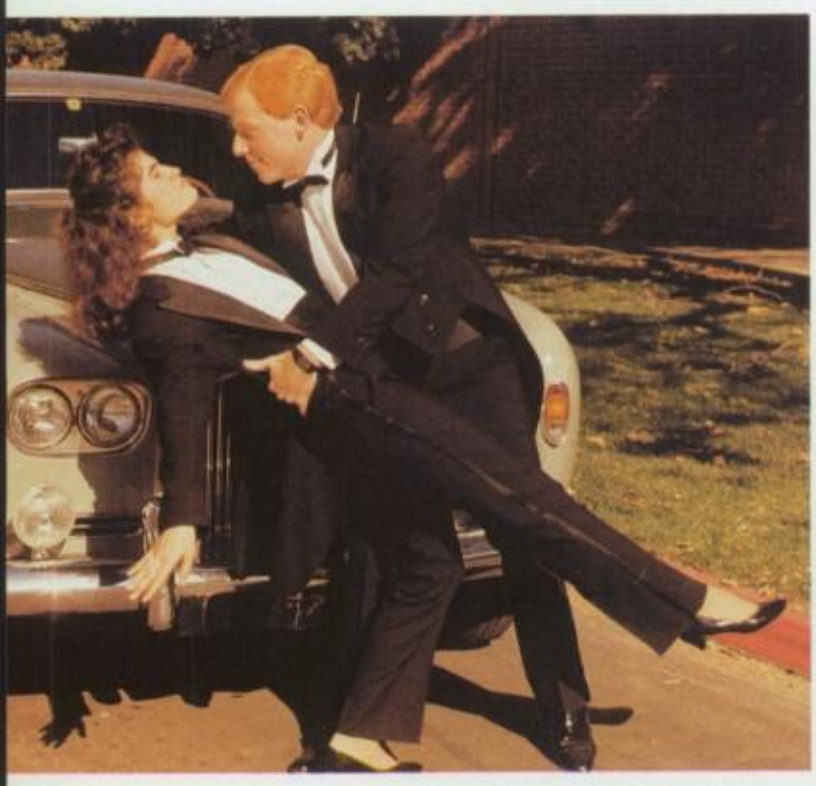
The 1986-1987 Color Guard entertained and excited us with outstanding performances. This high level of excellence came only from the perpetual practicing that began in mid-August. Color Guard traded in beautifully and evenly bronzed skin for the dreaded "Farmer's tan" — the result of spending six hours of sunny bikini beach time on the back football field clad in shorts and tank tops. All the time spent learning drill patterns and flag work was well worth it. This unrelenting dedication led the team to two sweepstakes awards.

This year's Color Guard was AWESOME!



Dance Commissions Prom





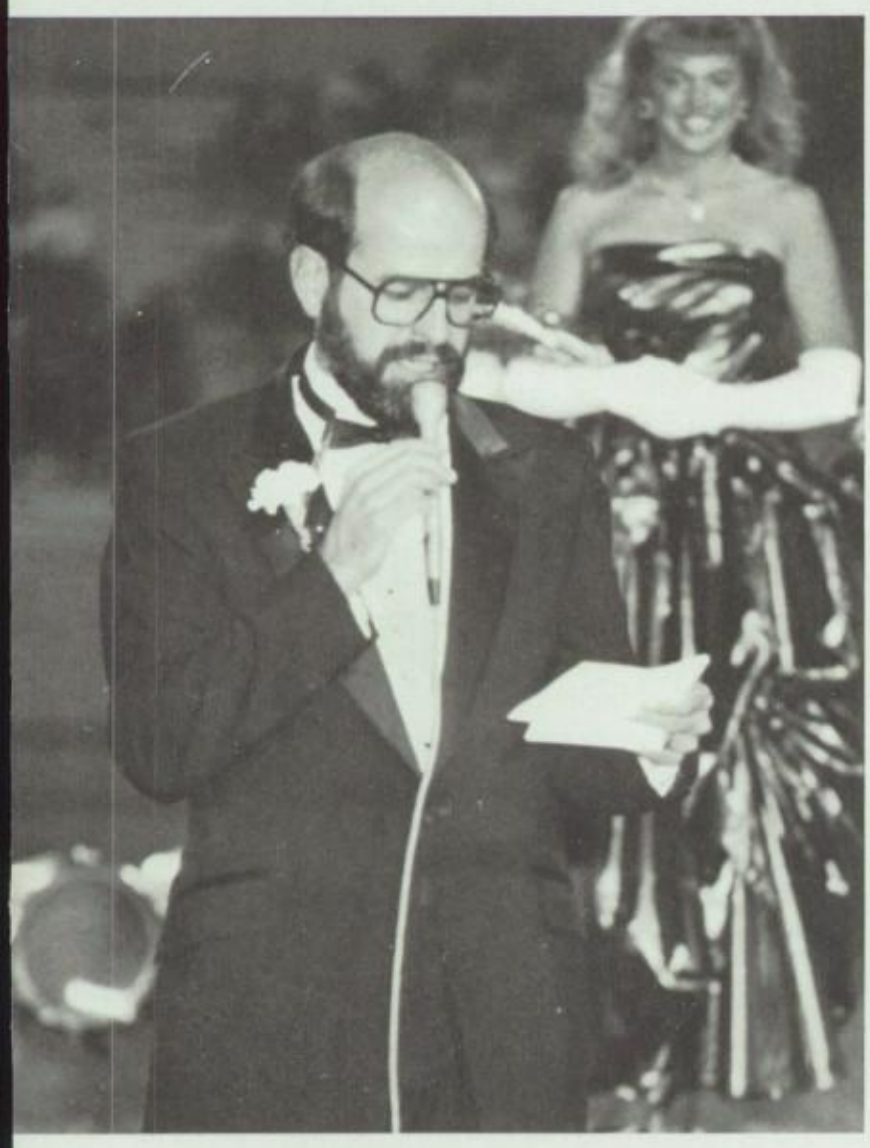
Homecoming

This year's dance commissions extended themselves beyond the expected curriculum. They spent endless hours planning those special nights of the year and it was on those nights that you had the chance to meet the person that meant so much to you, once again. The school dances of the year not only brought a spirit of accomplishment to the commissions, but to the teachers and students it was simply the greatest experience of the year.

Each dance commission was selected from an overwhelming amount of applicants. The executive council and last year's Prom commission spent hours interviewing possible candidates. They made their decision based on the credibility and enthusiasm of the candidates.

The Prom commission planned the most formal event of the year. This graduation present from the Juniors to the Seniors was spectacular and very special to those who attended the dance. They started planning the dance at the beginning of the 1986-87 school year. The dance was scheduled to take place at the Disneyland Hotel. The theme for the year was.

The Homecoming commission selected individuals who were outgoing and were responsible. They planned one of the more popular dances of the year. They spent hours planning out the activities that took place the week before Homecoming. This week is better known as "SPIRIT WEEK." The dance this year was held at the Long Beach Queen Mary, and was it a merry night for all that had attended. The theme this year was Journey Into the Night.



The Wild Side

What is a member of the Hell's Angels doing here at Fountain Valley?

Okay, she's not a member of the Hell's Angels; she's one of our finest English teachers, Mrs. Baron, showing her wild side on Halloween!

Contrary to general knowledge, F.V.H.S. teachers are not all the stereotypical conservative, all-homework-no-fun people that many students believe them to be. Our teachers are crazy, fun-loving, daring individuals just like we students are today.

And the teachers were once teenagers, too! They had their first date traumas, fastest cars, and senior pranks just like we do. Some of their memorabilia is exciting, fun, and strange!

The next few pages will reveal the faculty as real people. People with hopes, fears, trials, and many bizarre memories! Now you can view Fountain Valley High School's faculty in a more personal light than in the classroom. This year's theme, BORN TO BE WILD, is undoubtedly appropriate as we uncover in our faculty, administration, and staff . . .

The Wild Side

Unknown to many Fountain Valley students, our teachers did many crazy things during their younger years. Probing back into their past, they recounted the "wildest thing they have ever done." Some recalled that they were very conservative and shy and didn't really let out the wild side. Many refused to comment on this self-destructive information and exercised their basic right to remain silent.

But among the more daring, we have compiled quite a list! Mr. Peterson's answer was the simplest — he got married! Mr. Reinhard thought coming to the United States was a reflection of his wild side. Mrs. Hawkins tried something really daring: she spent a weekend camping in Mexico with nine guys and only two other girls. Mr. Lacey remembered a couple of things. Among them were sneaking into Disneyland and hiding in Mr. Toad's Ride, scaring little kids, and throwing boysenberry pies at girls in the school's cafeteria.

But, overall, Mr. Fevergeon's answer can't be topped. He built a rocket and created some rocket fuel, and it almost killed his friend, his dad, and himself! He admitted that after the incident, his parents took away his chemistry set!

All of this just goes to show that teachers can be as crazy as today's teenagers. It's a good feeling to know that teachers have a wild side too!

Mrs. Mooney

Mrs. Mary Ann Mooney — high school English teacher. Mary Ann Mooney typical teenager. Most of us think our teachers were born sitting behind a desk lecturing to their students. Surprise! Teachers were once lectured.

Teachers led their lives much the same way kids do today. If Mrs. Mooney could become a high school student, she'd fit right in. She'd be a forward for the girls' basketball team — dribbling down the court and sinking shots from every angle. Student Council, Yearbook, and the newspaper staff would all be graced with her talent. And so would the art department — Mary Ann was voted "best girl artist" during her senior year in high school.

As an outgoing, very sociable young woman, Mary Ann was also adventurous. She and her twelve girl friends ditched school to spend a gorgeous spring day in the park. It was wonderful. And so was doing detention for the next two months! Naughty, naughty!

Mrs. Mooney has always loved English and was a proud part of her high school's literary society. But, believe it or not, even she once found the infamous "one legged A" on one of her English papers!

While we are in school and, even after school is over, Mrs. Mooney advises us "health, time, and education are your greatest assets and with them you can accomplish anything!"

Mr. Wolf

Les "the Wolfman" Wolf was an all-American teenager. He played Varsity Basketball and participated on the Varsity Track Team for two years, hoping one day to play for UCLA.

Les had an exciting life both at and away from school. At school, Les was an above average student, with only one vivid exception — a Spanish I class that he received a "D" in. Les also attended his Junior Prom sporting the "in" thing — a blue paisley tuxedo jacket — and took dares from his classmates like dressing up as a cheerleader for a Halloween dance. Away from school, Les worked as a parking attendant, and when he wasn't working, he was out playing. He had no curfew.

As a teenager, Les was outgoing with his friends and shy with anyone else. Now, however, this has changed considerably: Les is a teacher for the Science Department. He says that joining the Science Department was a challenge to himself.

Another challenge that Les took on this year was becoming the Yearbook Advisor. With a book of 376 pages that has earned a place in the top 100 out of 10,000 books at Taylor Publishing Company, this was quite an undertaking for him.

He has taken on these challenges, and they have all paid off. His best advice to all of us is to "Always strive to be the best you can be at all times."

Mr. Fitzpatrick

Dave "Fitzfumble" Fitzpatrick received his notorious nickname when he was varsity quarterback for his high school and he fumbled the football on his first two plays. Along with football, he also was a pole vaulter for his track team.

His involvement in high school went beyond athletics — Mr. Fitzpatrick was also Senior Class President. In fact, Mr. Fitzpatrick ditched school on a minimum day and went to the beach, believing that his high school administration would not check on him because of his esteemed position as President. But, sure enough, they called his mother, found out he was at the beach, and suspended him for three days!

When he wasn't at school (and when he wasn't ditching), Mr. Fitzpatrick worked in a machine shop and at Farrell's to support his dark blue '57 Chevy with which he cruised the local Bob's Big Boy with his friends.

Today, Mr. Fitzpatrick has a lovely wife and three kids, and he loves to spend time with them. He also teaches World and European History, along with coaching track, and freshman football which he is very proud of. And, most importantly, Mr. Fitzpatrick is enjoying life like never before!

Mrs. Epley

A graduate of '57, Sally Epley, known as Redskins by her high school chums, was somewhat shy but very popular. She was so shy with boys that she practiced conversations before going on dates. Sound familiar girls? However, Sally was actively involved in the Synchronized Swimming Team, the National Theatre of Speech and Drama, and the Honors Society. Sally worked as a Sales Clerk in high school and in a meat packing factory in college.

Picture this: Mrs. Epley attending a rich, conservative wedding in meat packing clothes after a hard day's work of slicing meat.

Besides working, Sally did manage to maintain her very high grades as well as have fun being on two sororities, Alpha Omega and Chi Omega with their "wild" parties. Mrs. Epley used to "borrow" red lanterns from construction sites and hang them on friends' doorways. In addition, Redskins and friends pulled up their car hoods to pick up guys.

An outstanding teacher is determined by his or her ability to understand, relate to, and educate kids, and Sally Epley has definitely got that down pat! We're lucky to have her as our English Department Coordinator at Baron Manor!

Wild Styles

This year, we have taken a poll asking faculty members what their wildest piece of clothing was in high school. Here are some of the answers:

Paisley sportscoat — P. Penahall
Orange socks — P. Doublet
Daffodil yellow pants — D. Scobell
Black tennis shoes — B. Seitzinger
Lederhosen — G. Reinhard
Leather flight jacket — J. Tadlock
Angora topped socks — C. Baron
Hawaiian shirt — B. Holder
Overalls with patches sewn on back — T. Reid
Turquoise pants — D. Fevergen
Orange and yellow striped shirt — S. Rhoten

Ms. Doublet

Patty held the roll of toilet paper tight in her hand, aiming with the precision and accuracy of a well trained pro. Then, with one sudden burst of energy, she let the roll fly, draping the house in one long, pink stream. At her signal her friends joined in, covering the house with toilet paper. With the suddenness and shock of an exploding star, the lights in the house came on. The friends whose house they were "decorating" ran out, beginning a high speed chase to end all high speed chases! This was just one of the many wild things that Miss Patricia Doublet did while she was in high school.

Patty, as she was called by her friends, wasn't real shy, but then again how can any drama student really be shy. She now teaches Theatre Arts at our school, and she is surely one of the youngest teachers at school (only 24)! Her school was different from ours; it was a private school, and the wildest thing she ever wore to school was orange socks to go with her school uniform.

Miss Doublet's greatest advice to FVHS students is to try to learn as much as possible, because believe it or not, when you get out of school you will really need all the stuff that you thought was stupid!

Mrs. Guite

Who's one of the most fun, most exciting people on campus? Of course, her name is Mrs. Guite!

Mrs. Guite's high school years, much like her life now, were filled with excitement and fun. There wasn't a day that went by without at least one smile, at least one laugh.

One of these smiles and maybe a laugh or two touched Mrs. Guite when she went on her first date. The name is now forgotten, but the fun times aren't. They went to a fast-paced game of basketball at Marina High.

Another date is remembered with great detail. It was Mrs. Guite's Prom, and she enjoyed it greatly. Her date for the prom, coincidentally, is still a good friend of hers.

Trying to become a part of the working world, Mrs. Guite spent many hours at jobs ranging from selling clothing to working at a dinner playhouse.

Currently, Mrs. Guite can be found teaching biology in the Science Hall. Science, in general, is one of Mrs. Guite's favorite areas of study. It's great to have such an exciting teacher helping students learn about biology and the world around them!

Prom

Have you ever wondered what ever happens to the Kings and Queens of past Proms? What do they become later in life?

Well, many of them become teachers! Ms. Strausburg was queen of her prom, and Mrs. Greenfield was wearing a white strapless formal dress with black velvet trim the night her date was crowned Prom King.

Some of our teachers had some very interesting stories to tell about their Proms. Mrs. Baron was not getting along with her boyfriend and had to go to the Prom with a friend; it wasn't a great experience. Mrs. Henkins' had a similarly tragic story. All her date could talk about were the baseball playoffs!

Of course, the large majority of the teachers loved the Prom. Mr. Scobell liked the Prom, even though he couldn't dance. Mr. Tadlock celebrated his Prom on the Princess Louise. He recalls trying to dance on a floor the size of a kitchen!

Others either didn't go to Prom or went several times. Mr. Seitzinger jokes the he was too ugly to get a date while Mrs. Chamberlain went to Prom every year!

Prom is a special occasion for everyone, even for teachers. Who knows? Maybe the Kings and Queens of today are the teachers of tomorrow!

EXTRA! EXTRA! READ ALL ABOUT IT. FOUNTAIN VALLEY GETS NEW BIOLOGY TEACHER!

"Kurth? What's a Kurth?" commented many students as they approached the biology room. When they arrived to class, they ran into a pretty normal-looking man with clashing clothes who was full of fascinating stories, interesting lectures, and even a few Legos and different toys for demonstrations. Stories of Puerto Rico thrilled the students of his class. Lectures on cellular respiration led into a discussion of his wife, whom he married last summer. His ability to relate any topic to the particular area of biology was truly amazing; it was a welcome break from the pounding of material that science classes traditionally create.

Although Mr. Kurth did not know what to expect on the first day, it turned out that he was very impressed by the level of thinking at Fountain Valley. He jumped right in and became the advisor for the Baron Academy of Science, which happened to have its most successful year. He got to know other teachers and even opened his room at lunch for students to hang out or discuss material that they did not understand with him. All of the students seem to get along with him and his style of teaching. Welcome to FVHS, Mr. Kurth!

Mrs. Shepard

Did you ever see a young girl named Dee Dee bagging clothes at Lerners clothing stores? If you did, it must have been Adriana Shepard, one of our Spanish teachers here at Fountain Valley. Dee Dee was a nickname she adopted during junior high school. Her first (and worst) job was at Lerners. For some reason, her employers at Lerners would only let Mrs. Shepard bag clothes. She was not allowed to ring up purchases; even when asked to by customers. Away from work, and at school, Mrs. Shepard had likes and dislikes. Her favorite subject was Spanish; she enjoyed learning the language and all of its customs. Her worst subject was Geometry. She hated her Geometry class and Geometry teacher so much that one day she and her friend jumped out of a window while the teacher wasn't looking.

Mrs. Shepard has visited the two main countries the Spanish language is spoken in: Spain and Mexico. She admits that she has received an "F" grade for a class. She fought daily with an English instructor in college until finally she walked out and never returned.

Mrs. Shepard attended Morningside High School in Inglewood, then Long Beach State University, and then Fountain Valley where she has become one of our greatest Spanish teachers.

Many of you remember filling out those yellow teacher polls many months ago. With these polls, we have compiled, for the first time, a teacher favorites list. Much like senior favorites, these teachers have been chosen in certain categories as outstanding in that category by the people who see them in action the most — us! Here at FVHS our teachers have distinct personalities, and it definitely holds true for the teachers mentioned on these pages!

Untamed

So far, you've been treated to many "Born to be Wild" ideas. You've seen many versions of wild — everything from the totally crazy to the bizarre streak in our faculty.

Wild has many meanings, however. It can be very madcap and very silly, but it can also be very unique.

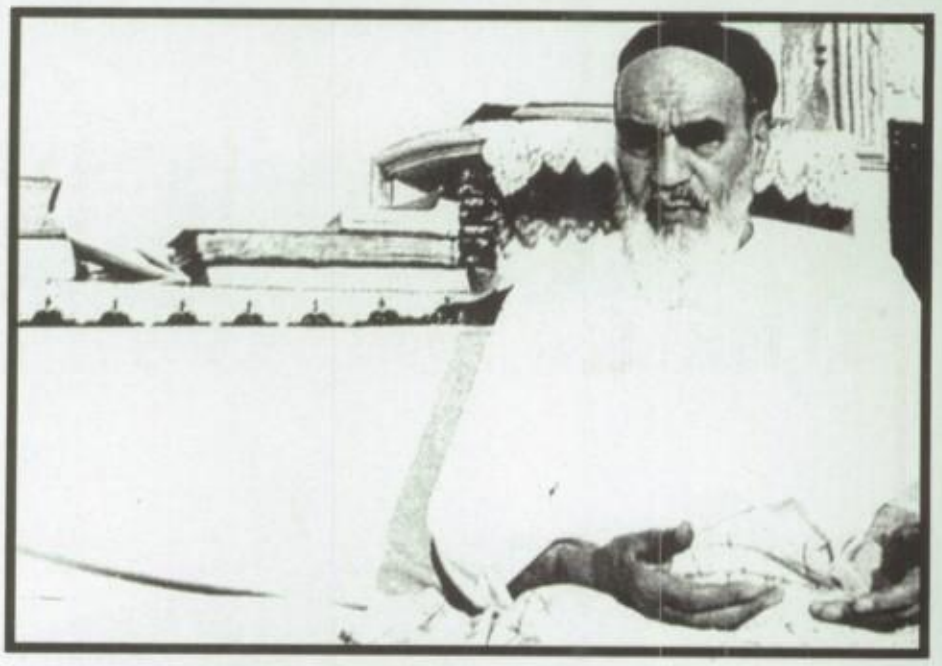
This is "Untamed!" — a unique section of this book that, in a very vivid way, portrays the events of the past year and gives a small hint of what's still to come.

The events of the year were both happy and exciting as well as reflective and even sad. It was a once-in-a-lifetime year that will never be repeated. Both on campus and throughout the nation and the world, the people, places, and events of 1986-87 are a fresh, vivid memory. Some will be fleeting memories — forgotten in a few months; some will last a lifetime.

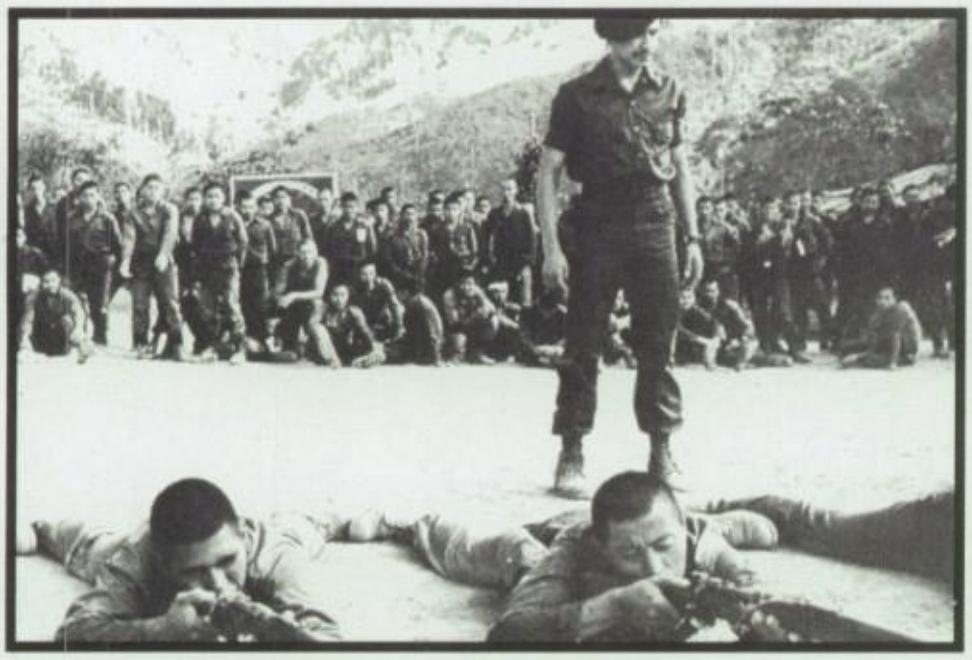
Here, in these pages, the memories will last a lifetime. While looking through this section, enjoy it but consider it thoughtfully as well. What does all of this mean to us? Why did this all happen? What will happen now?

The year in pictures and in words — UNTAMED!

ERASERHEAD



The Faces and Events of 1986-87



The Issues

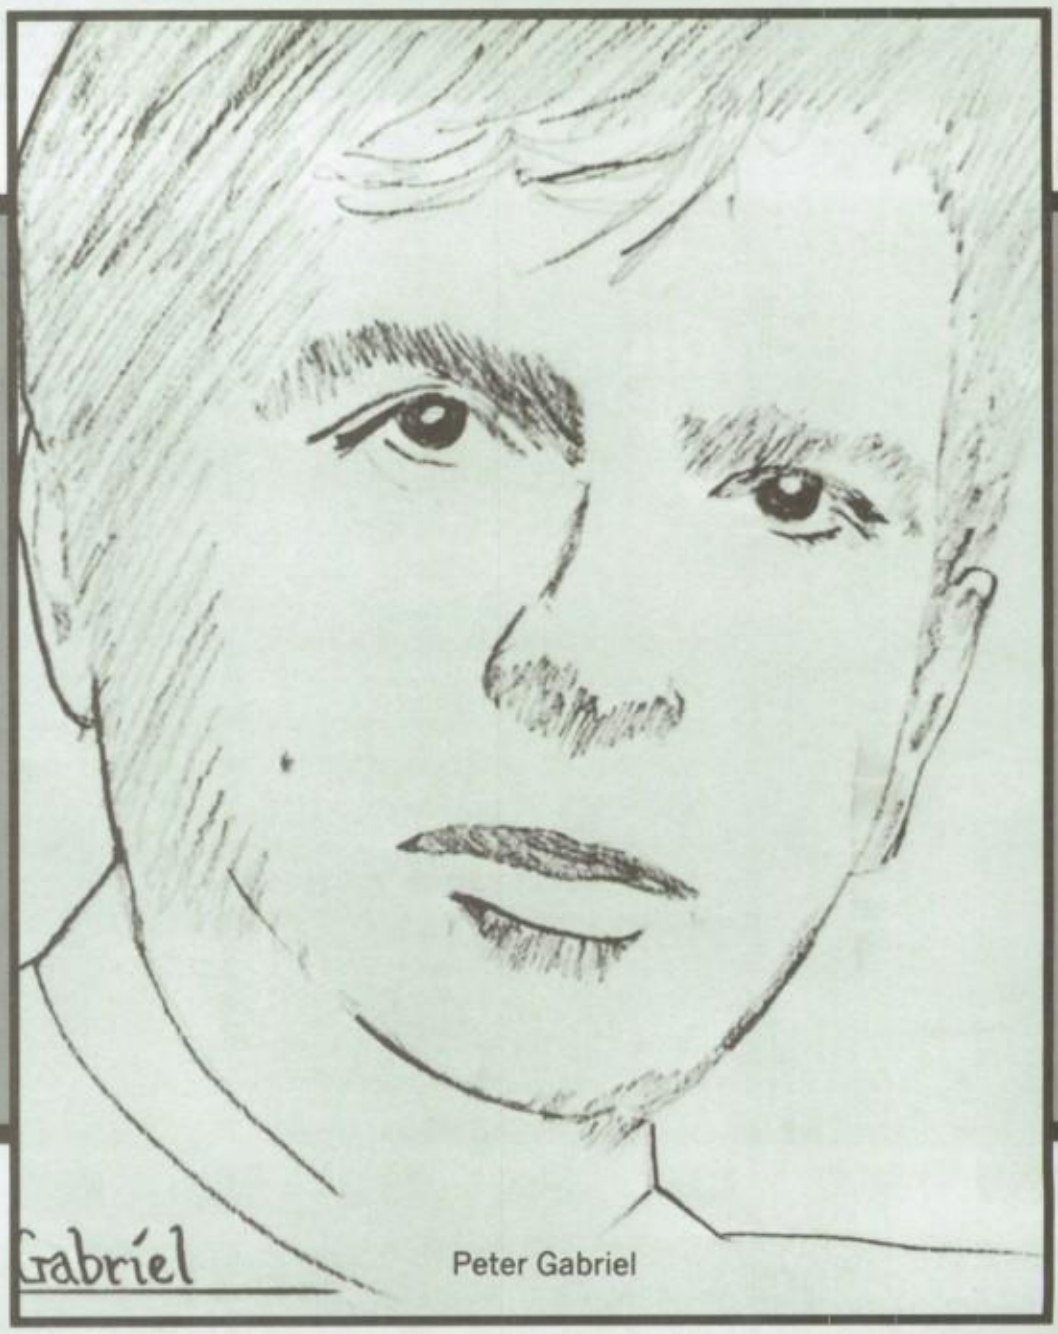
The Faces and Events of 1986-87 — there were so many! On the international scale, the Soviets offered to reduce and, eventually, to eliminate medium-range nuclear missiles, and they made some progress in the area of human rights. The Reagan administration was embarrassed by two revelations — the Iran Arms Scandal and the press' discovery that the bombing of Libya by the United States on April 15, 1986 was actually an attempt to assassinate Quaddafi, a flagrant violation of several presidential directives prohibiting assassination as an instrument of policy. Support for the Contras waxed and eventually, waned in view of the Iran Arms Scandal diversion of funds to the Contras.

Here at home, a Democratic majority was elected for both the Senate and the House of Representatives. And the issues of abortion, school prayer, and surrogate motherhood were addressed by the courts and by the public.

On the lighter side, Clint Eastwood, star of the Dirty Harry films, was elected mayor of Carmel. And, of course, he said that it really "made his day."

1986 and 1987 were two very active years both internationally and here at home. Many events, both happy and sad, continually evolved during this period. It was a long year full of triumphs and tragedies; it was the faces and events of 1986-87.

Entertainment in 1986-87



Peter Gabriel

Music and Movies

The 1986-87 year was memorable both in music and at the movies.

In an ongoing break from the "pop synth" movement, the guitar was "rediscovered" by many groups who have combined them with synthesizers to produce sound reminiscent of the 60's. Dramarama, Gene Loves Jezebel, and Love and Rockets made their mark on stations like KROQ.

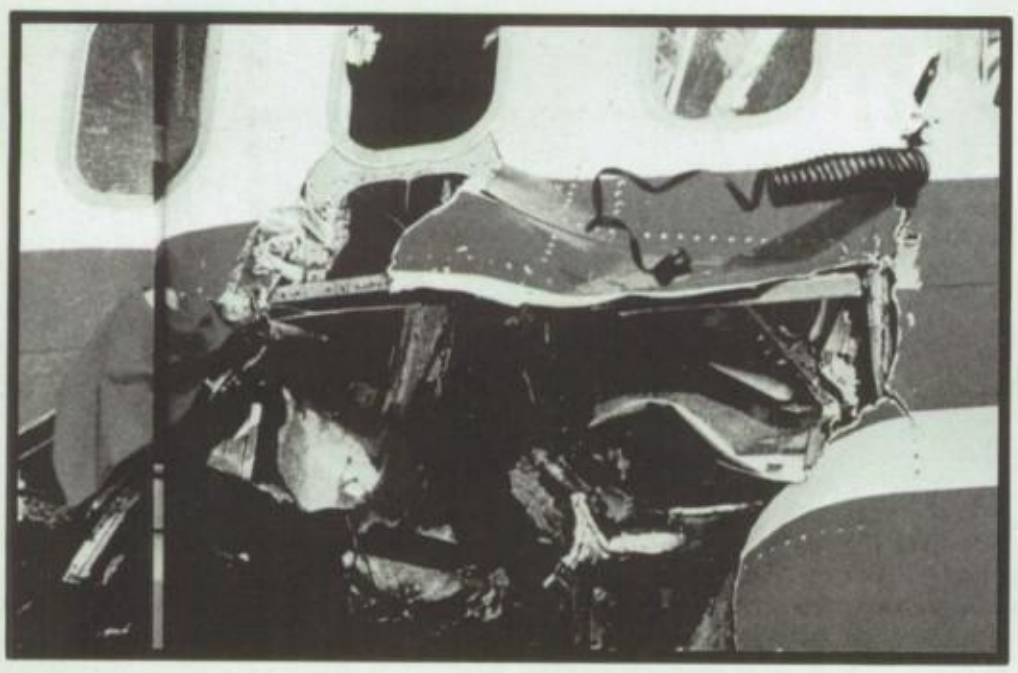
The "pop synth" movement, however, held its own with artists such as Howard Jones, Steve Winwood, Peter Gabriel, New Order, Janet Jackson, and Depeche Mode.

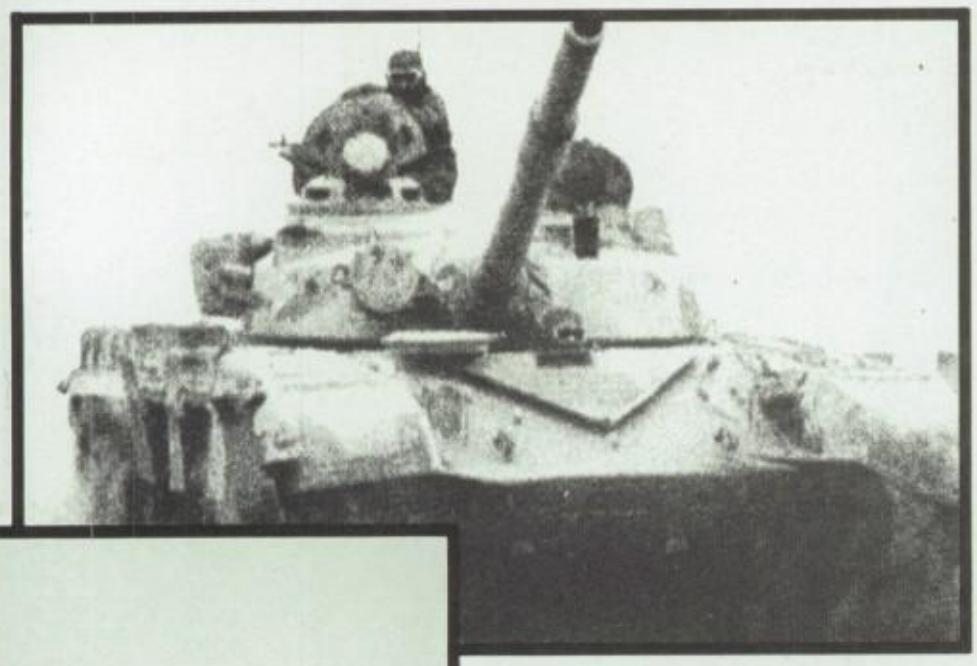
Some of the groups that emerged as FVHS favorites during the year were the Beastie Boys, Run DMC, the Smiths, Dramarama, Gene Loves Jezebel, and Depeche Mode.

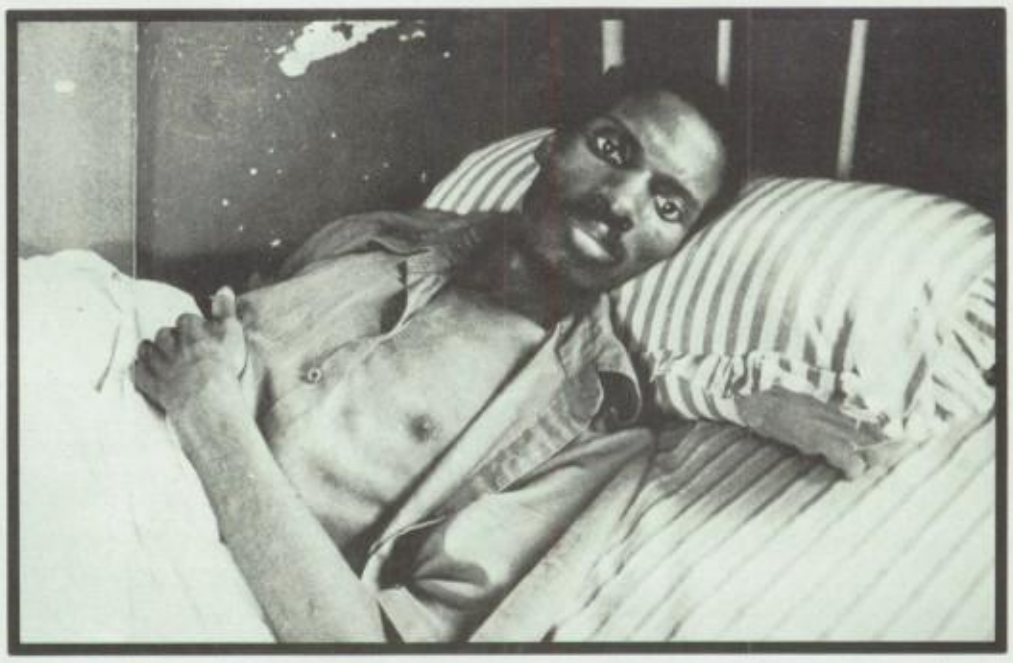
By far, the most powerful movie of the year was Platoon. It moved audiences across the nation. Other movies that did well included Children of a Lesser God, The Mission, Crocodile Dundee, and, of course, Top Gun.

With all the variety available in both movies and music, it's easy to see why 1986-87 was the year for entertainment!

Nostalgia







"The sound of waves in a pool of water;
I'm drowning in my nostalgia."
— David Sylvian, "Nostalgia" from the album Brilliant Trees

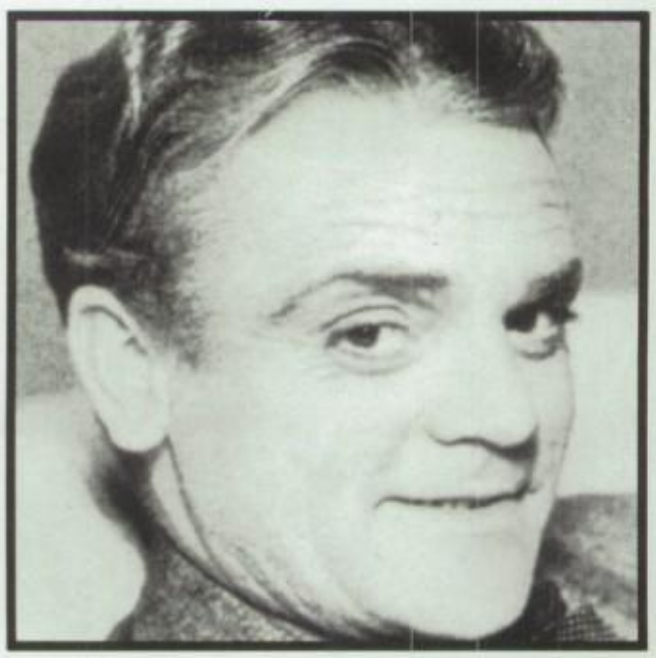
Sad to See You Go



Twilight

Twilight. A single man walks the old pier, every weather-worn wooden plank trembling under his heavy step. The crimson sun sets beneath a distant island, casting its outline in a dusky red. The water is quiet, almost motionless, waiting . . .

He glares at the darkness spreading lethargically all around him. Why all the darkness? he silently pleads.

In front of him, the darkness whispers to the water, soothing it to sleep. Behind him, a city is cradled in long gray arms as its pace slows and then almost stops.

"Sad to see you go," whispers the man as the sun slides beneath the ocean, fading to a faint glow as the waters quench its flame.

Suddenly aware of the darkness surrounding him, he moves back over the pier to his car.

Light to dark, dark to light — the cycle continues, he considers thoughtfully. And there's always tomorrow.

His mood grows lighter with each step. He smiles. Yes, there's always tomorrow.

FROM THE DARKROOM

PHOTOGRAPHER /pho tog ra pher/, n. one who photographs; especially, one whose business is taking photographs.

PHOTOGRAPHER/ a realistic definition (ie. the YEARBOOK PHOTOGRAPHER), n. 1. the one who is a scapegoat for irate section editors whose deadline is less than a success. 2. One who gets yelled at by coaches when their team is losing or when the coach "just doesn't want the picture taken yet." 3. One who spends their valuable lunchtime taking activities pictures. 4. One who always get caught sneaking into zero period at 7:15 instead of a prompt 7:00. 5. One who waits to shoot a group picture of a club whose members don't bother to show up. 6. One who stays in the darkroom for hours printing pictures for an editor that says, he's "not going to use them." 7. One who takes the blame for any picture that an editor can't find. 8a. One who cordially accepts a request from a person who does NOT want their picture taken. 8b. One who, at the end of the year, ends up hearing, "Why isn't my picture in the book!" from the very SAME people who didn't want their picture taken before!

Okay, the life of a yearbook photographer is NOT a pretty sight! It's full of stressful, last minute deadlines, irate section editors, and a constant need for supplies that just never seem to be there.

But it definitely does have its rewards, the best being this yearbook. We'd like to thank the people who helped us produce this year, in the best and the worst of times.

First there's our ever-reliable Mr. Ewers. What can we say? Team photos, mug shots, clubs — you were always there for us. Thanks for everything! To all of the staff at Pacific Photography, a tremendous thank you for all of your help with supplies, especially at short notice.

And, of course, we'd like to thank our photo staff. Kathy, your wild pictures and candids really helped us appease the demanding appetites of the section editors. Tiffany, thanks for all the times you got stuck doing darkroom set up and did it without complaining too much. And Bob, thanks for all your work too.

We hope you enjoy all of the work we, the photo staff, and the entire yearbook staff have completed to create this — the 1986-87 yearbook.

All those late nights, all those cans of Coke, all those late pizza deliveries, all those headaches, all those insults passed among the editors, all those minutes of Depeche Mode, and all those minutes that I'm sure none of us will ever forget, was it worth it? You bet it was. Thank you all for the effort that you guys put forth. Remember, Janice, Robert, Steve, Erik, Heather, Caroline, Wendy, Chris, Cathy, Dave, Mike, we're born to be wild, now and forever.

REFLECTIONS

I glanced at my watch and did a double-take.

3:00 in the morning! "Erik," I prodded, stumbling over my words in a half-awake stupor, "how soon 'til you're done?"

He glared at me with drooping, bloodshot eyes, "I've got to wait for Steve to finish typing the copy!"

I put a finger to my lips, silencing him. My family had been asleep for about four hours. They had slept through our laughing, my Japan, Sylvian, Bowie, and Depeche tapes, and the pizza delivery. "I'll see how the typing's going," I offered, shuffling to the nearby den.

Steve's fingers were a blur as they flew over the keys. He heard me come in and stopped abruptly. Looking me in the eyes, he very quietly, very calmly asserted, "I quit."

Deadline nights! It took at least seven of these all-night meetings at my home this year to produce the 1986-87 Raconteur that you now hold in your hands. Ask any section editor, photographer, or staff member. They were a grotesque tradition that we all grew to accept and, somehow, to enjoy!

My two goals this year were to make the best book Fountain Valley High School has ever seen and to make the most innovative book as well. Placing in the top 100 yearbooks out of 10,000 across the nation confirmed that our goals were realistic. The book is everything I had hoped it would be.

Usually, the Editor's Note ends up being a list of "thank you's." Although I have tried to break all the rules and traditions this year, there are several people I would like to thank. First of all, the yearbook staff — you made it possible! Mr. Ewers and Mr. Eddy, I can't thank you enough! Mr. Ewers, you always came through for our photographers, and Mr. Eddy, you always came through for me when I had this great idea . . . but not even the faintest idea on how to put it on a Quad-Pak!

Photographers, you usually are the thankless ones, but not this year. Janice and Mike, thank you for running our photo staff, even on the tightest deadline. And Janice, thanks for all the rescues you performed during the year and for showing me that a photographer can indeed do a layout! Cathy, your wild pictures made the book. Bob, Jay, Tiffany — many thanks for all of the last minute "Oh, I need this one print . . ." prints!

Section Editors — we did everything we ever set out to do! You all did fantastic work! Erik, Steve, and Dave — thanks for helping with all of the deadlines and for putting up with my music most of the time. Steve, when you took the Co-Editors spot. I never thought that you'd take it as far as you did. I appreciate the many things you did for me and for the yearbook. And Erik, what can be said about you? It was fun, and you definitely made it that way!

Hale, Amy, Kyle, and Juliana, your work on the opening section and your ideas on the closing section were greatly appreciated.

A big thank you and wishes for the best of luck to Les Wolf, our rookie advisor who put up with a great deal during his first year! Also, thanks to my parents for not only tolerating, but for becoming a part of them.

There is one last thank you. And it's to you, the reader. Without you, there would be no Raconteur! Enjoy it now and in the years to come.

1986-1987 is now over. For the seniors this will be their last year being together with friends before everyone goes their own separate ways, even the underclass will find themselves in this situation some day. Keeping the close friendship after school is over will be difficult — just like the words from OMD's If You Leave, "I need you now like I need you then . . ."
